Critics Fear Policy May Lead to War.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—With his parting defiance of the dictators as he set out to review America's sea power in the Caribbean war games President Roosevelt left behind him a capital seething with controversy over our foreign policies.

On every side critics of the President are asserting that he is pursuing a policy that can scarcely fail to plunge the country into a foreign war. The President's motives are the subject of no end of speculation. All sorts of theories of his objective, ranging from high principled motives to the sinister, are being advanced on Capitol hill.

Third Term Question Up.

The third term question keeps bobbing up in the discussion. Democratic leaders in congress, it is now recalled, have quoted the President as saying to them privately that he does not expect to be a candidate for a third term unless the country should be at war or in danger of becoming involved in war. In such event he would regard it his duty to stand for reëlection to a third term in order to spare the country from the hazard of swapping horses while crossing a stream.

Opponents of the President acidly comment that his constant fomentation of a war scare is tending to produce the situation visualized as justifying a third term candidacy.

Defenders of Mr. Roosevelt attribute to him a far seeing statesmanship, prescribing that the surest way to keep America out of war is to aid Great Britain and France in checking Dictators Hitler and Mussolini before they can attack the United States.

Policy Attacked by Nye.

Senator Gerald P. Nye [R., N. D.], says that the President is proceeding on the "fallacious and erroneous" assumption that America would be drawn into another European war. According to the senator's view the President "is seeking to draw a red herring across the trail of his failures in domestic policies. He is seeking by appeals to emotion to win support for a program which would be rejected by the common sense of men. Whatever the President's motives he is urging us to pursue a course which in the years to come may lead us to a disastrous end."

One theory is that the President is endeavoring to work up a public sentiment favorable to revision of the neutrality act in such manner as to give him complete discretion to take sides in a foreign war.

Propose Neutrality Change.

Mr. Roosevelt is reputed to look with favor upon the amendment of the act proposed by Senator Elbert D. Thomas [D., Utah] providing that whenever the President finds that a nation signatory to a treaty to which the United States is a party is engaged in a war with a second nation, in violation of that treaty, he may, with the approval of both branches of congress, exempt the second nation from the American embargo on exports of arms, provided the second nation is not engaged in war in violation of the treaty.

Such provision would enable the United States to supply arms to Great Britain and France in a war with Germany and Italy.

Alignment Made Clear.

In going over the heads of the army high command to permit France to obtain an American bombing plane regarded as our "No. 1 military secret," and by declaring that our first line of defense is in France, the President removed all doubt that he is aligning America with Great Britain and France in the struggle with the dictatorships. That action came hard upon the heels of public denunciations of the dictators by the President and cabinet members.

Mrs. Roosevelt also has become extremely active in propagandizing against isolation.

"We have got to know what America will do in the event of war," she said the other day.

"We cannot decide this question is none of our business. We must be in the lead in solving it. Otherwise the world will go down hill and the next generation may see the end of civilization."

REPORT TO ASK SAFEGUARD FOR U. OF I. STUDENTS

Special Jury Sought for Cleanup.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Champaign, Ill., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—A plan for a cleanup of vice and gambling in Champaign will be laid before Acting Governor John Stelle in Springfield tomorrow. The program includes a drastic move—a grand jury investigation under the direction of Attorney General John E. Cassidy, who would supersede the state's attorney of Champaign county.

This, it was learned tonight, will be the recommendation of T. P. Sullivan, head of the state department of criminal investigation. Sullivan would not discuss details, but it is known that he will go to Stelle with a mass of evidence.

Sullivan and his aids have been digging into conditions in Champaign since a University of Illinois student was fatally wounded Thursday morning in front of a disorderly resort.

Finds Saloons Open All Night.

Champaign and its sister city, Urbana, house the state university and its students. More than 12,000 young men and women go to school here. No complaints have been made concerning conditions in Urbana. Sullivan's investigators found that vice was flourishing in Champaign up to the time of the slaying of the student. Gambling was wide open and saloons stayed open all night.

Acting Governor Stelle will receive Sullivan's report in Springfield at a conference to be attended by Attorney General Cassidy, Arthur Cutts Willard, president of the university, and members of the board of trustees. Quick and forceful action is expected to follow.

State investigators, it was reported, found Sherif Bert Walker of Champaign county willing to coöperate, but received no assistance from State's Attorney Fred Hamill.

Asks Citizens to Coöperate.

"If citizens will coöperate with law enforcing authorities," Sherif Walker said, "we soon can bring an end to these conditions. For my office to act, we must have signed complaints. Anonymous phone calls and letters are of no help."

Mayor James D. Flynn and police officials were said to regard the case as closed with the arrest and the booking of Mrs. Margaret Strothers on a murder charge. She fired the shot that brought death to William Spurrier, Toledo, O., sophomore who, with five other students, tried to enter her resort at 1:30 a. m. Thursday.

Acting Governor Stelle will be told, it was believed, that conditions such as brought to light by the Spurrier slaying have existed in Champaign and Champaign county for years. "For its size, Champaign is one of the rottenest cities in the country," one investigator whose report will be laid before the state officials declared last night.

Cassidy Can Take Charge.

The attorney general may supersede the state's attorney of a county when it is shown that the state's attorney is absent, is an interested party, or is unwilling to act. In any of these cases the attorney general then can go before a Circuit judge with a request that a grand jury investigation be authorized.

One of the purposes of the state inquiry, it was said, will be to discover if any of the Champaign and county officials concerned is guilty of malfeasance, misfeasance or nonperformance of duty. The political tieup without which no disorderly houses nor gambling joints can operate also will be under fire.

Meets University Officials.

Sullivan took charge of the investigation here today. First he conferred with two of his aids, Thomas C. Piper and Ross C. Saunders, then was closeted with Charles Havens, manager of physical properties at the university. Tonight Sullivan left for Springfield to make his report tomorrow morning.

Student leaders in a meeting tonight unanimously adopted a resolution asking "immediate and drastic action" on the part of state officials in eliminating vice and gambling in Champaign and Urbana. The resolution, adopted jointly by the student senate and the class council, termed "existing conditions" a "blot on the character of more than 12,000 students."

TRYING TO DROWN OUT THEIR VOICES

Lt. Proxmire Killed as Plane Falls Into Lake

Second Lieutenant Theodore S. Proxmire Jr., army flyer and son of Dr. Theodore S. Proxmire, Lake Forest physician, was killed yesterday when his plane crashed into Lake Santa Fe at Waldo, Fla., about fifty miles west of St. Augustine. Second Lieutenant Budd Marks of Minneapolis, Minn., narrowly escaped injury when he wrecked his plane in making an emergency landing to go to Proxmire's aid.

Theodore S. Proxmire Jr.

Lieut. Proxmire, who was 25 years old, and Lieut. Marks were flying army pursuit planes inspecting Florida airports. They had taken off from Valparaiso, Fla., where their squadron from Selfridge field, Mich., is holding maneuvers.

Motor Failure Blamed.

As Lieut. Proxmire was flying over Lake Santa Fe his motor failed. His plane fell into the lake. It sank in 15 feet of water.

Lieut. Marks attempted to land in a plowed field. The ship nosed over, shaking but not injuring him. He climbed out quickly and ran to the lake shore but was unable to help his companion.

Lieut. Proxmire was born in Lake Forest. The family home is at 570 East Deerpath road in the suburb. He attended Hill school in Pennsylvania and was graduated from Yale in 1936. He entered the army air service soon afterward.

Parents in Arkansas.

His father, Dr. Proxmire, is physician to many north shore families. During the war Dr. Proxmire held the rank of colonel and was commandant of the military hospital at Fort Sheridan. He is a member of the staff of the Highland Park hospital and the Alice Home hospital in Lake Forest.

Dr. and Mrs. Proxmire were in Hot Springs, Ark., at the time of the tragedy. Another son, E. William Proxmire, a student at the Harvard school of business, and a daughter, Adele, now attending the Bronxville school in New York, also survive.

LONDON THIEVES TAKE $25,000 IN FURS; PASS UP QUEEN'S DRESSES

LONDON, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Thieves broke into the Mayfair salon of a dressmaker to Queen Elizabeth today and stole furs valued at $25,000. The thieves passed up several exclusive models selected by the queen for her forthcoming visit to Canada and the United States. Costly dresses designed for other members of the royal family in the establishment, operated by Normal Hartnell, also were among the untouched stock. So thoroughly did the raiders do the job, detectives said, that they took along a woman to act as mannequin while they made their selections.

PEDIGREE? WELL, HE'S A DOG AND BIG FOR HIS AGE

Mrs. Geraldine Danker and her four children always wanted a big dog. Now they have one, Duffy. Duffy arrived in the Danker home at 1717 Pratt boulevard last week as a present from a friend vacationing in Florida. Veterinarians disagree on his breed. Some say he's part St. Bernard, others that he's a Pyrenean sheep hound. All agree that he's huge.

When Duffy stands on his hind legs his head is more than 5 feet 5 inches from the ground. The dog weighs 135 pounds. It devours sandwiches, steaks, and half loaves of bread at one gulp. And, as Mrs. Danker said yesterday, he's only 10 months old. Wait until he grows up!

Asks Closing of Street to Surprise Husband

Boston, Mass., Feb. 19.—(AP)—"Will you please close my street to trafic for three hours," an anxious housewife telephoned to Police Lieutenant Hugh Brady. "I'm baking a surprise cake for my husband and I'm afraid that the automobiles and trucks passing by may cause it to fall. That would be terrible." Brady explained he couldn't inconvenience motorists for one cake.

18 Years Later Milk Bottle Thief Squares Up by Mail

Hastings, Neb., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—H. J. Dunn today received a letter containing a money order for fifty cents and this message: "In 1921 I stole milk bottles from your porch. They were selling at 10 cents each at that time. I am inclosing 50 cents to make this thing right." The letter was sent from Canoga Park, Cal.

Seeks Father's Grave; Finds He's Still Alive

BY MARCIA WINN.

Mrs. Elsie Petersen's father died, her mother told her, when she was a baby. That was forty-five years ago.

Through the years Elsie often inquired about him. She wondered what he looked like, what his business had been, and where he died. But her mother, who lives with Mrs. Petersen at 6231 North Francisco avenue, would tell her nothing.

A week ago Elsie took matters into her own hands. She decided to look for her father's grave in the family lot at Concordia cemetery in Forest Park.

Unable to Find Grave.

The family lot was there, but she could not find her father's grave. She asked the superintendent if Louis Wolter was not buried there.

"Louis Wolter?" the superintendent asked in surprise. "Why, he lives right next door, in the German Old People's home."

Elsie went home hastily and demanded an explanation of her mother, Mrs. Hulda Verkler. Mrs. Verkler said maybe so, maybe not. She hadn't heard of Mr. Wolter since she divorced him forty-five years ago.

So yesterday Elsie, who is nearing 46 and has a son 21 years old, went to the Old People's home. She hurried into the room where Mr. Wolter and his present and fourth wife, Minnie, live.

Father Is Bewildered.

"I'm Elsie," she told him. "I'm your daughter."

Old Mr. Wolter, who is 77 now, shook his head in bewilderment.

"But you were just learning to walk the last time I saw you," he protested.

Then he looked more closely, and smiled. This woman, whose hair was graying now, had his hazel eyes, his aquiline nose, his Teutonic chin.

"She could have looked me up long ago," he said in an aside to his gay, bubbling little wife.

"Why didn't you look me up?" countered Elsie.

"Every day for a long time they passed my shop—her mother and the baby," he continued. "They didn't even stop. I've been in Chicago all the time, a good carpenter, too."

"And I didn't know it at all," sighed his little wife. "O, my, isn't it wonderful? Why," happily, "it's just like a story!"

Engine Runs Wild; Meets Train; Two Die

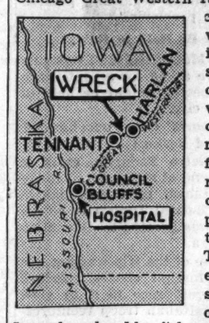
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Harlan, Ia., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Chicago Great Western railroad officials tonight were tracing the strange circumstances which caused a runaway freight locomotive to crash into a passenger train near Tennant, eight miles southwest of Harlan. Two trainmen were killed and twenty passengers and three trainmen were injured.



Scene of wreck and hospital where injured were taken.

The crash occurred at 10:30 o'clock last night on a curve four miles from Tennant, when the Twin City Limited, twenty-two minutes late on the way from Omaha to St. Paul, was traveling about fifty miles an hour. Speed of the wild freight locomotive, which was pushing a steel car of shelled corn ahead of it, is unknown.

The force of the impact was so terrific that the passenger locomotive was crushed and turned around. Passenger Engineer Henry Miller of Clarion, Ia., was killed and his fireman, John Sellers, also of Clarion, was injured and died two hours later.

Crash Smashes Steel Car.

The collision also smashed the steel car and ripped the boiler and cab off the freight locomotive. The tender, mail and baggage cars of the passenger train were derailed. The coaches in which twenty-four persons left Omaha only a short time before stayed on the rails.

The strange circumstances which resulted in the wreck started back in Tennant where Engineer John Anderson and Fireman Ed Sharp, both of Council Bluffs, were engaged in "spotting" freight cars on a 2,000 foot siding in front of the town's freight depot.

The siding connects at both ends with the single track main line of the railroad. Engineer Anderson had left a string of cars standing on the main line, blocking the east end of the siding and then backed into the siding from the west with the car of corn. He was backing the locomotive slowly when a steam pipe burst and scalded him seriously. Fireman Sharp leaped from the cab, unhurt, and then returned and dragged Anderson from the engine. When the locomotive reached the end of the siding it struck the cars on the main line and upset four of them.

Locomotive Is Reversed.

Then in some manner, whether by the jar from the impact or by some act of Anderson before he was taken out of the cab, the locomotive was reversed. The siding is on a grade and the locomotive could have rolled out on the main line by gravity.

When the locomotive reached the main line, still traveling down grade it picked up speed and ran for four miles straightaway until it smashed head-on into the passenger train on the curve. Because the box car was in front of the locomotive, the crew of the passenger train could not see the headlight and had no chance to prepare for the impending crash.

The wrecked locomotives were taken to Oelwein today for inspection by interstate commerce and rail officials. An inquiry will be conducted Tuesday in St. Paul.

Sharp, the freight fireman, was silenced by railroad officials and sent out on a run tonight. Anderson, too badly scalded to talk, and seventeen others were in Council Bluffs hospitals tonight.

REBEL CHIEFTAIN BARS LOYALIST PLEA FOR MERCY

Plans of Britain and France Periled.

PARIS, Feb. 19—(AP)—Spanish nationalist [rebel] insistence on the unconditional surrender of republican [loyalist] Spain threatened tonight to disrupt plans for ending the civil war and for French and British recognition of the Burgos régime.

Count Jordana, spokesman for Franco.

Reports reaching the French government from Burgos said Generalissimo Francisco Franco through his foreign minister Count Francisco Gomez Jordana had refused flatly to forego reprisals against republican leaders in case of their surrender.

The British and French governments were understood to have made a general amnesty their own condition for full recognition of the nationalist régime as the legal Spanish government. The republican government, through President Manuel Azana, had authorized Britain and France to negotiate peace on such a basis.

French Envoy Informed.

Franco's unbending stand was said to have been communicated to Senator Leon Berard, French emissary to nationalist Spain, who arrived last night in Burgos.

The Nationalists were said to have told Berard that Franco considered he alone had the right to set the conditions for ending the war.

In addition to contending that the Nationalist government could end the war without intervention of any foreign government, Burgos authorities were reported further to have demanded that representatives of government premier, Juan Negrin, come to them to surrender.

They said Franco would demand that all the government's artillery and fighting planes be handed over to him as "guaranties of good faith" in return for his acceptance of the government's unconditional surrender.

The French and British governments were expected to confer as a result of the nationalist decision.

Still Withhold Recognition.

The French government has been represented as unwilling to extend full diplomatic recognition to the nationalists unless they promised to spare the lives of government leaders and sympathizers.

Berard, following a late night conference with Count Jordana, said he was "very pleased" with the progress of the negotiations. The senator said he would visit the French consulate at San Sebastian tomorrow and return to Burgos on Wednesday for a final conference with the nationalist foreign minister.

On his arrival in Burgos yesterday, the French senator was said to have conferred with Sir Robert M. Hodgson, British commercial agent in nationalist Spain.

Sir Robert saw Count Gomez Jordana in Burgos and left immediately for the French frontier where he was believed last night to have made a long report to London by telephone.

French Cabinet to Meet.

The French cabinet has been summoned to meet Tuesday.

Senator Berard, while Sir Robert went to France, continued negotiations yesterday and today with nationalist officials in what seemed to be a regular schedule of talks.

After the Frenchman's conferences today, however, a nationalist foreign office spokesman was quoted as saying:

"Please note that one must not give excessive importance to these talks. It is not a question of negotiation, but only a simple exchange of views and general information brought up by resumption of normal relations between nationalist Spain and the French republic. You can observe, moreover, that the Spanish press does not speak of them."

Madrid Shelled Again.

While the conferences proceeded actual fighting in Spain's 31 month old civil war marked time except for continued nationalist shelling of Madrid and an air bombardment of Alicante and other points.

Premier Negrin's cabinet, whose supporters still hold a bare one-fourth of Spain, again has dispersed. Reassembled in Madrid after being scattered by Franco's conquest of Catalonia, the ministries decided Friday to spread over the government-held central zone between Madrid and the Mediterranean coast.

Most have moved close to Valencia, but some others have gone farther south into Murcia province.

Insists on Own Terms.

BURGOS, Spain, Feb. 19.—(AP)—An informed nationalist [rebel] source reiterated tonight that Gen. Francisco Franco was ready to accept capitulation of republican [loyalist] Spain only upon his own terms.

These terms, as announced previously, include "unconditional surrender," his guarantee that there would be no reprisals, and stipulations that republicans accused of high crimes must face trial in courts which may decree death for those convicted and that government sympathizers responsible for prolonging resistance may be exiled or stripped of citizenship.

This source, who is close to the foreign office, disclosed that Franco and his council of ministers in the last session where the entire foreign political situation was reviewed had decided to adhere without deviation to the generalissimo's terms.

Shuns Outside Intervention.

Nationalist policy was reported to be particularly clear on the following point—that Franco does not need outside intervention to bring about the end of the war.

It also was pointed out that what Sir Robert M. Hodgson, British commercial agent in nationalist Spain, may have to say probably would carry more influence with the nationalists than any representative of France.

This belief was based particularly on the fact that nationalists have charged that arms were sent to republican Spain by way of the French frontier even four days after Barcelona fell, on Jan. 26, and that Britain at least had accorded some form of recognition to the nationalists.

Franco himself has said he was anxious to end the civil war quickly, but on his own terms and not by bargaining with the other side.

Murderers Must Answer.

He repeatedly has assured Britain and other nations that there would be no reprisals—but in nationalist eyes that means aside from the political penalties he has decreed and that also he is adamant on the point that republicans charged with murder or treason must face tribunals as they would in peace-time and be willing to accept whatever punishment might be handed down.

Senator Berard's visit so far has been successful in that he has found the nationalists ready to coöperate to normalize telephone, telegraph, railway, and commercial facilities between Spain and France, but he was unable to obtain any commitments on political questions.

SPANISH REBELS PAROLE BRITON SEIZED AS SPY

BURGOS, Spain, Feb. 19.—(AP)—British Proconsul Ernest Golding and his wife, arrested at San Sebastian on Jan. 2 in connection with the "dirty shirt" spy case, were released on parole today. They were taken into custody by Spanish nationalist [rebel] agents, who said they were linked to espionage activities through documents seized at Irun on Dec. 19. The documents were wrapped in a soiled shirt which had been secreted in a British diplomatic pouch.

Chinese New Year Quiet; Funds Saved to Aid War

The Chinese New Year which started Saturday night was not celebrated by Chicago Chinese because of the war in their homeland. The halt in the customary extravagant and colorful festivities was dictated by economy. Chicago Chinese, who have been sending money home to aid their war stricken people, used their customary holiday funds to swell these contributions.

Italian Type Planes Bomb Spanish Port of Alicante

MADRID, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Five Italian-type nationalist [rebel] bombers were reported today to have wrecked several buildings in the government-held port of Alicante. No casualties were reported. Air raid alarms, reports said, gave the population time to reach shelters and most of the fifty bombs dropped fell into a ravine near the Alicante-Madrid highway.

COMMON FRONT OF FRANCO, DUCE AND HITLER SEEN

Would Unify Plan to Deal with Democracies.

ROME, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Reports circulated here today of the possibility of a German-Italian-Spanish conference to form a common front toward the democracies.

Marshal Badoglio, Italian chief of staf, pays mystery visit to Libya.

The newspaper Il Messagero published a dispatch from Paris saying reports from Berlin, among other sources, declared such a meeting was imminent.

The conferees, it was said, would be Premier Mussolini, Reichsfuehrer Hitler, and Spanish Nationalist [rebel] Generalissimo Francisco Franco. Their purpose was described as "fixing a joint policy regarding present international problems."

Might Be Held in Italy.

Franco, Il Messagero said, was supposed to have asked for a conference which, it expected, might be held in some Italian city.

[These reports were unconfirmed in Burgos and Berlin.]

Marshal Pietro Badoglio, chief of the Italian general staf, arrived today in Tripoli, Libya, next door neighbor to French-ruled Tunisia in North Africa. He was greeted by Gov. Italo Balbo of Libya.

The purpose of the trip was not disclosed, but foreign circles attached particular significance to it in view of the recent Italian troop reënforcements in Libya.

The marshal, who commanded the Italian conquest of Ethiopia, is considered Italy's outstanding authority on colonial warfare.

[Informed quarters in London reported Saturday night that Italy quietly had called up 150,000 reservists in a partial peacetime mobilization that would continue with a total of 300,000 scheduled to be called by spring.]

Points to French Movements.

Rumors have persisted in Paris in recent weeks of Italian troop concentrations near the frontiers of French Somaliland, in East Africa, and French Tunisia, on the North African shore of the Mediterranean.

The earl of Perth, British ambassador to Italy, was understood to have inquired twice last week in Rome about reënforcements of Italy's garrisons in Libya.

Italians said Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister, had informed Lord Perth that Italy was ready to reduce her troops in Libya if France withdrew some of hers from Tunisia. Count Ciano was said to have pointed out that France has sent fresh reënforcements to Djibouti, capital of French Somaliland.

The foreign minister previously had confirmed that Italy was assembling 60,000 men in Libya and might feel called on to increase this total further because of fresh French reënforcements in Tunisia.

Push Anti-French Campaign.

The Italian press continued its anti-French campaign, characterizing as "impudent provocation" conditions which Senator Leon Berard, French emissary to Burgos, was supposed to have stipulated for French recognition of Franco's government.

Much space also was devoted to a visit Count Ciano will make in Warsaw, beginning next Saturday, on which he will have several opportunities to discuss the European political lineup with Col. Josef Beck, Polish foreign minister.

The foreign minister will be repaying a visit Col. Beck made to Rome last March, but diplomatic circles attached little other importance to it.

NAZIS INNOCENT IN RACE TO ARM, ITALIAN ASSERTS

ROME, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Virginio Gayda, Fascism's chief newspaper spokesman, today took newspapers in the United States to task for blaming the world arms race on Germany.

Gayda, in the newspaper La Voce d'Italia, wrote that responsibility really fell on the democracies.

Germany, he declared, started from scratch to build up her armaments only when "great and fortunate democracies in turn appeared already armed and threatening." But then the democracies increased their arms "not to lose their powerful handicap in the race of guns," Gayda contended.

BULGARS RENEW STRUGGLE TO GET BACK LOST LAND

Demands Voiced on Eve of Balkan Parley.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Increasingly strong Bulgarian and Hungarian demands for more territory appeared tonight as one of the chief issues on the agenda of Balkan entente conference sessions beginning here tomorrow.

Premier George Klosseivanoff.

The question of recognizing the régime of Generalissimo Francisco Franco as the legal government of Spain also was expected to be raised among the entente members, Greece, Jugo-Slavia, Rumania, and Turkey.

Bulgaria has intensified her diplomatic pressure to get back the war lost Dobruja area on the Black sea from Rumania.

Premier Presents Argument.

Bulgaria's arguments were presented today by Prime Minister George Klosseivanoff to Foreign Minister Sukru Sarocoglu of Turkey as they traveled by train through Bulgaria.

Although Jugo-Slavia and Rumania have stated recently that they would defend their present borders against any revision, both countries are eager to promote Balkan harmony and induce Bulgaria to join the entente. Bulgaria's price, apparently, is settlement of her territorial claims.

One reason that Bulgaria has not joined is her desire not to subscribe to a pact that might be interpreted as meaning she has abandoned her territorial claims.

Bulgaria lost territory in the second Balkan war of 1913. This war was fought when the Balkan allies disagreed over the spoils of their successful fight against Turkey in the first Balkan war of 1912.

In the world war she lost more—southern Dobruja to Rumania, Caribrod and Strumisa to Jugo-Slavia, her previous conquests in Macedonia to Greece and her Ægean coastline which first was assigned to the allied powers and then went to Greece.

Demands Lost Lands

(Story in adjoining column.)

Bulgaria yesterday pressed for the return of territory lost in the world war. Her demands are expected to be raised at a conference of the Balkan entente opening at Bucharest, Rumania, today. Black areas show territory Bulgaria was forced to give up to Rumania, Jugo-Slavia, and Greece.

355 Yanks Killed Fighting for Loyalists in Spain

New York, Feb. 19.—(AP)—A death list issued by the friends of the Abraham Lincoln battalion indicated today that at least 355 Americans were killed fighting for the Spanish government. Included in the list are Sidney Arnold, Hymen Epstein, Raymond Fridle, William Hathway, Irving Keith, John Koscak, Oliver Law, Boris Oretchkin, Leo Rozen, and Na-Robert James Collentine and John Cookson, both of Milwaukee, Wis.

SEIZED CARRYING BUTCHER KNIFE.

Louis Noon, 29 years old, a shoe salesman, was arrested at Randolph and Clark streets last night by police after they found a butcher knife concealed in his coat. He said he had been having trouble with a taxi cab driver. Noon gave his address as 4432 Sheridan road.

FATHER ORDAINS SON; 3 BROTHERS AID; ALL PASTORS

The Rev. Dr. Karl Kretzmann of Orange, N. J., last night ordained his son, the Rev. Justus Paul Kretzmann, 25 years old, to the ministry of the Evangelical Lutheran synod of Missouri, Ohio, and other states. The young man is the fourth of six sons to become a minister. The Kretzmann family represent six generations of American clergymen.

The service took place in St. Luke's church, Belmont and Greenview avenues, of which the Rev. Adalbert R. Kretzmann, second son of Dr. Kretzmann, is the pastor. The ordination preacher was the Rev. Prof. Otto P. Kretzmann, head of the International Walther league and editor of Cresset, monthly literary publication. Prof. Kretzmann is the oldest of the six sons.

Other members of the Kretzmann family taking part in the rites were the Rev. Martin Luther Kretzmann of Vaniyambadi, India, fourth son of Dr. Kretzmann, who is in America on furlough, and the Rev. Alfred T. K. Kretzmann of Barrington, nephew of Dr. Kretzmann. The youngest son, Norman Paul Kretzmann, is studying for the ministry at St. Louis, Mo. Another son is Prof. Edwin M. J. Kretzmann, Ph. D., of Brown university.

FOUR SEIZED AS BANDITS; THREE CONFESS 25 JOBS

Summerdale police early today arrested Walter Pyzik, 22 years old, 1536 West 18th place, as the alleged fourth member of a gang of bandits. The three others previously seized have already confessed 25 robberies, Lieut. Matthew Hoff said.

The arrests were brought about by the alertness of Policeman Walter Rosenzweig. Off duty Sunday morning he noticed a man walking up and down the sidewalk at Ardmore avenue and Broadway. Suspicious, Rosenzweig questioned and searched him. He found a revolver in his pocket.

The prisoner was Paul Luther, 26, of 6332 Magnolia avenue, an ex-convict. Police said he soon confessed several robberies and named his companions as Pyzik, Lamont Auld, 48, of 1215 Nelson street, and Stanley Lozowski, 19, of 1848 West 21st place. Auld and Lozowski, who was armed, were soon seized. They usually fired a warning shot in wild west style as they entered a place for robbery.

DORIS KENYON, STAR OF SILENT FILMS, TO DIVORCE A. D. LASKER

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Doris Kenyon, singer and star of the silent films, announced today she would seek a Nevada divorce from Albert D. Lasker of Chicago, wealthy advertising executive, whom she married in New York last Oct. 28.

"Mr. Lasker and I found our hasty marriage incompatible," she said in a prepared statement. "We have decided to end it and thus maintain our valued friendship, for we hold only the highest regard for each other."

Miss Kenyon's first husband was the late Milton Sills, firm actor. Her statement was taken to newspaper offices by an employé of Lord and Thomas, national advertising agency, of which Lasker is the principal owner.

Policeman Hurt by Auto of a Defiant Motorist

Policeman Edward J. Dempsey, of the North avenue station, was slightly injured last night by an automobile when the driver defied the policeman's signals. Dempsey was directing trafic at Madison and Wood streets, after the hocky game in the Stadium, when the driver attempted a left turn into Madison street. Dempsey stopped him, and put his foot on the running board preparatory to talking to him. The driver suddenly started up, and got away, throwing the policeman to the pavement. Policeman Dempsey suffered knee, hip, and hand injuries.

President Takes Holiday; Friend Seizes Palace.

LIMA, Peru, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Gen. Antonio Rodriguez, minister of government and interior, taking advantage of the absence of President Oscar Benavides, seized the government palace about 2 a. m. today in an attempted overthrow of the government and was killed.

President Benavides.

A communique issued by Premier Ernesto Montagne tonight said Rodriguez had only a few followers from his own department, which has command of police, and that loyal troops intervened and restored order. Three policemen and a bystander were killed. Five policemen and three soldiers were wounded.

Bids President Farewell.

Gen. Rodriguez escorted the president to the pier at Callao, Lima's port, last night when Benavides and a party of government ministers boarded the naval transport, Rimac, for a three day holiday. He embraced the president, expressed wishes that he would have a happy holiday, and bade him farewell.

After seizing the palace, Rodriguez proclaimed himself head of the government and issued two manifestos, one addressed to the nation and the other to the armed forces, in which he explained his far reaching measures to replace the Benavides administration. The city, unsuspecting what was going on at the palace, was spending the night in celebrating a carnival.

President Benavides hastily returned to Lima tonight. Premier Montagne, temporary head of the government while Benavides was away, asserted Gen. Rodriguez's attempt was "in connivance with the retired general, Cirilo Ortega."

Slain by Sergeant Major.

It was related that Gen. Rodriguez went to the palace and ordered Capt. Ismodes, chief of the machine gun section there, to hand over his command to a new chief. Pretending to obey the order, Capt. Ismodes instead got word to Benavides' aids who started troops from their barracks for the palace.

First to arrive was a unit of troops headed by Sergt. Maj. Rizo Patron, who entered the palace.

"I have come to do my duty," he informed Rodriguez.

The general tried to seize the officer's pistol, but Patron quickly fired twice, killing Rodriguez. Meanwhile troops began arriving and took positions in avenues about the palace. Details of other deaths were not explained. Later in the day the troops were sent back to their barracks. Four seaplanes were sent to Benavides' ship and returned with him. He held a cabinet meeting tonight and appointed a temporary successor to Rodriguez.

Gen. Rodriguez was promoted from chief of the military household of President Benavides to the cabinet in 1935. He was seriously wounded in March, 1932, when an assailant attempted the assassination of President Luis M. Sanchez Cerro.

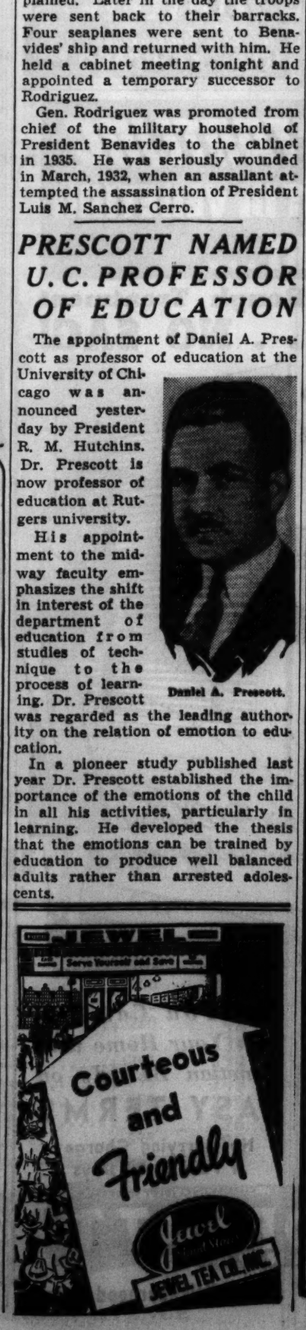
PRESCOTT NAMED U. C. PROFESSOR OF EDUCATION

The appointment of Daniel A. Prescott as professor of education at the University of Chicago was announced yesterday by President R. M. Hutchins. Dr. Prescott is now professor of education at Rutgers university.

Daniel A. Prescott.

His appointment to the midway faculty emphasizes the shift in interest of the department of education from studies of technique to the process of learning. Dr. Prescott was regarded as the leading authority on the relation of emotion to education.

In a pioneer study published last year Dr. Prescott established the importance of the emotions of the child in all his activities, particularly in learning. He developed the thesis that the emotions can be trained by education to produce well balanced adults rather than arrested adolescents.



Sacred Lily Blooms

Russell Baltzell, 5 feet 8 inches tall, stands between two sacred lilies of India, growing in Chicago. The one on right is in bloom.

Two "Sacred Lilies of India," tall stalklike plants which are rare in this country, were blooming yesterday in the home of Mrs. Russell Baltzell, 2038 North New England avenue. The plants, known to science as amorphophallis riveria, do not mature for seven years. Each year after the seventh they bear a flower which lasts only for a few days and has a strange odor of decay.

FLORIDA KIDNAP KILLER GIVES UP HOPE; DIES TODAY

Tells Mother Not to Ask Governor for Reprieve.

Raiford, Fla., Feb. 19.—Franklin Pierce McCall, scheduled to die in Florida's electric chair tomorrow morning for the fatal ransom kidnaping of James Bailey Cash Jr., 5 years old, gave up hope tonight and wept in his death cell in the state prison here.

His wife and mother kissed him tearfully and said good-by. They promised to drive to Jacksonville to make a last minute appeal to Gov. Fred P. Cone for a reprieve order so the case might be taken to the United States Supreme court, but McCall shook his head and said it would be of no use.

C. A. Avriett of Jasper, McCall's home town attorney, said there was nothing more he could do unless the governor granted a reprieve.

Another Execution Scheduled.

The execution is set for 9 a. m., central standard time, as is that of Paul Fried Bunge of Tampa, who confessed killing his wife and two small daughters last May 1. Prison authorities declined to say which man would die first.

At Jacksonville, Gov. Cone said he would not interfere with the execution of McCall and Bunge, but granted a thirty day reprieve to Clyde Hysler of Jacksonville, also scheduled to die tomorrow morning.

McCall, who is 22 years old, is the son of a minister. He pleaded guilty to a charge of kidnaping the Cash boy. He collected $10,000 ransom from the boy's father, and ransom kidnaping is a capital offense in Florida.

Parents Leave Home.

McCall also was under indictment for murder in connection with the child's death. He said he smothered the boy accidentally.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Cash, parents of the child, left their home in Princeton, just below Miami, this morning. It was not known whether they would attend the execution.

POLICE PREVENT STAGING OF COCK FIGHT DERBY DAY

Yesterday was scheduled to be "Derby day" in the cock fighting arena behind John Kilroe's tavern at 107th street and Archer avenue. But not a single fight went on.

A Willow Springs county highway policeman has been stationed at the tavern by Lieut. Fred Mulhausen since it was disclosed last week that cock fights were held there each week in violation of a state law. Louis Krueger, agent of the Anti-Cruelty society, was at Kilroe's tavern yesterday to see that no fights were staged. A telephone call to the tavern brought the information, "Nope, no fights, but the beer's swell."

AUTO HITS BUS; MOTORIST AND GIRL, 17, KILLED

Plunge Off Viaduct Also Takes Life.

Two persons were killed and two others critically injured last night when the automobile in which they were riding collided with a Chicago bound Greyhound bus in Hammond, Ind. The bus driver and seventeen passengers were shaken, but not hurt.

The dead are Gabriel Halmi, 23 years old, driver of the car, and Viola Nash, 17. Those badly injured are Theresa Halmi, 19, and Clyde Morningstar, 25. They were taken to St. Margaret's hospital in Hammond. All of the occupants of the car reside in East Gary, Ind.

One Killed in Plunge.

An automobile driver was killed and his two companions injured when his car sidewiped another on a railroad viaduct in Broadview, plunged through a guard rail and fell 30 feet to a road paralleling the tracks. The machine then caught fire.

The man killed was Glenn Fisher, 36 years old, of 212 West Wesley avenue in Wheaton, a freight solicitor. The others, taken to the Westlake hospital in Melrose Park, are Miss Irene Kroeger, 25, of 1102 South Austin boulevard, Oak Park, and Robert Bishop, 26, of Wheaton. Bishop was in critical condition.

Fisher was driving east in Roosevelt road. On the bridge over the Belt Line tracks at 25th street in the suburb, he swerved to the wrong side of the highway and struck the car of Robert Noles, 20, of 610 Howard street, Wheaton. Noles, a divinity student, four girls and another young man were returning from church services in Cicero.

Injured Victim Dies.

Joseph Rzeszewski, 55 years old, 8426 Peoria street, died in the St. George's hospital last night of injuries received earlier in the day. He was struck at Halsted and 84th streets by an automobile driven by Robert Campbell, 49, 8055 Peoria street.

Fred Arenz, 68, 4514 South Western avenue, died yesterday in the Southtown hospital of injuries received Friday at 45th street and Western avenue when he was struck by the automobile of Harold Nelson, 7735 Normal avenue. Nelson said Arenz ran around the end of a street car without looking.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 119 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of this number 97 were killed in Chicago where 2,501 were injured in the same period.

FOUND DEAD IN SHACK.

The body of a man about 45 years old was found yesterday in a shack on a garbage dump at 103d street and Doty road. He had been dead for two weeks.

MOTHER, TAKEN INTO HOME WITH BABY, VANISHES

A new problem has beset Mrs. Joseph Faust, 5132 Deming place, who recently took an abandoned baby and the infant's mother into her home.

The baby is Gloria, 3 months old. When Gloria was abandoned on the west side Mrs. Faust's husband, Joseph, took her home. A search later located the mother, Mrs. Irene Marino.

To keep Gloria, the Fausts also made a home for Mrs. Marino. A week ago Mrs. Marino left the Faust home to go to a dance. Up to last night she had not returned.

LIBERTY'S FIRST U. S. STEPS TAKEN AT JAMESTOWN

Beginning of Republic's Spirit Traced.

In this series of articles the beginnings of the American republic are traced from the first landing at Jamestown. The development of ideals of personal freedom is carried down to the western movement of population along the Ohio valley. This movement brought a merger of colonial populations from tidewater Virginia, Pennsylvania, and New England. Here will be found the beginning of the American dream, the development of Americanism as a radical departure in human history.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Williamsburg, Va., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—The American republic was born of three broad streams of European migration, that which began in 1607 at Jamestown, six miles down the road from this reconstructed colonial capital, the Pilgrims' landing in 1620, and the later flow to the Delaware and the middle colonies.

Jamestown and Area Are Shown on Map.

In each center the process of national development was the same: The initial struggle for a foothold, the building of relative stability and comfort at tidewater, the westward movement of the restless and bolder souls who formed in the hills from which they seem to have derived their strength, new cells or seed beds from which radiated the energy which in time was to bloom into what Tom Paine called the great experiment, the greatest in human history, a united American nation of free men.

Progress Takes a Long Road.

The time element is important. It took as long after the first colonization to reach the point of the struggle for independence as it has taken to bring the nation to this point in its history since George Washington rode in triumph down the Duke of Gloucester street in Williamsburg after the surrender at Yorktown. And the whole history of the western world is but a second on the great time clock of human progress. America has been a radical acceleration of this.

Within a twelve mile radius of this point, on the peninsula between the York and James rivers, occurred the most important events in American history, the first physical landing of English colonists, and the action that brought freedom and a chance for growth to the nation. Ideas and great statesmanship were generated here and along the sea coast to the north and south. The resolution to carry out these ideas came from the frontiers.

Our liberties were won on this continent after a struggle of more than 150 years, marked by blood and sacrifice. Our heroes are of two sorts, men like Thomas Jefferson and Patrick Henry, who thought about things, and men like Mad Anthony Wayne and George Rogers Clark, who fought. The two are inseparable in the national evolution.

Impossible Done by John Smith.

The motives that led to these mass migrations to the new world were many and mixed. Freedom from dictatorship and persecutions of king and church were probably first. Economic motives, the building of trade, adventure, came next.

Jamestown is almost as deserted today as Kings Mountain. The hand of reconstruction has not yet touched its old log walls, long since blown to dust. It must be built in the imagination. The task is inspiring, for the foundations are still visible, the lines of the old fortification, the crumbling church walls, the old well where Capt. John Smith drank.

This glamorous figure comes first to the nonhistorian's mind. The debunking school of modern history has not left his memory unscathed, but there remains enough to touch the heart of any school boy to fire.

Of him a contemporary said:

"He subdued kings unto his yoke and made the heathen flee as the wind doth smoke, and make this land, being so large a station, an habitation for our Christian nation."

Smith made a habit of doing the impossible. The first English foothold in America could not have been maintained had it not been for him, according to the historian, John H. Gwathmey. And Pocahontas was not a myth, but a real person to whom a great debt of gratitude is due, this same writer holds. There are brass tablets to them both in the old church by the shining sea water of this little island, and on the green slopes outside are two statues facing toward each other.

Statue of Pocahontas.

Here stands the bold Capt. Smith, sword in hand, resolution and courage written in every line of his figure, facing the river's mouth and the Atlantic, ready, it seems, to defy the world and hold this hard won spot forever. A few feet away is the gentle Indian maiden on her stone memorial, arms outstretched in the direction of the captain and the long lost huts of the colony, offering them food and help.

The relationship between this soldier of fortune, young in years but rich in the world's adventure, and the Indian girl, who was about 12 years old when the English came into her life, was more that of father and daughter than that of romantic love. Smith's story is dotted or starred with incidents in which women came to his aid and with love affairs, but something new touched his heart here. And what was more important in its results, Smith seems to have awakened an innate nobility of nature in the Indian girl.

A Free Country Sought.

Smith had been a soldier since the age of 16. He had fought with the Dutch and against the infidels that battered at the gates of Vienna. He had been taken prisoner, and according to his own story, had cut off the heads of three Turks in single handed battle, a modern David in power.

He was sick of religious wars and the greed of princes, and, according to a biographer, said he would plant the British flag in the lands beyond the ocean "and provide a new country where people may throw off the shackles of the old world and find happiness and freedom in a new world."

He went about hunting help and sought out an old shipmaster, Bartholomew Gosnold, got help from Edward Wingfield, a merchant, and enlisted the idealistic aid of the Rev. Robert Hunt. He became a leader in the affairs of the London company, which was chartered by James I. to colonize and trade in America. Capt. Christopher Newport was in charge of the expedition which set out in three ships in the winter of 1606 and entered Chesapeake bay the following May. They pushed up the James river sixty miles and finally moored their boats to sycamore trees and landed at Jamestown on May 13.

Story of Early Struggles.

The story of their early struggles against this strange wild coast, against Indians, fevers, starvation, and sickness, has been told many times. It was a feeble candle in the western wilderness, and it was kept alight for those critical first two years only by the resourceful captain and the friendly Indian girl.

This was the empire of the powerful Chief Powhatan and Pocahontas was his daughter. On one of his exploring expeditions into the interior, which took him as far as the present Richmond and Philadelphia, Capt. Smith was captured. He was taken only after being driven into a swamp up to his armpits and was saved temporarily from death by showing the Indians a compass.

King Powhatan, however, who lived in high Indian style with many wives, condemned him to death. His head was laid against a stone and the clubs were raised when Pocahontas, who had previously pleaded with her father in vain to spare Smith, ran forward and laid her cheek against that of the captive. The Indian law gave her this captive for her own, and he was given a hut and set to work making hatchets and ornaments.

"After six weeks fattening among these savage courtiers," Smith writes, "at the moment of my execution, she hazarded the beating out of her own brains to save mine and prevailed upon her father that I be safely conducted to Jamestown."

When the problem of food became acute in the little colony the following winter, Pocahontas came to their aid many times. Smith, too, went out and bartered for corn with blue beads. The mosquitoes, which came out of the tall grass, were a worse pest than the Indians, and at times only a few men of the colony were able to walk because of the malaria that attacked them. Smith fought against starvation and mutiny and internal strife for two years before he was injured in a gun powder explosion and returned to England.

Pocahontas in the meantime had left her father's house and was later taken as a hostage by an English patrol, the first American kidnaping. It was thought that Powhatan would leave the colonists alone if his daughter was a prisoner there. She became a convert to the Rev. Hunt and was baptized as Rebecca.

Displays Bulldog Spirit.

England in the meantime had displayed her bulldog spirit and had sent shipload after shipload to the weak Virginia colony, strong leaders and forces that could combat all the ills of this coast. The English were determined to set up a power in the new world against Spain and France. They poured out money and men and provisions until the establishment was secure.

One of those who came out to the infant colony was John Rolfe, father of the tobacco industry. This was while Pocahontas was still a prisoner. He fell in love with her and married her, for the greater safety of the colony, he said, also for the glory of God. He explained it to himself as follows:

"An unbelieving creature like Pokahuntas, with whom my heart and best thoughts are and have a long time been so intangled and inthrealled in so intricate a laborinth that I was awearied to unwind myself thereout."

He took her to England, where she was fêted as a royal princess and received at court. She died there in her 22d year.

Just a British Colony.

This was nothing but a British colony, like Cape Town or New Zealand or Canada, at first, and might easily have so remained. There was no idea of starting anything in the way of an independent government. But it started anyway, out of the slow processes of the search of Englishmen for their rights. No one had ever given them their rights, but in England they had won some points toward this goal.

There was a group in the London company headed by Sir Edwin Sandys that had radical ideas about freedom of individuals and human rights. They could not get far in England and tried to implant this idea on new soil. It took the form of an amended charter by which the first legislative assembly in America was formed on July 30, 1619.

First Meeting in Church.

It was held in the old church, two burgesses or representatives being elected by the people from each of the eleven plantations that had spread by this time up the peninsula. The Virginia colonists became Americans through this form, which they never dropped and never surrendered. The first meeting was held in the church. Of this meeting the records state:

"Forasmuch as men's affairs do little prosper when God's service is neglected, all the burgesses took their places in the quire while prayer was given by Mr. Buck, the minister, that it would please God to guide and sanctify all our proceedings to his own glory and to the good of the plantations."

This old church is gone, but representative government remains as the keystone to America. The ruined tower of the church built on the same site in 1639 or earlier remains, open to the winds of today that rustle the dried leaves of ancient sycamores. There were loopholes for firing at the Indians, for notwithstanding the Christianizing spirit it was found necessary to kill many of them. A memorial church has been erected over these foundations. The graveyard holds the dead, marked and unmarked. A new sea wall keeps back the tides. The tall dry marsh grasses are the same and the clearings for corn, the tangled dark pine woods, the song of many birds, the sunshine glinting on the wide river. One might imagine that these forests and waterways still wait for exploration to the south seas or some sort of world's end, such as Capt. Smith found at the falls of the James at Richmond.

Fair Chance for All.

Speaking at the 300th anniversary of the Jamestown settlement, Theodore Roosevelt said:

"This great republic of ours shall never become the government of a plutocracy, and it shall never become the government of a mob. God willing it shall remain what our fathers who founded it meant it to be—a government in which each man stands on his worth as a man, where is given the largest personal liberty consistent with securing the well being of the whole, and where, so far as in us lies, we strive continually to secure for each man such equality of opportunity that in the strife of life he may have a fair chance to show the stuff that is in him."

[The second article of this series will tell of the development of republican feeling in Virginia, the struggles against reaction, Bacon's rebellion and the events that led to the revolution.]

VETERAN, 96, DOESN'T HAVE TO BE DEAD TO COLLECT INSURANCE

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Brigham Buswell, 96 years old, has just collected $750 on his own life insurance. The extremely rare occurrence, said Hans O. Clasen, state agent for the company, places Buswell in the insurance "hall of fame" along with the late John D. Rockefeller, also one of the few ever to collect on his own straight life policy. Buswell, a Union army veteran of the civil war, took out the policy sixty-five years ago. "Insurance rates," Clasen explained, "are based on the American experience table of mortality, which assumes that out of a group of 100,000 persons starting at the age of 10, only three will reach the age of 95, and that at 96 all will be dead."

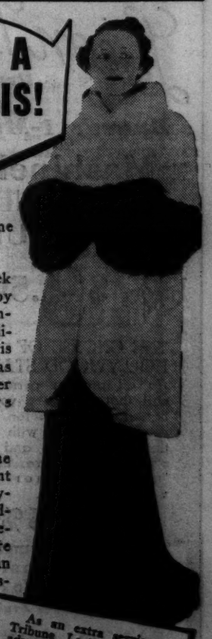
IMAGINE LOSING A FUR COAT LIKE THIS!



A lapse of caution or memory and a fur coat can be lost as easily as anything else.

Whenever you lose anything of value, be sure to telephone a Lost and Found want ad to the Chicago Tribune. Thousands of dollars' worth of property is restored each year to owners who advertise in the Lost and Found column of the Tribune.

Regardless of what you may have lost, or where in Chicago or suburbs you may have lost it, there is a good chance that a Tribune reader will find it.

Every day of the week the Tribune is read by more than 725,000 families right in metropolitan Chicago. This is practically as many as read any two other Chicago newspapers combined.

Further, the Tribune is Chicago's big want ad marketplace, carrying far more want advertising and, as a result, attracting far more want ad readers than any other Chicago newspaper.

Call SUPERIOR 0100—

and ask for Miss Miller if you have lost something recently. Miss Miller will help you word your want ad. If your name is in the phone book, you may charge your Tribune want ad.

As an extra service to Tribune Lost and Found advertisers, all such ads are kept for three months after publication in a special register open to the public at the Tribune Public Service Offices, 1 S. Dearborn St. and in Tribune Tower, 435 N. Michigan Ave.

COURTNEY MAKES PROMISE TO CUT CITY TAX LEVIES

Pledges Action to Spur Construction Work.

More than 1,000 persons attended a testimonial dinner yesterday for State's Attorney Courtney in the Hotel Sherman. The dinner was given by the Courtney for Mayor Union Labor club.

In his talk, which was broadcast, Courtney told the gathering that if elected mayor he will reduce taxes and end Chicago's building stagnation. He said that nearly 100,000 skilled workers in the building trades have been idle for the last eight years. This unemployment has affected every business and union in the city, he said.

Keenan Praises Courtney.

Joseph Keenan, secretary of the Electrical Workers' union and secretary of the Chicago Federation of Labor, was toastmaster. Leslie G. Goudie, president of the joint council of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, and John F. Hogan, vice president of the Chicago Building Trades council, also spoke.

Keenan introduced Courtney by saying that the mayoral candidate has proved himself a friend of labor by his record in the legislature and during his six years in the office of state's attorney.

Goudie praised Courtney for driving racketeers from the labor movement.

Points to Building Lag.

"Our task at present is to get men in the building trades field back to work at union wages," Courtney said.

"There is a definite shortage of dwelling places in the city now. During the last eight years there have been 330,000 marriages and only 8,000 new homes built. Financial interests are ready to do business and advance the necessary funds. Federal agencies also are ready to provide funds for building.

"What is the reason for this stagnation in the Chicago building industry? High taxes, the result of a machine controled government, have discouraged building operations and are ruining the real estate market."

Detroit Ahead of City.

Courtney said that Detroit, Mich., and Houston, Tex., which have smaller populations than Chicago, erected more buildings than this city during the last year.

"As your mayor I will reduce taxes —not by reducing salaries but by eliminating waste and extravagance," he said.

Courtney said that if elected he would move immediately to make the West Congress street development project a reality. He also said he would insist upon a proportionate distribution of improvements in the park district to give benefits to every locality in Chicago.

County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki accompanied Courtney to six south side ward meetings after the dinner.

Drop Plan for Street Talk.

State's Attorney Courtney's plan to speak in the street near the 8th Infantry armory last night, announced when it was discovered that use of the armory had been denied, was dropped when his local managers hired a nearby meeting place, the Arcade hall, 35th and State streets.

Courtney told the audience that refusal of the hall was another example of machine politics. This was denied by Col. William J. Warfield, commanding officer of the 8th, who said the Courtney management had failed to make the required formal application for the use of the building. An application was sent to Springfield instead of to the regimental adjutant and when Springfield inquired about the situation last Wednesday the armory had already been rented to a basketball squad which has used it regularly on Sunday nights.

Gen. Ford to Tell Industry of Wartime Requirements

Ford, commander of the 6th corps army area, will address a meeting of business executives and representatives of the nation's armed forces at a luncheon Wednesday in the La Salle hotel. It will emphasize the part commerce and industry must play in a national emergency.

FLAYS COURTNEY OVER VETO OF '31 CIVIL SERVICE ACT

Backer of Kelly Renews Attack on Record.

Michael F. Ryan, attorney for the Civil Service association, who is supporting Mayor Kelly for renomination, made a new attack last night on State's Attorney Courtney's record.

In a radio speech Ryan charged that as a state senator in 1931 Courtney brought about the passage of a civil service protective bill for the benefit of city laborers, then caused it to be vetoed by Gov. L. L. Emmerson. In support of the charge, he quoted the language of the veto message.

The same bill is to be introduced in this session of the legislature and has been indorsed by Mayor Kelly. Its chief provision is that laborers when laid off shall have seniority rights in returning to the pay rolls.

Passes Without Dissent.

"In 1931," said Ryan, "the then state senator, Thomas J. Courtney, at the request of the Civil Service Laborers' league, sponsored and introduced a bill in the senate known as senate bill 473 on April 14 of that year to provide for the recognition of seniority rights to reëmployment instead of selection by lot, as provided by the present statute.

"The bill passed the senate by a vote of 34 to 0 and was passed by the house by a vote of 110 to 0. Here was a law that had passed both houses of the legislature without a dissenting vote but it is not on the statute books. It has again to be introduced at the present session. Why? Here is what the records show:

"After passing both houses, the bill went to Gov. Emmerson. On July 9, 1931, the legislature in the meantime having adjourned, the bill was vetoed by Gov. Emmerson. Civil service employés should pay particular attention to the explanation of the veto found on page 16 of the veto messages to the 57th general assembly.

Quotes Emmerson on Veto.

"I quote the governor's explanation of his veto:

"'I have been requested to veto this bill by its author in the senate. The mayor of Chicago informs me that the law would greatly embarrass his administration in regard to public service and requested that I veto it.

"The governor referred to the author of the bill, who was Senator Courtney. The then mayor of Chicago was the late Anton J. Cermak. No explanation was given as to how this bill would 'embarrass the administration in regard to public service. None has ever been given by Mr. Courtney, the author, for his request to the governor to veto it."

Attorney Ryan warmly indorsed Mayor Kelly's attitude on civil service.

"In the six years of Mayor Kelly's administration," he said, "I have never found or been able to obtain evidence of any fraud or corruption in the administration of the civil service law. Neither has the state's attorney of Cook county been able to.

"My duty to civil service employés would require that I institute proceedings to throw out any examinations where there was fraud, but loose talk without evidence injures rather than helps civil service enforcement."

WALKS AGAINST SIDE OF STREET CAR.

Arthur Connery, 55 years old, 6401 Maryland avenue, escaped serious injury yesterday when he walked against the side of a moving street car at 41st street and Cottage Grove avenue.

Political Notes

"If I know the mayor, as I feel sure I do," said Lester N. Selig in announcing his acceptance of an appointment by Mayor Kelly to the new school advisory committee, "he will expect this committee to acquaint him with the facts, be they good or bad. Once he is presented with the facts he will act to correct what is bad and continue more forcibly what is good."

The committee will hold an informal preliminary meeting in Mayor Kelly's office this afternoon.

The first of a series of broadcasts arranged by the Chicago election board for the instruction of voters will be heard from station WENR at 5:30 p. m. today. Participants will be the three members of the board—Harry A. Lipsky, Mrs. Mabel Reinecke, and William B. Daly.

Courtney headquarters predicted that a joint rally for the 27th and 29th wards at the 132d Infantry armory, 2653 Madison street tonight, will be the biggest rally in the state's attorney's campaign for the mayoral nomination. Attendance of 20,000 is expected.

In a radio speech yesterday, Ludwig D. Schreiber, regular organization candidate for the Democratic nomination for city clerk, said: "Mayor Kelly has been mayor of all Chicago and not just a part of it. He knows no distinctions of race, color, or creed."

Mrs. Mabel P. Simpson, executive secretary of a citizens' school committee, will speak for Courtney over WMAQ at 6:15 tonight.

CHARGES HURLED IN VANDALISM OF CAMPAIGN SIGNS

A complaint was made yesterday to North avenue police accusing Ald. Joseph P. Rostenkowski [D., 32d] of threatening two Courtney workers. The alderman, a Kelly supporter, denied the charge. He accused the two men of being vandals.

According to Frank Uczciwek, 2018 Schiller street, a precinct captain, he and John Freeman, 2035 Crystal street, another worker, were hanging up signs for Courtney when they were approached by Ald. Rostenkowski. The alderman, Uczciwek said, chased him nearly a mile through alleys to his home, and then told his wife he, the alderman, would "get him."

Ald. Rostenkowski contradicted the story. For three days, he said, two vandals had been tearing down his and Mayor Kelly's campaign signs. He was notified shortly before 8 a. m. that the vandals were at work. He went out in a taxicab, he said, and stopped Uczciwek and Freeman because they answered the description of the vandals. He said that Uczciwek threw away a long pole and ran. The alderman says he drove to the latter's home and warned his wife that if he did not stop destroying signs he would get a warant against him.

GREEN PRESENTS TRACTION PLAN; ASSAILS KELLY

Accuses Mayor of Delay in City Program.

Dwight H. Green, candidate for the Republican mayoral nomination, presented his traction plank to the voters yesterday at two massmeetings in which he assailed Mayor Kelly on this issue.

"Mayor Kelly has been giving car riders of Chicago the 'works' for the last six years," Green said. "Now he wants the chance to give you the 'works' for four more years."

Presents Five Point Plank.

Green, former United States district attorney, presented his traction plank in five points:

FIRST—I will refuse to sanction any franchise to transportation companies providing for an increase in fare.

SECOND—I will preserve the rights of the traction employés, and, in particular, demand that any ordinance shall require the company or companies to provide an adequate system of retirement pensions for employés.

THIRD—I will do my best to transform Mayor Kelly's electioneering subway into the subway system of real service to the people.

FOURTH—I will insist that the $30,000,000 the companies now hold be expended for modern, safe equipment and extensions of service, as provided when those funds were set up. I will see that the franchise makes provisions for further adequate expenditures for a modern, safe, fast transportation system.

FIFTH—I will exert every legal means to abrogate Mayor Kelly's shameful deal with Washington, whereby Interior Secretary Ickes, a legal resident of Winnetka, sitting in his Washington office, can veto any effort of the people of Chicago to solve their own traction problem.

Terms Equipment Inadequate.

Green said that after the mayor's six years' service the Chicago Motor Coach company is operating without a franchise for the city streets it uses, that street car franchises expired six years ago and have not been replaced, and that street car and elevated line equipment is antiquated.

Outlying sections of the city still are waiting for a program of extensions and betterments to meet their needs and enable the city to grow, he said.

"While Mayor Kelly and his appointees have been talking about traction, something constructive has been done with the problem," Green said. "It hasn't been done in the city hall. It has been done in the federal court."

Green spoke at meetings at 4270 Archer avenue and in the Wendell Phillips High school, 39th street and Giles avenue.

A high point in this week's program of twenty-five speaking engagements will be Green's radio address before a visible audience at the War Veterans' Mess-Kit dinner at 9:30 o'clock tonight. His speech will be broadcast from WMAQ while he speaks in the Sky room of the Majestic hotel.

Marshall Field & Company
presents here each day observations intended to be of value for those it seeks to serve.

PERSONALLY CONDUCTED

By CALEB

IT IS an established truism that the visitor to a city usually sees and learns more about it than the native inhabitant. And logically. That is what he came for, and he makes it the main business of his stay. So is it, generally speaking, with the shopper at Field's who hails from outside Chicago. By the simple expedient of joining one of our daily store-tour parties, he uncovers interesting sights and facts that escape the everyday customer.

At regularly scheduled hours of the day, these parties leave from our Information Desk on the third floor, and are personally conducted on a sightseeing - and - information trip lasting approximately one hour and a half. The young woman in charge, in every case, is a specially trained guide who welcomes questions, and takes you "behind the scenes" for some surprising—not infrequently, startling—revelations of the controlled complexity, human and mechanical, which underlies the effective functioning of a great merchandising business.

Novel at the very outset is the "International Clock" on display above the Information Desk. It may be 10 a. m. in Chicago; but the clock for London indicates it is 4 p. m.—in Berlin, it is 5 p. m. —in Stalingrad, it is 6 p. m.—in Honolulu, 5:30 a. m.—in Calcutta, 9:55 p. m.—in Tokio, 1:05 a. m. —and in Manila, 12:05 midnight . . . so that one must revise his notion that other world-centers are occupied with the same concerns of the hour as Chicago. They are as removed from us in time as they are in space. . . .

But now the tour is under way; and for a considerable ensuing period one sees and hears matters that add immeasurably to his understanding of how the wares of a whole world are, by a unique co-ordination of modern methods, mobilized in two great buildings for the individual visitor's comfortable, convenient inspection, as well as for satisfactory shopping by telephone or mail. Space limitations, however, preclude any but the general statement that when one has completed this condensed, yet comprehensive, tour of Field's fifty-acre main establishment, both his interest and understanding have been appreciably enhanced.

As an aid to intelligent shopping, visitors and customers alike have assured us that this personal tour-service is among the most instructive activities we have yet initiated.

PLAN TO SAVE 44 FROM WAR TRAP ON CHINESE PEAK

Foreign Refugees Aided by U. S.-British Mission.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 19. — (AP) — The British-American naval mission to Kuling, mountain-top refuge of foreigners southeast of Hankow, reported today a party of refugees, including nine Americans, would leave the town next Wednesday.

The mission, composed of Lieutenant Commander Charles R. Jeffs, commander of the American gunboat Oahu, and Lieutenant Commander R. S. Stafford, commander of the British gunboat Ladybird, reached Kuling, 15 miles south of the Yangtze river port of Kiukiang, yesterday.

Lushan, the mountain which Kuling surmounts, is ringed with Chinese forces and Japanese had scheduled for tomorrow an attack to clean up the zone.

Report 100 Marooned.

Reports from Chungking yesterday said the officers expected to direct the removal of forty-four of the foreigners, leaving some who could not be moved because of illness or who might remain for other reasons. The Chungking reports said about 100 foreigners were marooned in Kuling, though here it was believed the total was sixty-five, including twelve Americans.

Advices from the British and American officers received in American naval quarters by way of the gunboat Oahu at Kiukiang said the refugees were in need of money to pay their debts before leaving.

As a result, American missionaries will attempt to send them 6,000 dollars in Chinese money [about $950] tomorrow.

Japanese naval officials have agreed to dispatch an airplane to fly the cash to Kiukiang, from where it was presumed naval officials of the United States would dispatch a courier to Kuling. This apparently meant that tomorrow's scheduled attack had been postponed.

Fire Rages as Chinese Celebrate.

HONGKONG, Feb. 19.—(AP)—A fire which raged through the night while Chinese noisily celebrated the advent of their new year today destroyed $80,000 worth of motor trucks being assembled here for the Chinese government. Today was the first day of "the war of the hare," succeeding "the year of the Tiger."

Meanwhile, alleged military information emanating from Chungking asserted Chinese on Hainan island in a counterattack had caused 2,000 casualties among the Japanese and advanced toward Kiungchow. Kiungchow, in the northern part of the island, fell to the Japanese without opposition when they began their occupation Feb. 10.

CHINESE GUNMEN KILL LEADER OF JAP PUPPET RULE

SHANGHAI, Feb. 20 [Monday].—(AP) —Tcheng Loh [Chen Lu], foreign minister in the Japanese-sponsored Nanking Reformed government, was shot to death today by twenty Chinese gunmen who broke into his home. It was the latest in a series of more than fifty political assassinations here since Japanese occupied areas surrounding the city.

Tcheng Loh, one-time Chinese delegate to the league of nations, was called from retirement to fill the cabinet post when the new government was set up March 28, 1938, to replace the administration of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

The slaying was the second attack on Japanese here during the weekend. A Chinese gunman yesterday poked an automatic rifle through the window of a taxicab in the international settlement and, firing blindly, wounded three of four Japanese occupants.

Shift in Wind Brings Quick Temperature Drop

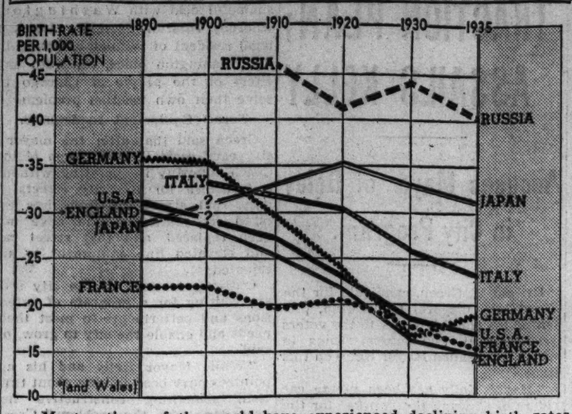
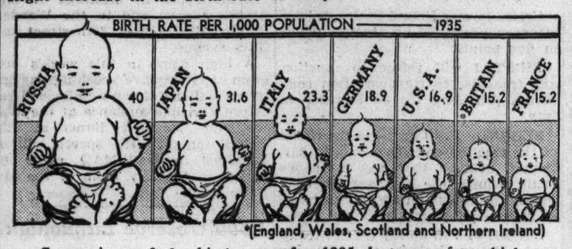
Chicago's February flirtation with spring yesterday came to an end on the wings of a disapproving northwest wind late last night. The temperature rose to a maximum of 58 degrees at noon. As Forecaster H. A. Downs predicted, the wind changed from the warm southwest to the cold northwest, and the mercury accordingly tumbled. At 2 a. m. the official reading was 30 degrees, a drop of 28 degrees in 14 hours. A slight sleet also appeared.

Birth Rates of the Major Powers



Most nations of the world have experienced declining birth rates since 1890. Russia and Japan have had the heaviest rates in recent years. Figures for 1938, which are not included in the graph, show a slight increase in the birth rate of Italy.



Comparison of the birth rates for 1935, last year for which complete statistics are available, of the major nations of the world.

ARREST MYSTERY WOMAN WHO LEFT SON, 8, IN HOTEL

Mrs. Zetta Schoellig, who abandoned her son, Carl, 8 years old, in the Astor hotel, 176 North Clark street, last Wednesday, was found with another son, Paul, 9, in the Planters hotel, 19 North Clark street, early today and taken into police custody.

Policemen Ralph McKenzie and Martin Cullerton of the Central station quoted her as saying she left Carl in the Astor hotel because gangsters were after her. She said she lives on a farm in Boscobel, Grant county, Wis. Questioning of Paul indicated that they might have left Boscobel because of a dispute with school authorities. Paul was sent to the Juvenile home where Carl had previously been taken.

Mrs. Schoellig, a widow about 45 years old, will be taken to the Woman's court today. She came to Chicago about Feb. 1 and had rooms simultaneously at the Astor hotel, the Hotel Sherman, and the La Salle Mansions hotel, 1039 North La Salle street.

STORY ROOSEVELT MAY END CRUISE ALARMS BRITISH

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Feb. 19. — The British public and British official quarters alike were disturbed today by streamer headlines announcing that because of "ominous reports" from Europe President Roosevelt would likely curtail his cruise with the American fleet.

In British quarters it was emphasized no particularly alarming news has been reported here within the last few days and that in fact the outlook is slightly more hopeful than it was three weeks ago.

Other observers saw the possibility that Mr. Roosevelt was alarmed by the prospect of Great Britain and France backing down before the dictators. It is argued that unless the democracies are ready to continue surrendering to the dictators indefinitly this very policy makes war inevitable sooner or later.

ROOSEVELT PUTS HIS HOOK OUT FOR DEEP SEA FISHES

Miami, Fla., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Aboard the cruiser Houston, en route to watch the greatest fleet maneuver since the world war, President Roosevelt found time to do a bit of deep sea fishing today. The fleet, divided into a White and Black fleet, is scattered over the southern Atlantic and Caribbean sea tonight, ready to begin working out a secret naval program tomorrow.

Officers aboard the Houston said today they had received reports that the ship was being followed by Japanese fishing boats, manned by officers and men from the imperial navy. The small boats remained at considerable distance. The presence of Japanese fishing craft, manned by naval crews, is said to be common in maneuvers in the Pacific.

Russia and Japan Lead

Soviet Russia and Japan are leading the world in the births of babies, according to the latest figures available. Russia's birth rate in 1935 was 40 per 1,000 inhabitants. In the same year Japan's rate was 31.6. Russia's birth rate has swelled considerably since 1935 because of decrees beneficial to motherhood.

Italy has shown an appreciable rise in the birth rate. Provisional figures for 1938 were 23.6 per 1,000. However, this still is far below the birth rate of pre-Fascist Italy. In 1920 it was 30.4.

Germany's birth rate has climbed in recent years because of Adolf Hitler's drive for more babies. In 1935 the rate was 18.9. Just behind Germany came the United States with 16.9. Britain's birth rate in 1938 was 15.1. In 1937 it was 14.9.

Payne of Detroit, Mich., national commander, and Walter F. Coolidge of Granite City, Ill., state department head. Barsanco, Mayor Kelly and Acting Governor John Stelle. Maj. Cornelius Sullivan Kelly, national chief of staf, will be toastmaster.

FEEBLE-MINDED IN COURT HANDS, FISHER ASSERTS

Judge Denies Jurisdiction of Attorney General.

Judge Harry M. Fisher of the Criminal court yesterday explained his position in a jurisdictional dispute over the freeing of feeble minded persons from state institutions. The controversy centers in the release of Ben Cutler from the Illinois Security hospital at Menard.

Judge Fisher ordered Cutler's release a month ago. Attorney General John E. Cassidy obtained a writ from the Illinois Supreme court last Thursday requiring Judge Fisher to file an answer within five days, justifying his action. An alternative would allow Judge Fisher to expunge the record, removing legal obstacles to Cutler's reincarceration.

Denies Personal Controversy.

Judge Fisher said last night he had not decided whether to answer or to permit the state's attorney's office to make a routine response to the upper court's writ. Judge Fisher denied any personal controversy with Attorney General Cassidy over the case.

"Cutler, who is 27 years old, married and the father of one child, was not committed as a criminal," Judge Fisher said. "He was sent to an institution for the feeble minded at Dixon by order of the County court several years ago.

"Then, without any court order, he was transferred to the prison for the criminally insane at Menard. I think the attorney general's office made a mistake in this matter.

Upholds Court Jurisdiction.

"There is no legal question involved. The courts, and not the executive department, have full and complete jurisdiction over feeble-minded persons."

Cutler is said to have had a criminal record. Judge Fisher permitted him to go with his family to Louisville, Ky., after finding that his intelligence was almost average.

A. L. Bowen, state director of public welfare, said he did not think Cutler should be at large. Mr. Bowen asserted, however, he had no general complaint against the courts for freeing patients from insane asylums on writs of habeas corpus.

OUR FRONTIER IN FRANCE.

The original record of the investigation by the senate military affairs committee of the French airplane purchases in the United States has been released. The secrecy with which the affair with France had been conducted was broken when a Douglas bomber carrying a French agent crashed and an American test pilot was killed. Until that time the country knew nothing of the arrangement made by Mr. Roosevelt personally for the sale of new American models to the French government.

The French air force had been deliberately sabotaged by the Blum Socialist government and its communist elements. The real secret of Munich came out when it was revealed that French military aviation was obsolete and inadequate. The French, it was disclosed, had virtually no air defense whatever. That was no secret to the Italians and Germans, nor to the British. It explained the confidence and willfulness of Hitler and Mussolini. Great Britain was in not much better shape than its ally, France.

The now revealed record of the hearings before the senate committee show what Mr. Roosevelt did to help the French out of their deadly predicament. What happened after the senators of this committee had heard from the secretary of war, the chief of staf, and the chief of aviation will be remembered. Mr. Roosevelt called the committee members to the White House and in a talk which he insisted should be regarded as strictly confidential, because of the momentous questions involved, startled them with a discussion of his foreign policies which has been reverberating around the country ever since. Since then he has denied the statements attributed to him, but the denial meets only skepticism.

France has nothing that can cope with German planes. The United States, according to the opinion of American military experts as revealed in the now disclosed record, has two models "which could stand in the air for one second against the German planes." That is Gen. Craig's statement. One of these was the Douglas bomber. It was being prepared for American army trials. It crashed when the French were trying it out. It will not be available for the American army tests; consequently, under our regulations, it will not be put in production for the United States this year. Nevertheless, the French will get it. The American air force will not.

The secretary of war, the chief of staf, and the chief of the air force refused to permit French inspection of this plane. Mr. Bullitt, the ambassador to France, moved heaven and earth to break through the regulations and break down the army rules. He worked with Secretary Morgenthau, who stretched the authority of his procurement division and who with Mr. Bullitt went to the White House. Mr. Roosevelt ordered the plane put at the disposal of the French, the crash followed, and the secret was out. Apparently the French are satisfied with the bomber. Mr. Roosevelt has made the purchase possible. The plane will be manufactured for French use and not for American.

Mr. Roosevelt also insists, against the advice of his experts, that the United States air force be immediately increased by 3,000 planes. He has denied that he said the American frontier was in France. His denial everywhere meets the skepticism it seems to deserve. He has refused to make public what he said to the senators of the military affairs committee. It startled them. That is probably the reason it is withheld from the people.

France will get an American model, one of the two which equals the German planes, and the frontier that model will defend will be the French. Our front line of aviation will be the Maginot line, and from that the American people can draw their own conclusions as to Mr. Roosevelt's war commitments to France and Great Britain.

THE NEW YORK AND 'FRISCO FAIRS.

San Francisco opened the gates of its fair on Saturday and New York will do the same in April. So this may be about the right time for Chicago to offer its best wishes for success.

The people of the country were very friendly to Chicago when it undertook the Columbian Exposition and later A Century of Progress. That generous support was particularly welcome in 1933, when hard times confronted the courageous adventurers here who went against all calculations and produced a stimulating, profitable exposition which for two years was a brave signal light in dark times.

People from all over the country came to Chicago and it did them a great deal of good to meet as neighbors in their best clothes and prove to each other that they were not scared to death, that they could take time out from cares and worries and have a good vacation amusing and informing themselves at an exposition of America's progress in the achievements which make a nation.

This comprehensive view of the American people from farms, villages, small towns, and the larger cities did a great deal of good to the national confidence. It also did a great deal of good for Chicago and its countryside. There was a renewed belief that the people who passed through the gates of the Chicago fair were not going to be permanently downed by any of the troubles which beset them. This same spectacle will be shown again in New York and San Francisco.

New York in itself has been an exposition which for years was regarded by the New Yorkers as sufficient without any special presentation. Day by day the Knickerbockers thought they gave an exposition to the world, and in a large measure they were right. With the resources of wealth, talent, and enterprise available in the great American metropolis the New York fair should be the complete success its designers plan.

American life, although homogeneous in its essential respects, is fortunately so diversified that it is possible for a city on the Atlantic coast and one on the Pacific to have their fairs the same year without being engaged in an injurious competition or suffering from comparisons. They represent sufficiently distinctive variations of America and they are far enough apart geographically to be complementary rather than antagonistic. Chicago wishes them both well in remembrance of courtesies and coöperation received by its own similar endeavors.

EMERGENCY POWERS.

Mr. Roosevelt asks for a renewal of the emergency powers which by their own limitations will lapse this year. Representative Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts, minority leader, has appointed a committee to study each grant "in the light of experience" and prepare the Republicans for a decision when renewal comes up for discussion.

"Emergency" is an accusing word. In itself it betrays the revolutionary program of the New Deal. It convicts the administration of folly, reckless ambition, and bad faith. It has been used to conceal a long term program under a short term disguise and to gain confidence where there would be distrust. Emergency in 1933 was a prospect of a year and a half or two years in the New Deal prospectus. The wizardry of these extraordinary powers was to have everything set right long before Mr. Roosevelt would again ask the country for its vote.

Six years of these deceitful and extravagant pretensions are about to be rounded out and the emergency still confronts the country. One result of the use of the powers, and only one, can be plainly seen. It is in the national debt of nearly 40 billion, or if contingent liabilities are included, nearly 50 billion. Two of the powers for which renewal is asked after six years of humbug and failure relate to the monetary system, one for the continued authority to revalorize the gold dollar and the other to issue 3 billion in greenbacks, a panic producer kept in the locker.

The Rooseveltians have not been able as yet to get a disastrous inflation. They have not succeeded in destroying confidence in the currency. They have tried the rubber dollar and deficit spending. They have stopped private investment and capital expansion, frozen the savings of the country and piled up debt. They have buried gold and silver treasure and sent out irredeemable paper, but the people have persisted in regarding the New Deal as a temporary phase and the country as on a firm foundation.

If that faith ever departs the people will learn what an emergency really is.

MAKING THE MIKADO STILL FUNNIER.

The extraordinary talent of the Chicago colored people who have been doing "The Mikado" in swing at the Great Northern theater for nearly six months has made that theatrical audacity a big hit. It is a WPA dramatic project and pays a WPA maximum of $94 a month to the cast which if its performance had made a like success under private management would be in the real money.

The show is to be sent to New York. That is a risk, but there are two producers who will take it. They were ready to sign the players on a contract which would raise some of the salaries to $350 a month and remove the company from the lower government pay roll. The WPA apparently had consented, but the Washington administrators in charge changed their minds. The show will go to New York but, unless there is another change, as a WPA project.

The performers by their own ability had proved that they were able to go on their own and make a very good living. They had worked out their own recovery. The burocracy tells them no and not because they would be taking too many risks in trying out the New York public and should be protected from the consequences but because, according to WPA press agent, the administration has plays in the red and the profits from "The Mikado" are needed to help balance the books.

Gilbert and Sullivan could have done something with that idea.

Editorial of the Day

THE CLAIM TO SANCTUARY.

[Portland Oregonian.]

In the recent snowstorm, said a dispatch from Merrill, the wild ducks came unafraid to the cattle feeding yards, and even entered the barns, in search of food and shelter. The greater fear overcame the lesser, and birds that are by habit and with sound warant fugitive from us became the guests of men. This is curiously like the truce of Eden, or rather it is not unlike that idyllic scriptural past wherein there was no evil, and therefore nothing of fear. Yes, mangers and straw, and scent of horses and cattle notwithstanding, it is like something that might have happened in the lost garden.

Almost any one who used to live on a farm in the prairie states can remember a similar instance, or perhaps more than one. The mallards, canvasbacks, and teal, all the bright company of wild fowl, beneath the patient feet of the farmer as he cleaned out the stable. They had claimed sanctuary, and nobody thought of denying it to them. There was death outside in the white and bitter wind. When the storm passed the birds would go free again, and once more be fugitive. But something, in their urgency, whispered to them that the farmer would keep the truce.

There is remembered an Indian story of the great forest fire along the Oregon coast, in very early times, and how the tribe took sanctuary at the lip of the tide, living on mussels and barnacles until the flame had spent itself. When the smoke thinned and lifted there were wapiti within bowshot. And a young hunter, eager for flesh, put an arrow to the bowstring—but one of the elders of the tribe bade him stay his hand for a few moments. They waited. Then the old Indian said: "Something tells me that we must not kill the wapiti today." The tall elk went their ways unmolested from the beach where the hunters and the hunted had taken sanctuary in common peril.

Those farmers who sheltered and fed the wild ducks near Merrill until the storm had abated, will they ever again be quite so eager to level a gun at a flock, at a bird, as they have been? But you know the answer. It was only an episode. Strange as the behavior of the birds may be, our ways are not less strange.

LETTER TO THE FAMILY.

Contributors to this column who fail to add their right names and addresses to their pseudonyms may be overlooking a bet. In the first place there is often fan mail that could be forwarded. In the second place publishers occasionally want to get in touch with an author. To illustrate:

A copy boy recently tossed upon our desk a letter from a composer which stated that he had set to music certain verses which had appeared in the Line o' Type column under the pen name of Don Juan de Barcelona. The song had been published in Prague. He wanted the right name and address of the poet to complete legal arrangements and maybe hand him some royalties.

We groaned and said, "Here's another knotty problem to solve." Then we looked at the letter again and saw that it was dated in 1931. How it started to flutter around in the editorial department at this late date nobody seemed to know. We promptly washed our hands of the matter. Probably Don Juan de Barcelona will never know that he has been published, without permission, in Bohemia.

Alliteration's Artful Aid.

Colleague Cipriani submits, as contender for the world's championship in alliteration, a set of verses from a volume called "Songs of Singularity," by an author called the London Hermit. It is a serenade to a certain Madeline, in seven stanzas and 127 words. Every word but one begins with "m." Cippy found it in a collection of verse and prose called "Perfect Jewels," published in 1888.

PRAYER IN TIME OF BOREDOM.

Deliver us, kind Providence,
From famine, plagues and wars,
But more especially, I pray
From sundry lethal bores.

Deliver us from such as think
The tale risqué a hit sans doute,
From all whose feeble line of chat
Is littered by such words as "cute."

From double meaning night-club songs,
From ladies with experience surgio,
From all the smart Alexas who
To such-and-such things "are allergic."

From all who pan or ridicule
(The quasi-flip-sophisticates)
Their land and yours and mine; id est,
Our own United States.

From these and all their tedious ilk,
Deliver us, one implores!
Deliver us from these, the vast,
And transcendental bores!

The Ghost of an Anarchist.

There is a Chicago angle to the story of Leon F. Czolgosz, who assassinated President McKinley, about which little or nothing has been told. He came here a few weeks before he fired the fatal shot to confer with anarchists. His actions here have been partly traced.

One July evening in 1901 he called at a house at 515 Carroll avenue in search of Emma Goldman. This was the home of a certain Abe Isaak, and a rendezvous for radicals. Isaak was away but a certain Hippolyte Havel met Czolgosz at the door and told him that the Goldman was about to leave for the La Salle street station, to take a train east. He was invited to accompany them. From the Ashland avenue station of the Lake street "L" they rode to the loop. Isaak was waiting for the Goldman at the station; she introduced Czolgosz to him as a visitor who wanted to know more about the anarchist cause.

Later that evening Czolgosz told Isaak that he wanted to be admitted to the inner circle of anarchists. Isaak, who was suspicious of him, answered that there was no such thing as an "inner circle." At this rebuff Czolgosz departed.

The Chicago anarchists knew of Czolgosz as "Fred Niemann," a name he used during the last eight or nine years of his life. Niemann is German for nobody.

The house on Carroll avenue is no longer there. It has been razed, and the lot is filled with rubbish. The neighborhood has been partly taken over by factories, but the residences that remain are of the same type as the Isaak house—three story limestone fronts with long flights of steps leading up to the front doors.

One may assume that two generations of respectable Oak Parkers have clung to the same strap in an old elevated car that the assassin of a President handled thirty-eight years ago.

Alex the Great.

DO YOU REMEMBER?

Remember? Once we watched beside my gate
While a pale moon appeared and disappeared
Between white clouds which floated past, sedate
As phantom ships by ghostly fingers steered.
The time was spring and scent of the wild plum
And fragrant lilac bloom was everywhere.
Ours was young love, and so we sat there dumb
With joy of living. Soft wings beat the air
As a wedge of wild geese drifted down the sky
Migrating from some Eden in the south;
Sudden you turned and kissed my waiting mouth,
I had not known, then, that it meant goodby.

But this I know: Locked in its black abyss
No grave will hold me on a night like this!

A Family of Chatterboxes.

The chores were done; supper over, the two boys and their mother settled in the pleasant living room for a quiet evening with books and magazines; the clock ticked on. A deep roaring began in the tree tops. "I think the wind is rising," the mother remarked from her deep chair; comfort and peace settled deeper with the roaring wind. The fair boy got up and went down to attend the furnace. "Looks as though it's getting colder," he commented, seating himself once more with his book. Later, the dark boy rose and, yawning, went to look at the thermometer. "The thermometer seems to be falling," was his offering.

This is a verbatim report of a two hour conversation at Hill Crest farm of a winter evening.

HOW HOT ARE YOU?

FOR nearly 400 years physicians have utilized a device, which we now call a clinical thermometer to determine abnormal conditions within the system. Only recently, however, have we understood the full significance of the variations in heat which the body may exhibit.

The temperature may be measured on the skin, in the mouth, under the arm, or in the rectum, the latter usually showing a higher figure than other regions. The most practical method—the one most commonly used—involves placing a thermometer under the tongue, closing the lips, and holding the instrument in place for approximately two minutes. First of all the column of mercury should be shaken down, otherwise a false reading may be obtained. Talking should not be indulged in, as incoming currents of air are likely to cool the bulb.

In health the level will be 98.6 degrees Fahrenheit. But this is not maintained throughout the entire twenty-four hours. During sleep—when there is but little activity, with slower breathing—there may be a drop of one degree or a little more. The low point is reached as a rule about 6 a. m. In like manner, one who is busy, whose mind is constantly alert, may touch 99 during the middle of the day. An athlete, for instance, at the end of some grueling contest, may exhibit a temperature of 100. Within a short time, however, these pluses and minuses tend to revert to normal, constituting merely waves or troughs, as the case may be. Meals also have an effect. The metabolism of food generates a fair amount of caloric, which attains its maximum about an hour and a half after the taking of nutriment.

Age has a slight influence. Newborn children and elderly persons not only have a slightly higher average than the middle aged but their heat regulating mechanism is more easily disturbed and they react more abruptly to disordered states than do those not in the extremes of life.

Each of us has a sufficiently powerful furnace within himself to burn up all of his tissues. We would be little more than cinders were it not for certain dissipating factors. Among these are the exhaled air, the skin surface [from which water evaporates and heat radiates], the urine, the saliva, etc. It will be seen from this list that external circumstances react upon the rate of loss. Thus, if the outside air is warm and moist—100 degrees with a relative humidity of 50—the quantity dispelled is less. In consequence we feel uncomfortable. With the external temperature at zero and a relative humidity of 20, the fuel which is used up is excessive and chill will ensue unless we are warmly clothed.

We can readily understand, therefore, that in the presence of inflammation—the result of bacterial infection—not only may muscles be oxidized more rapidly, but the poisons manufactured by the microbes may upset the governing machinery to such an extent that fever will follow—one which cannot be accounted for by exercise or any other natural process. Physicians have recourse to this fact in determining the severity of a disease and in judging somewhat of its character. It is known, also, that the more closely we can approach the standard the better. For this reason several means are adopted to reduce an extreme fever, such as increasing the fluid intake [and hence output], or giving sponge baths, and rectal irrigations. Occasionally cold packs or even bags filled with ice are applied to the head.

No one should become a slave to a clinical thermometer, but every one should know how to use it. Sometimes a hidden focus, low grade in character, may thus be spotted, although a mild advance due to exercise—mental or physical—should not be misinterpreted. There is one thing about most of these manifestations that we all recognize—namely, that carrying on one's duties merely adds fuel to the flames—if an infection is responsible. With children, particularly, the instrument may be employed at the first sign of some indisposition. If the rise is small there is no cause for worry, but if it is 99.6 or more the early warning that something is wrong should be heeded.

MASTOIDITIS.

Mrs. S. writes: Would you advise an immediate operation for chronic mastoiditis? My 14 year old son has had trouble with his ears for five years and only recently was the diagnosis made. He is hard of hearing. His ear runs off and on.

REPLY.

I would not plunge into a mastoid operation without the most careful study. In skilled hands perhaps healing may be brought about. X-ray may be helpful. A specialist in this field should be consulted.

WHY BLAME HER?

J. F. writes: After eating I suffer with a vibration in my stomach as if I could feel the meal digesting. This sensation goes away after a while.

1. What causes it?
2. Could dates be responsible?

REPLY.

1. This is probably due to muscular twitchings, frequently associated with nervousness.
2. No. In some cases having a date puts one in a dither.

NEW GLASSES.

A. J. writes: My mother has new eyeglasses. When she looks far away they are all right, but everything near is dimmed and small. Is this a natural reaction when spectacles are first worn?

REPLY.

It is possible that your mother needs glasses for both distant and near vision. While it takes a little while to become accustomed to new lenses there may be something wrong with the fitting. She should return to her eye physician.

NOSEBLEED.

F. W. writes: What causes nosebleed in a woman 71 years old? Is it dangerous?

REPLY.

Probably a high blood pressure. Local conditions of the nose may also be responsible. If due to hypertension, the episode may be regarded as nature's safety valve.

DON'T GULP.

M. R. writes: I have heard that in drinking milk it should not be sipped slowly but downed like a glass of water. Is this correct?

REPLY.

You are too gullible. Don't gulp—even water.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—Enemy raiders would sink 500,000 tons of British merchant ships a month during the early stages of a new war, according to estimates now before the government.

The formidable figures of Britain's prospective mercantile marine losses compiled by the Confederation of Shipbuilding and Engineering Unions, and submitted to government ministers by members of parliament from shipyard areas, were revealed by Ernest Gilbert, the confederation's secretary.

He said that nearly 2,500 British merchant ships, aggregating 7,500,000 tons, were lost during the last war owing to enemy action.

Of this total the loss of 442,000 tons was due to cruiser and destroyer attacks, 473,000 tons to mines, and 8,000 tons to aircraft bombardments. Submarines, by far the most serious menace confronting British merchant shippers, accounted for the huge balance of 6,500,000 tons.

"It seems clear," Gilbert said, "that potential enemies will have greater forces of long and short range submarines at their disposal in the next war, while the development of aircraft opens up the possibility of this weapon as one of tremendous menace to shipping.

"The protection of Britain's food supply in war depends on sweeping measures of defense and an unlimited number of merchant vessels.

"At any moment we may face the possibility of war with countries possessing powerful forces of shore-based aircraft, huge numbers of submarines, and strong forces of motor torpedo boats. The east coast and the focal and terminal areas of the United Kingdom can be covered by aircraft.

"Enemy planes could cover the central Mediterranean zone and extend to the east and west. From the Canary Islands submarines could lie across the conjunction of the Cape route and South American routes. Potential enemies could reach out from Africa into the Indian ocean.

"Even if trafic were immediately and drastically rerouted, it seems highly dangerous to budget for less than a monthly loss of 250,000 tons from surface, under water, and air attack. In the first months the loss might amount to 500,000 tons a month."

Gilbert cited British Shipping federation estimates that 250 ships might be sunk early in the war and another 200 immobilized by disorganization of port facilities.

"This might be expressed as an absolute loss of 1,250,000 tons in from four to six months, or up to 300,000 tons a month," Gilbert stated.

Britain's total merchant tonnage now, Gilbert figured, is less than 18,000,000 tons.

Employing the argument that Britain needs a much bigger merchant navy to supply the nation's needs in event of war, the confederation is sponsoring a campaign for substantial government subsidies to rescue British shipyards from threatened stagnation. The decline in international trade, high production costs here, and intensified German, Italian, Scandinavian, and Dutch competition have combined to bring about a severe shrinkage of new orders.

During the last year British merchant shipbuilders have been working mainly on old contracts, now rapidly drying up. At the end of September, official statistics show, the gross mercantile tonnage under construction here was only 385,000 tons—299,000 tons less than in September, 1937. Six months from now, if present trends continue, British merchant shipyards face the prospect of actual construction figures declining to 500,000 tons, or a bare 25 per cent of their capacity output.

TITLE TO PROPERTY.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A sister holds title to valuable property in Chicago, but resides out of town.

1. Considering I have an interest in the property, [2] in case anything should happen to her, could I be protected by following methods?
3. Would a power of attorney legally executed by her empowering me to sell, lease, contract, etc., be considered legal if recorded?
4. If no time limit is set on said power of attorney, does it run permanently?
5. Suppose she should, after executing power of attorney, become handicapped in health, or die, would the document still be valid? Or does the power end with her death or incapacity?
6. Said power of attorney to me would give no right to my wife in any way. Would she be required to join in any deed I might issue under said power of attorney?
7. Would any buyer have privilege to disregard this power of attorney and throw it aside and insist on direct deed from my sister? N. W. H.

1. You do not tell us the nature of your interest in the property.
2. We assume that you mean in the case of her death.
3. No. In general, a power of attorney is revoked by the death of the grantor of the power.
4. See 3.
5. We advise against relying on a power of attorney for the purposes you have in mind.
6. See 5.
7. We advise you to go over your facts in a personal interview with an attorney.

STATUS OF WILL.

Davenport, Ia., Feb. 16.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My will was made while a resident of Chicago, naming a beneficiary who lives in Iowa and appointing a trust company in Chicago executor. I am going to make my home in California and would like your advice as to the status of the will. Would there be legal complications? W. H. K.

It seems probable that the trust company officers have a copy of the will and are in a better position to advise you whether they are able to act in the foreign state. We suggest that you take the matter up with them. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

THE FARM PROBLEM.

Piper City, Ill., Feb. 12.—Let it be said again: "What this country needs is a good 5 cent cigar"; furthermore it needs less political meddling with the so-called farm problem. Why drag this skeleton out of the closet every time congress convenes? The farmers in the corn belt have not recovered from the disastrous effects of the federal farm board experiment. The loss which this legislation plastered on the farmers and the nation will not be regained in another decade. In cities and consuming centers—if you amount to anything—you don't eat if you don't work. Here on the farm with the big lumbering rubber tire tractors the work does not require more than two and one-half months, leaving nine and one-half months for loafing and puttering around. This applies to the Montana wheat farmers also. The towns are full of cars—all makes except extreme top price models. If this is peasantry I am for it. We will have peasantry if the political doctors in Washington keep trying out experiments. FARMER.

USES FOR EXECUTIVE ENERGY.

Lima, O., Feb. 9.—If the President would put as much time and energy into getting the government off the necks of business as he puts into placing his lame ducks in soft nests and trying to make a permanent institution of the WPA, he would be doing a good thing for the country and be giving those dropped off the pay roll of the WPA a chance to get a real job.

To the man on the street that looks like good politics as well. It is about time he did something to win back some of his lost popularity. V. T. E.

INSURANCE COMPANY DIRECTORS.

Chicago, Feb. 15.—The article by Philip Hampson regarding eastern insurance company directors is factually correct, but its implications are not quite fair, it seems to me. Would an eminent Chicago business man find it possible to accept a directorship in the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance company, for example, and go to Hartford forty-five times a year to attend directors' meetings? I suggest you ask the Chicago directors of eastern life insurance companies how many meetings they attend per year. S. W.

MEMORIES.

Hinsdale, Ill., Feb. 16.—I am interested in your account of the retirement of Leo Loewenberg as superintendent of THE TRIBUNE composing room.

I worked as a sub in the composing room Thanksgiving night, 1876, having recently come to Chicago from an Iowa printing office. I remember well Mr. Sullivan, the superintendent, a handsome, dignified man. I was greatly impressed by the kindness and patience of my fellow workmen who, though working at top speed, treated me, a novice in daily newspaper technique, as a brother. I doubt if there are living many who antedate me in this branch of TRIBUNE service.

I came to know Sam Medill when he was city editor. He and I represented the press at a notable banquet at the Palmer House in 1879, during the meeting of the Army of the Tennessee, attended by nearly every prominent military personage—Grant, Sherman [who presided], Sheridan, Logan, Woodford, Vilas, and others. Robert Ingersoll, a general, responded to the toast, "The Volunteer Soldier," which afforded ample scope of his oratorical ability. It was after 3 o'clock when he mounted a table to speak. The working of his brain was magnificent. Tears streamed down upturned faces and auditors were spellbound.

In this address Ingersoll made the statement that when the northern forces overcame the south they saved the south as well as the north. Mark Twain gave a touch of humor by a talk on "Babies." It was dawn when taps sounded.

PONTIAC PRISON GETS GRADUATES OF ST. CHARLES

20 Per Cent of Prisoners from Boys' School.

(This is another of a series of stories on Illinois penal institutions based on the observations of a reporter.)

BY GEORGE WRIGHT.

Twenty per cent of the convicts in Pontiac penitentiary, formerly Pontiac reformatory for young criminals, are "graduates" of the St. Charles Training school. The prison is overcrowded with 2,577 felons, as compared with 1,850 two years ago.

This penitentiary has a fine set of industries, but like all others, it has no adequate market for its products. As a result the big athletic field at almost any time of the day resembles a crowded city playground. Dozens of basketball games, softball contests, and other events are continually in progress.

"We must work off the surplus energy of these young men in some manner," explains C. M. Lewis, the warden, as he shows visitors the convicts at play. "We try to employ every one in the institution at some kind of a job, if only for two or three hours a day."

Guard Against Perversion.

Warden Lewis said he is constantly on guard against perversion among his young prisoners. He admitted that his institution has its share, but said he is doing everything humanly possible to keep it at a minimum.

The convicts work in three hour shifts. If they have not had the equivalent of a grade school education they spend the same amount of time in the schoolroom. The remainder of the day is devoted to recreation, eating, and sleeping. They also play cards in their cells.

Inmates at Pontiac are supposed to be limited to convicts under 26 years of age, who, experts feel, can be salvaged by prison discipline. The oldest prisoner, however, is 42 years of age and he has quite a few contemporaries. Warden Lewis and the other prison officials denied that these older convicts were placed in Pontiac through political influence to provide them with a "soft berth."

Stellar Criminals in Lot.

Some of the headliners among the youthful criminals of recent years are in Pontiac. Bertie Arnold, who murdered his grandmother, Mrs. Ellen Saxe, and stuffed her body in a cistern at Riverside in 1932, works as a record clerk. He is serving a one to fourteen year sentence.

George Rogalski, who lured 2 year old Dorette Zeitlow from her home at 1942 North Central Park avenue, disrobed her, and left her to die in an abandoned stable at 1780 Milwaukee avenue, spends his working hours in the metal shop. He is serving a ten year kidnaping sentence. The crime occurred in 1934, when he was 14 years old.

Theodore Danielsen Jr., who last year killed his mother, Eleanor, a crippled paralytic, presumably in an argument over his truancy from school, is having difficulty adjusting himself to prison life. He is not the brilliant student he was said to be at his trial, and he struggles with his school work. He is serving a fourteen year sentence.

Really Work in Metal Plant.

Pontiac penitentiary is probably the best equipped in the state to make its inmates do manual labor. Its sheet metal departments, where most of the work is done by hand, employ 600 inmates. But they only work three hour shifts, because the work is limited. In this building highway signs, metal desks, and chairs, and many other items are manufactured. The young criminals really work while they are on the job.

The institution also has a foundry, a machine shop, a shoe shop, a wood working shop, and a broom factory. In addition it teaches the trades of barbering, tailoring, baking, electrical work, and several others. Warden Lewis said any prisoner may learn a trade which will enable him to make a good living when he is liberated if he desires to be honest and work.

The state has built a comfortable new cell block at Pontiac. Cells are roomier than the old fashioned ones and provide every convenience. Two men are assigned to each.

A large 100 bed hospital is just about completed and ready to be opened. It is to have 60 beds for tubercular convicts and 40 beds for general hospitalization. It is equipped with all modern conveniences.

Warden Lewis and his staf try to keep the parole board from making "mistakes" in releasing Pontiac prisoners. The warden, the deputy warden, J. J. Munie, the Catholic, Protestant, and Jewish chaplains, the director of education, the psychologist, the psychiatrist, the sociologist, the actuary, and the prison recorder, constitute a board which passes on all convicts.

Some board member has contact with every prisoner in the institution and they recommend to the parole board the amount of time they think each prisoner should serve. Their findings are not binding on the parole board, of course. The staf also passes on every merit or demerit awarded a prisoner.

Pontiac, like all penitentiaries, operates an extensive farm which takes many prisoners outside the walls. They live in dormitories on the farm. It is operated scientifically and if a cow does not produce it is promptly butchered. Convicts who balk get off easier. They are placed in solitary confinement or made to stand in line as punishment.

Although the cost of feeding Pontiac inmates is small per capita, the prisoners are well fed. They are given a variety of food, most of which is raised on the various prison farms. A sample menu for one week at Pontiac penitentiary accompanies this article.

U. S. FORECLOSES ON 16 FARMS IN ONE COURT IN DAY

200 Suits in Wisconsin County Last Year.

Barron, Wis., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—In one day last week Judge Earl L. Risberg, in Barron County court, issued foreclosure judgments to the Federal Land bank and the Federal Farm Mortgage corporation on sixteen farms for debts totaling $75,000.

Arrow points to scene of foreclosures.

Barron county leads the state in federal mortgage foreclosures. In 1937 the government took over 100 farms in this county and 200 last year. County officials expect to have 400 federal foreclosure suits this year.

Occupied Mainly by Owners.

About 80 per cent of the farms in Barron county are occupied by the owners. Most of them are mortgaged to the two government lending agencies.

The foreclosure business is so active that it requires nearly the full time services of one attorney. A field manager for the farms is on duty full time, aided by several assistants. In some townships almost half of the tax income is from the government owned farms.

The government is having difficulty in selling its farm holdings.

Farmers Not Paying Up.

Two years ago the lending agencies adopted the policy that the debt payments had to be kept up. Most of the mortgages are amortized over a 39½ year plan and the government normally gives the mortgagee every chance to pay up.

But the farmers are not paying. A survey of the foreclosures reveals in 99 cases out of 100 that the amount of judgment asked is greater than the amount of the original loan. Most of the loans were made in 1933 and 1934 when farm loan associations made loans freely, possibly due to the 1 per cent commission given the association's secretary.

LIMA, Peru, Feb. 19.—The German trans-Atlantic liner Bremen sailed south from here tonight carrying only 250 passengers on a tour of the west coast of South America. The Bremen arrived in Lima Saturday morning after going through the Panama canal—the largest ship ever to make the passage. There is considerable conversation in Lima as to how the Bremen is paying her way, since she must support a crew of 1,000 despite the small number of passengers.

3 CHICAGOANS WILL BE SEALED WITHIN VATICAN

Mundelein Picks Aids for Papal Conclave.

BY ARCH WARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Feb. 19.—Three Chicagoans will be sealed within the walls of the sacred college of cardinals when the conclave that elects a successor to Pope Pius XI. begins on Feb. 28. Cardinal George Mundelein today announced he would take Dr. Louis D. Moorhead, K. S. G., and either Msgr. Frederick Hillenbrand, rector of the College of St. Mary of the Lake, or Msgr. Patrick Hayes with him. Msgr. Hillenbrand formerly was a faculty member of St. Mary of the Lake seminary at Mundelein, Ill., and Msgr. Hayes procurator of that institution.

Speed Election Plans.

Each cardinal is allowed to take an ecclesiastic and a layma.. into the conclave. Fifty-three of the sixty-two members of the sacred college were in Rome tonight. Today's arrivals included Cardinal Emanuele Gonsalves Cerejeira of Portugal, Cardinal Ignazio Tappouni of Syria, and Cardinal Karl Josef Schulte, archbishop of Cologne, Germany.

Announcement that Cardinal William O'Connel of Boston and two South American cardinals will arrive on Feb. 28 instead of March 1 has speeded preparations for the papal election.

Attend Mass for Pope.

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Cardinal Dennis Dougherty of Philadelphia and Cardinal George Mundelein of Chicago joined their co-princes of the church today in a funeral service for Pope Pius XI. and in activities preliminary to election of a new pontiff.

The American cardinals, who arrived here last night, attended a solemn requiem mass in St. Peter's which, with its stately music, was broadcast to the world by the Vatican radio station. Cardinal Alexius Ascalesi, archbishop of Naples, celebrated the mass.

After the service the two Americans went with their fellow cardinals into the daily congregation where they took the oath to keep secret everything concerning the election of the new pontiff.

Hundreds attended the funeral service, the eighth in the series since Pius XI. died. The ninth and last will be held tomorrow with absolution to be imparted by the two American cardinals.

WORK ON STREETS IN LAST 6 YEARS CITED BY KELLY

1,662,620 Are Directly Benefited, He Says.

Street improvements made since 1933 have been of direct benefit to 1,662,620 Chicagoans, Mayor Kelly declared yesterday.

The direct benefits, the mayor said, were in addition to indirect ones in the same period to residents of the entire city and particularly to motorists, whose license fees were reduced more than $1,200,000. The improvements were made without increased taxes or special assessments, he said.

The mayor's figures on street improvements included the final figures on 1938 jobs. Boulevards and park drives which are not under the city's jurisdiction were not included.

Street Improvement Shown.

Following is the mayor's compilation of the types of paving improvement:

Pavement—	Miles imp.	Tot. length.
Asphalt	907.6	2,071.6
Brick	135.5	148.2
Cement bound mac'd'm	41.5	41.5
Temporary roadways	311.6	311.6
All others [includes county, state, and board of local improvements]	186.6	725.5
Total	1,582.8	3,298.4

The mayor's report showed that work has been done on 47.63 per cent of the streets by the present administration, or nearly five times as much as in the preceding twenty-one years.

Chicago's population, according to the last estimate of the department of commerce, is 3,490,700. In 1934 the University of Chicago, working with the Civil Works administration, determined that Chicago has 838,421 families.

399,400 Families Benefited.

If 47.63 per cent of the population has been benefited by the work, 1,662,620 persons, or 399,400 families, derived the benefits.

Because boulevards and park drives are not included in these estimates, the mayor said, the figures indicate that a large proportion of those benefited live on side streets and in outlying districts.

An assessor's report in 1934, the last report of its kind, showed 758,030 structures in the city. From this figure the mayor calculated that 361,050 building owners benefited.

Work Done by Reliefers.

The work was done by relief labor under the city's supervision. Beside relieving property owners from the burden of extra taxation, it was explained, this took part of the load from the direct relief rolls.

"If the city had made street improvements at the rate of previous administrations," Mayor Kelly said, "only 64,300 families would have been benefited instead of 399,400, and only 31,800 residential buildings would have been benefited instead of 191,134. 191,134.

"And these street improvements have done more than is claimed or can be shown by figures. They have benefited vacant property, business and industrial property, office buildings, and all the property within the city and all the residents."

Accuse Democrats of Plot to Block G. O. P. Waste Quiz

BY GEORGE TAGGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—An attempt to strangle the investigation of state spending will be made by Democrats in the house Tuesday, Republican members charged today. The Republican sponsored house investigating committee will hold its first meeting then.

At the same time the house will consider a Democratic resolution calling for a similar investigation to be made by a joint senate-house committee. This resolution was adopted last week in the senate after house Republicans had won the right to start their investigation.

Representative Clinton Searle [R., Rock Island], chairman of the house committee to investigate expenditures, today branded the proposed second committee a fake.

Subterfuge Charged.

"Let no one be fooled," he said. "The Democrats fought to block an investigation. When they lost by a single vote they hurriedly decided to try to create a second committee—supposedly to investigate, actually to whitewash, their administration."

Speaker Hugh W. Cross [R., Jerseyville] said today that he will refer the Democratic resolution to the executive committee. Several G. O. P. members of this committee said it will be kept there.

Democrats, however, said they have lined up the seventy-seven votes necessary to take the resolution out of committee and adopt it. Since there are only seventy-four Democrats in the house, they are counting on the votes of three Republicans.

"This desperate attempt to throttle our investigation will earn the scorn of taxpayers, who are sick of increasing state spending," Searle said.

"I know what the plan is, and I shall expose it to the people. If the Democrats can get a second investigating committee they will instruct state officers to turn their records over to this committee to keep us from examining them."

If it were not for this feature of the situation, Searle said, his investigating committee would not care about the proposal.

"We would show the people which committee was honest, which committee revealed padded pay rolls and scandalous waste of state funds," he said. "The committee sponsored by the Democratic administration would, of course, never uncover its sins."

Searle's committee, which has the power to subpena witnesses and records, will demand production of pay rolls by several departments this week.

Republicans, who last November won a slight majority in the house, have vowed they will cut the proposed state budget of $244,453,000 for general expenses for the two year period starting July 1. The investigation is for the purpose of finding waste of the past so it can be cut out in future spending.

Nudelman Defends Budget.

S. L. Nudelman, state finance director, spoke through radio stations in Springfield and Chicago today in an attempt to justify the amount of the budget.

"Ten years ago the appropriations [for general purposes] totaled 123 million dollars," Nudelman said. "Practically all of the increase comes as a result of new or greater grants to local governments from the state treasury. These grants include 72 millions for emergency relief, which the state did not pay out ten years ago."

He also said 28 millions for old age assistance was not in the budget of ten years ago and that state spending for schools will show an increase of 9 millions over appropriations for that period.

D. W. MEAD GETS AWARD TONIGHT FROM ENGINEERS

Daniel Webster Mead, former president of the American Society of Civil Engineers, will be given the Washington award for 1939 at a dinner tonight in the Drake hotel. The award has been made each year since 1919 by the Western Society of Engineers upon recommendation of a commission representing leading engineers' associations.

Daniel W. Mead.

Past winners include former President Hoover in 1919, Orville Wright in 1927, Michael Pupin in 1928, and Charles F. Kettering in 1936. The award was founded by John Watson Alvord, noted engineer, in "recognition of devoted, unselfish, and preëminent service in advancing human progress."

Tonight's presentation will be made by Paul A. Westburg, president of the Western Society of Engineers. Dr. Mead will speak on "Fifty Years of Engineering Development."

Dr. Mead is known chiefly for his contributions to the development of hydraulic engineering principles. He is chairman of the board of review for the Chicago sanitary district project of the Public Works administration.

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Bright sunshine and comfortable temperatures brought a gradually increasing crowd of visitors to the Golden Gate exposition today. At 5 p. m. 81,626 persons had paid admissions. Exposition officials announced the opening day attendance yesterday was 143,497 paid admissions.

CARDENAS' FOES DEMAND BIRTH OF REAL DEMOCRACY

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 19.—(AP)—President Lazaro Cardenas' régime was described as communist and fascist today at an opposition party mass meeting. Speakers demanded the establishment of "real democracy" in Mexico.

Leaders of the 1910 revolution against the late dictator-President Porfirio Diaz sponsored the rally. Its speakers included four men held in jail for a week after attacking the government on Jan. 30.

"They call us agitators," A. Mena Brito, one of the quartet, said. "The president also agitates but for the destruction of the country."

"We agitate to save it," said another, Luis Del Toro. "The Cardenas government is bankrupt. It is a panorama of destruction."

ATTACKS GIRL; SCARED AWAY.

Police yesterday sought a young man who attempted to assault Miss Jeanette Kubicz, 22 years old, 2559 Augusta boulevard, as she was on her way to work. When a motorist stopped to aid Miss Kubicz the young man fled after striking her in the face.

POUND TO LEAD WAR ON EXPENSE IN GOVERNMENT

Harvard Law Dean Heads American Committee.

New York, Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Berkley A. Thomas, vice chairman of the Committee of Americans, announced today that Roscoe Pound, dean of the Harvard university law school, has accepted the chairmanship and will lead the organization in a fight for its principal objective—a curb on government spending.

The general objective of the committee is fiscal reform. It has adopted a five year program seeking restoration of sanity, frugality and balance in the administration of the American government. For the last three years the committee has been engaged in research and planning, and now is ready for an active fight on the strength of accumulated data.

Will Advertise in Papers.

While restraint upon further increase of the national debt as now proposed by the Roosevelt administration is the commitee's first objective, it is only the first step in a movement to substitute the principles of Benjamin Franklin for the hapless experimentation devised by J. Maynard Keyes of London, and adopted by the New Dealers, according to Thomas.

The chief means by which the committee hopes to make every adult in the United States conscious of the enormous national debt and resultant tax burden will be through newspaper advertising, radio, and public speakers. The committee hopes that by arousing public opinion against the national tax burden pressure will be brought upon congress and the administration to stop wild spending.

Would Balance All Budgets.

Besides fighting to have the federal budget balanced, the committee will try to induce states, counties, and cities to adopt a pay as you go policy and thus balance all budgets.

The committee recalls that since 1929 only 30 per cent of all corporations made a profit, whereas before 1929 60 per cent were profitable. It is the committee's belief that a limit of 25 per cent tax on personal incomes would give an incentive for investment of private capital and thus virtually solve the unemployment problem.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

Her Mother Talks About Shirley

[While Ed Sullivan is on vacation his column will be prepared by various Hollywood notables. The first is in the form of a letter from Shirley Temple's mother.]

Dear Mr. Sullivan: Like any normal mother I'm naturally pleased to talk about my own youngster. And since you asked me to do a column for you on Shirley's present and future, I'll do my best. Fundamentally, my husband and I want one thing in the world for Shirley, just as we want it for our boys, George Jr. and Jack. We want them all to be happy.

Our job right now is to insure that Shirley remains healthy and happy and that she makes adequate progress in her schooling.

Shirley makes pictures because she enjoys it, because it contributes to her education for the future, and because she is fitted for it. She is a busy little person. When left alone she is never idle. Appearing before the camera constitutes an ideal outlet for her energy and her will to make-believe. We plan that she shall go on in this fashion for as long as she wishes and, more important, as long as there is a public demand for her.

It has been stated that Shirley will become a fabulously wealthy woman when she grows up. This is an exaggeration, although it is true that she will have a considerable amount of money, all of which she will have earned herself.

But nowadays there are no new millionaires in the motion picture colony. Seventy-eight per cent of Shirley's earnings go to the federal and state governments for income taxes. Our policy in regard to charities has been to give to the limit of our abilities.

Will she receive all of her money when she comes of age? Yes, she will. We have done everything in our power to safeguard her present earnings for her future security. Her money is carefully invested in a wide diversity of trusts, government, state and municipal bonds, stocks, annuities, and real estate. To insure that Shirley will never be in a position to squander her money or to be defrauded of it, we have arranged that it will be given her gradually as she reaches and passes her majority. Only in the event of an emergency that would impoverish every one in this country could Shirley ever be left penniless. These plans have been carried out in keeping with the best legal and banking advice that we could secure.

What if Shirley tires of making pictures? Then she will stop making them. Should she conclude at some future time that she wants to become an artist, a dancer, or even a G-woman [this last happens to tempt her at the moment], then we shall encourage her to do whatever is proper. Again, should she wish to follow no career other than that of a housewife, George and I would encourage her in that. I have been a housewife and mother for nearly twenty-five years, and I've always considered it a really fine and soul-satisfying job.

Is Shirley a goody-goody? Decidedly not! She is occasionally naughty, just as is any healthy child. But neither George nor I have ever resorted to corporal punishment to correct her errors. We are fortunate in having in our little girl a child with a keen understanding.

We have been told that Shirley is an extraordinary child, a genius, or a prodigy. For some reason this always makes me angry. I can see that she has a strong personality, but I don't think she is a genius. To be sure, Shirley is intelligent, but certainly not more so than any other intelligent child. I'll be quite satisfied if she remains healthy, happy, and unselfish. I think such people usually are easier to live with.

Is Shirley really her age? That's another question I've frequently been asked. Yes, she is. She will be 10 on next April 23.

George and I take seriously the responsibility of having Shirley as our child. But that is because she is our youngster and not because she is a "picture star." We would have taken just as seriously this job of parenthood if Shirley had never been lucky enough to become a so-called "cinema success."

The element of fortune which brought Shirley into the movies has merely made easier our opportunity to give her the sort of education and upbringing that every mother and father dream about for their children.

Sincerely,
[Signed] GERTRUDE TEMPLE.

Barbara Anne Munn Engaged to D. P. Green

BY JUDITH CASS.

At a tea at home in Glencoe yesterday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Clarke J. Munn announced the engagement of their daughter, Barbara Anne, to Dwight Phelps Green Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Phelps Green of Winnetka.

Miss Munn was graduated from Sweet Briar college in 1937, the summer that her fiancé completed his studies at Princeton university. Young Mr. Green, who played with the Princeton Triangle club on its holiday tours, also was a member of the Cannon club.

Mr. Green is a second year law student at Northwestern university. He plans to continue his studies next year, but as a benedict instead of a bachelor, however, for the Green-Munn wedding is to take place in June.

Reveal Engagement of Esther Grulee.

At a small family party at home in Evanston yesterday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Lowry K. Grulee announced the engagement of their daughter, Esther, to Thomas Cauthorne White, son of Mrs. Thomas C. White of Kenilworth. Miss Grulee is giving a luncheon today at the Woman's Athletic club to tell her friends the romantic news.

The announcement was not a surprise, for Mr. White has been a constant suitor of Miss Grulee's for the last year and a half. Miss Grulee was educated at the Roycemore school and at Smith college, spending her junior year in France. She is a member of the Evanston Junior League.

Mr. White is a graduate of the Lake Forest academy, and is engaged in business in Chicago. His sister, Loretta, now is Mrs. Charles Peter Jaeger, and she and her husband and baby live in New York.

Miss Grulee has a younger sister, Louise, who attends the Roycemore school, and a brother, Lowry K. Grulee Jr., who returned from a West Indies cruise in time for yesterday's tea. His maternal grandmother, Mrs. Hiram Bearse, returned home from a visit to Atlanta, Ga., especially for the party.

Chicagoans to Take Part in Florida Ball.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Stuart, Mrs. William O. Goodman, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. This dance has been one of the highlights of the season on Florida's west coast for nearly half a century. Among the features of the entertainment program will be a dance review of ballroom dances from the cakewalk to swing.

Good Morning!

They do say that young hopefuls being screen tested by Paramount are handed "The Beachcomber" to read and delineate. After which—they are taken to see the film and learn how it really should be put over.

Sounds credible—and immensely sensible. For this adaptation of Somerset Maugham's "Vessel of Wrath" is a fine example of a good story ably acted.

Charles Laughton has had bigger rôles, more meaty rôles than that of Ginger Ted, but never one that more deftly exploited his cunning.

You know, don't you, that Mr. Laughton never acts a part till he has lived it? He gets up and goes to bed with it. He takes it to his mirror. He inflicts it on his friends and

[and makes a lot of sense, too].

Really most of the time one sees only a feature of a person with whom one is, the other features are covered by a hat, by the light, by clothes for sport, and everybody is accustomed to complete the whole entirely from their knowledge, but Picasso, when he saw an eye, the other did not exist for him, and only the one he saw did exist for him, and as a painter, and particularly as a Spanish painter, he was right, one sees what one sees, the rest is a construction from memory, and painters have nothing to do with reconstructions, nothing to do with memory; they concern themselves only with visible things, and so the cubism of Picasso was an effort to make a picture of these visible things and the result was disconcerting for him and for the others, but what else could he do; a creator can do only one thing—he can only continue, that is all he can do. —From Picasso, by Gertrude Stein.

"Is Mr. Hart in?" asked Kaufman.

Bridal Parties Present New Color Schemes

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The girls have started early this spring [that is, if you can fool yourself into thinking it's spring] with the bridal loot and plunder. Sitting in midst a palpitating swarm of brides-to-be and their doting feminine relatives we watched the spring wedding fashion parade get under way. What a parade . . . earlier this year, giving the trousseaux shoppers plenty to think about.

Clouds of pale blue; heavenly tints of this color rate first in the parade from the newest bridal bouquets of ethereal blue hyacinths to the loveliest of pale blue net bridal gowns complete to the mist of blue veiling. Next come the flattering pinks; from the superflatterer shell pink to deep rosy tones in the tritoned bouquets of roses. Romantic to the last fluttering rose petal were the adorable little flower girls in ruffled dresses of shell pink taffeta; these with the ruffled bridesmaids' dresses made the wedding an almost unbelievable vision of the faintest pink of early dawn.

Topaz yellow is another new color that is accented with pinky yellow bouquets. And if you like green [the coppertops and taffy yellow haired sirens should note] see the crisp mint green organdy bridesmaids' dresses, to contrast the airy charm of white lace or tucked white organdy or net of the bridal gown. Nearly all of the skirts are wide and gathered low around the basque length bodice top. Satin, as soft and almost as clinging as crêpe, is exceptionally lovely this spring. Lace fashions other lovely bridal gowns.

The outstanding bridal gown among the first showings of what the early bride-to-be will choose is the glamorous beauty designed for the second time bride. Made of clinging café au lait crêpe it uses two other colors in the same gown for a super subtle contrast. A band of pale orange against a deeper band of dusky beige makes the gathered skirt that is shirred into place deep at the hipline. With the gown goes a burnt orange straw hat, brown baby orchids pinned at the shoulder, and six skins of cinnamon brown sables over the arm.

A Stranger in the Dark

By Frank R. Adams

(Copyright: 1939: By Frank R. Adams.)

SYNOPSIS.

The hero, pursued by Detective Mike Clancy, is stopped in a Chicago railway depot by a young man, apparently dying, who gives him his wallet and baggage check to get him his medicine. He gets the sick man's bag, then, seeing the man being carried away on a stretcher, he uses the man's ticket, and is on his way to Clovis, N. M., as John Bowman—an innocent fugitive, having taken the blame for missing bank funds to save his father. Before reaching Clovis he confesses his identity to Sheriff Tom Johnson, who boards the train to welcome John Bowman, whose father, Pete Bowman, is dying and longs to see the son separated from him by divorce since babyhood. The sheriff persuades him to take on the rôle. John's sister, Mary, and her fiancé, Charles Ferdinand, manager of her father's ranch, meet him and fly him to the ranch in Charles' plane. Mrs. Lodge, wife of Pete's physician and guest, is with them. Our hero falls instantly in love with Mary and dislikes Charles, a handsome show-off, who is the pet of Pete's sister, Matilda. The hero meets paralyzed old Pete Bowman, kept a virtual prisoner by Matilda. Pete asks him to stay and help Mary, and gives him his guns. Charles is carrying on an affair with Mrs. Lodge and even Dr. Lodge knows about it. Charles and Mary are married. Detective Clancy appears after the wedding, just as word comes that old Pete has died. That night Mrs. Lodge commits suicide and Mary refuses to go to her new home with Charles. Clancy sleeping with "John," is stabbed—evidently "John" was the intended victim. Before his death Pete had "John" destroy a new will leaving everything to Mary. By the old will "John" is heir. Charles offers to fly "John" and Clancy to Kansas. In midair the engine stalls. Charles knocks "John" out and bails out in a parachute. But Clancy revives "John," who, unknown to Charles, is an aviator, and he lands the plane safely at the ranch. Sure that Charles will make another attempt at murder, "John" confesses to Mary that he is not her brother. The real John Bowman arrives.

INSTALMENT XXXVII.

A GUN FIGHT.

"We been tryin' to get the house on the telephone for the last ten minutes, boss," Tony reported to Charles.

"What for?"

"Well, there's a guy in an automobile crashed the gate, see. He drove up and went right through it before we could stop him. It was about two minutes after you come by."

"Who was it?"

"I don't know. Too dark to get a look at him."

"Nobody has arrived at the ranch house since I got here. It was probably one of the Mosher outfit too drunk to know he could come in by the basin where the fences are down. Still we'd better find him and put him off the place. Go down to the bunkhouse and send Slim out with six men."

"Yes, sir."

"But tell Slim to be gentle with him and just push him off—don't throw him out. We don't want any rough work or shooting to mar this festival occasion, my delayed wedding night."

Charles, like the actor he was, delighted to play with a situation until he had wrung it dry. "Then report to me yourself at the new house and bring T-Bone Hanson."

Tony departed.

"Sorry, brother John," Charles said, "that your first evening should be tinged by even the suspicion of trouble. It's really nothing, though. The men will handle it."

Aunt Matilda had returned from her room.

"Come on, ladies, and you, too, my beloved bother-in-law." He saluted Clancy and me with a gay wave of his hand and a chuckle. "Tell them goodnight Mary."

"No," she denied, almost shouting with anger. "I refuse to have anything further to do with the man who deceived me and my dying father." She banged her fist on the desk by which she was standing. "And I hope I never see either of them again as long as I live."

Without even looking at me she turned and walked out, eyes blazing and chin high.

The others followed.

Charles paused at the door. "If you stay here," he said to me, "look out for the Moshers. They might mistake you for a Bowman, the same as we did."

I watched in absolute dejection as the door closed behind them.

Nothing was said for a minute.

Then Clancy cleared his throat. "Ain't dames the limit?" he inquired of nobody in particular. "I wonder what that thing was she dropped on the desk when she hit it so hard with her fist?"

I looked—I was nearer than he was.

Sure enough, there was something there. I recognized it instantly. It was the key to Mary's locked closet!

An almost unbelievable peace settled in my heart. Mary had not meant a thing by the words she had so heatedly uttered a few moments before. They had been merely a pointed way of calling my attention to what she was doing. Thanks to Clancy her effort was not wasted.

The old ranch house seemed strangely empty.

"Kinda quiet around here now, ain't it?" Clancy inquired. "Just you and me."

"And me, too," came H'Wang's voice. He was coming through the mess hall door with two electric flatiron cords in his hand.

"What the devil are you up to H'Wang?" Clancy asked him.

"Me very probably fix up telephone at not far distant time," the oriental explained. "Chinese people sometimes quite clever to fix things up."

Over the noise of the wind came the booming of heavy music. I went to the door and looked out. The house on the hill was illuminated like a liner at sea. The stage lighting outside was on in full force, too, and a flood or spot was directed on the front door which stood open. That was why we could hear the music so plainly. The wind was from that direction, too.

As I stood there I saw a spurt of flame from somewhere in the shrubbery and instantly a slug of lead imbedded itself in the door beside my head. The noise of the rifle or revolver from which it was fired could not be heard above the riot of sound.

I did not wait to be quite so good a target any longer but dodged inside and closed and barred the door.

"What happened?" asked Clancy.

"Somebody shot at me," I told him. "Missed by about three inches."

As if to prove my statement there was a tinkle of broken glass and another bullet struck the desk where H'Wang was working.

I reached for the switch at the door and turned off all the lights except the one over the desk which was apparently on a different circuit.

"Out with that light, H'Wang," I ordered.

He obeyed, but complained. "Now cannot see to fix telephone."

"You can do that later."

"Do you believe that's a raid by the Mosher gang?" Clancy asked doubtfully.

"I believe we're meant to think that. But that loud music over there might be intended to keep anybody in the house from hearing what's going on. In that case it looks to me as if whoever is doing the playing also knows that there is liable to be some shooting."

"O-O," said Clancy. "That's why we were left alone here, then, just two little rats in a trap."

"Three small rats in same trap," corrected H'Wang's voice out of the darkness.

"And he took my gun away," mourned Clancy.

"But not mine," I exulted. "Follow me, Clancy. H'Wang, you watch the doors and windows. If anybody comes in yell like hell."

"Savvy O. K."

I led Clancy by the hand through our room into Mary's. I unlocked the closet door. There was a small lamp in there which I risked turning on. It was well shielded from outside observation.

Clancy looked in with smacking lips. "My, my, the navy yard arsenal."

I put on the belt with the two dangling six-guns on it, and took down the rifle which was slung from a hook.

"My guess is that whoever fired those shots will be coming in after us thinking we're not armed. We'll capture him—"

"Or kill him."

"If necessary. Anyway we'll find out who we're fighting against. You couldn't use this rifle, could you?"

"Not very good—with only one hand."

"Then here's one of the revolvers for you." I handed him the one out of the right hand holster and shifted the belt so that the other was over my stomach. "It's loaded and here's a handful of extra cartridges."

Salad dressings make or mar the salads over which they are used. If the blend of seasonings is a little off key, if the oil isn't fresh and of good quality, or if the dressing isn't thoroughly mixed, the salad will suffer for it.

There are dozens of commercial salad dressings, many of them of excellent quality and flavor. Many a woman prefers to keep "boughten" French dressing and commercial mayonnaise or cooked dressing at hand rather than to make them. But there are individual dressings for individual salads which she nevertheless wants to make from scratch. Here are a few of them.

French Mayonnaise

[For meat, fish, and cooked vegetable salads]

2 eggs
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon mustard
1 teaspoon sugar
⅛ teaspoon red pepper
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 cup salad oil
¼ cup cornstarch
1¼ cups water
1 tablespoon butter

Put eggs, seasonings, lemon juice, vinegar, and oil in a bowl. Do not stir. Mix cornstarch to a paste with the cold water. Add butter and cook over hot water until smooth and thick. Turn, while hot, into the bowl with the other ingredients. Beat mixture for one minute with a rotary beater.

Wilted Lettuce with Bacon Dressing

[Four Servings]

Leaf lettuce
5 slices bacon, diced
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon paprika
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon sugar
3 tablespoons vinegar
¼ cup boiling water

Fry bacon until crisp, add seasonings, vinegar, and water. Cover the pan and let mixture come to a boil. Have lettuce ready in a warm bowl. Throw the boiling dressing over it, cover, and serve as soon as wilted.

French Fruit Dressing

1 egg yolk, beaten
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
¾ cup salad oil
¼ cup pineapple juice
2 tablespoons orange juice
2 tablespoons lemon juice

Add mustard, salt, and sugar to beaten egg yolk. Add oil gradually, beating in thoroughly. Place mixture in a bottle, add fruit juices, and shake vigorously until blended. Or beat the dressing together in a small bowl. Store in a covered container and mix or shake before using each time.

French Dressing with Chives

1½ cups salad oil
½ cup vinegar or half vinegar and half lemon juice
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon white pepper
Few grains cayenne
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 tablespoon cut chives

Shake ingredients together thoroughly and use on tossed green salads. Store in a cool place in a covered bottle.

Honey Cream Dressing for Fruits

½ cup honey
½ cup heavy cream, whipped
2 teaspoons lemon juice

Combine honey and whipped cream, and stir in lemon juice gradually.

Allowance for Beauty Upkeep Is Budget Essential

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

At a recent conclave of business and professional women the theme was taken up of how much money a progressive young woman bent on success need spend on herself.

Right here, we report that no figures were given at the meeting, nor compiled since, that we know of. No one told what a girl making 25, 35, 50 or over should allot to clothes and grooming upkeep. But the consensus gathered then, and since in first-hand discussions of our own, plainly indicates that a woman has to invest in herself as well as in bonds, insurance, or other savings.

The question, as we recall it, dealt with a woman's security, and whether it lay in spending on herself or saving every penny possible.

The answers from successful women in charge of personnel service departments and others leave no doubt that investment in self is demanded of women workers today.

Our judgment had been, before this discussion, that most workers today were sufficiently aware of the personal upkeep requirements to make a considerable dent in their salaries. It seems to us that the workers we see and mingle with are a well turned out lot.

It would be a suicidal argument to suggest that more than can be afforded be spent on dress and grooming expenses. Certainly, no business woman with a head on her at all would subscribe to such folly. She sees to it that she is attached to some form of savings that will forestall the terrors of pennyless age. This in itself contributes to her greater poise, assurance, and efficiency.

But the point brought out is that one somehow has to learn to be the well groomed, smart looking and, therefore, efficient appearing girl if she hopes to get on. It isn't only on clothes and grooming expenses she is expected to expand, but on such outside activities and contacts as will make her a better balanced individual.

It has been said before that the girl or woman who lives for her job and it alone is not as efficient an employé as the one who takes play in its strides, goes in for a lively social career, and generally detaches herself from her work in spirit as well as physically in her leisure time.

Laughton Does Perfect Job as 'Beachcomber'

slyly listens to inimical comments. He labors over makeup for it and will not appear before a camera before it is letter perfect.

Now he comes to you as Ginger Ted, a completely dissolute remittance man who cheats native merchants, lures young girls from the classroom conducted by the resident missionary's sister, wrecks cafés, and is happiest when drunk. The missionary and his spiderish, spinster sister want him deported from the isle of the eastern archipelago where he pollutes the air. But the controleur, a lonely Dutchman, enjoys the company of this wreck who once had been an educated Englishman, and will not send him away for good. He does, however, after Ted has been particularly unsavory, sentence him to hard labor on a nearby island. Here Ted, always a favorite with the native ladies, is waited on by bevies of local damsels the while. From a hammoc he enjoys the sweet air, views of the sunlit sea, and a clear brain for a change—there being no alcohol on this bit of land in the ocean.

Miss Martha Jones is sent to nurse sick folks on another island. The boat bringing her home stops to pick up Ted. Something goes fluey with the machinery, and Martha, Ted, and the native crew are forced to spend the night on a barren rock. She lays awake in fear and trembling—but Ted never comes near—save once to throw a blanket over her. He hates her, that's why. But she, mistaking his aversion for fine restraint, changes her opinion of him. Later, when they are thrown together during a typhoid epidemic, she learns to love the fat hulk. And he, too, experiences a change of opinion regarding her.

You see, they get at what's been eating one another underneath. . . . He had been the tormented fat boy at home—son of a vicar. She the daughter of a man who'd drunk himself to death. . . . And so, seeking release of different brands they had landed on those faraway isles. . . . Interesting!

Mr. Laughton never misses a bet. Miss Lanchester [Mrs. Laughton] plays with a sort of fluid dexterity that will make you think of Beatrice Lille, whom she somewhat resembles. . . . Robert Newton does clever work as the controleur, and Tyrone Guthrie is apt as the medical missionary.

Sets, scenery, dialog, and direction are just what the story required.

Menuhin Uses Strict Discipline on Every Note

BY CECIL SMITH.

Before a large audience in the Civic Opera house yesterday afternoon Yehudi Menuhin, gifted young American violinist, played his only solo recital of the season. The event was a benefit for the Girl Scouts of Chicago.

No instrumentalist before the public was subjected to a more exacting discipline of study during his formative years than Mr. Menuhin. The beneficent results of his training are constantly and agreeably in evidence. His playing is almost completely clean and precise, in rhythm and pitch alike. There is never a moment of slipshod or inattentive playing.

His tone, peculiarly vibrant and plaintive in quality, possesses an immediate communicativeness, much like the voice of a Galli-Curci or an Edith Mason. The immediate rapport created by the quality of his tone makes him one of the few violinists capable of keeping an audience wholly engrossed.

As a musical interpreter, however, he is scarcely outstanding, except for the faithfulness of his workmanship. In the sixth sonata of Handel [in E major] and the third solo partita of Bach [in the same key] he did not achieve too convincing an identification with the meaning and intention of baroque music. Except for a couple of movements of the Bach, his playing had neither great sweep nor any big sense of musical structure.

Hendrik Endt provided discreet accompaniments.

In a virtually interminable program prolonged by numerous long intervals between dances, the Chicago Dance council presented Berenice Holmes, Vera Mirova, and Leyah Lucatsky in concert at the Goodman theater. All three dancers are residents of Chicago.

Miss Mirova's skilful duplicates of oriental dances have long been known and admired here. Her choices yesterday drew upon Java, Corea, Burma, India, and the South seas.

Miss Lucatsky is a reasonably well drilled modern dancer with an attractive fluidity of movement. "We Bow the Head," a dance of racial oppression, developed some emotional force. For the most part her compositions demonstrated how little she has thought about structural integrity and logical thematic development.

Miss Holmes surrounded herself with a small group in "Tour de Force," danced to Stravinsky's "Suite No. 1." She herself is quite a good ballet technician. "Tour de Force" in some way symbolized war, with ballerinas in white ballet slippers, tarlatan skirts and steel trench helmets. I thought it struck a pretty low mark of insipidity.

Frank Sheridan, New York pianist, played the third and final concert of the Mundelein college series yesterday. Our scout reports that he heard pianism of a high order and interpretations leaning a bit toward the subjective side.

Jacobs and Kempner Win Central States Pair Title at Contract

Walter Jacobs and Ralph Kempner are the new pair champions at contract bridge in the central states. They won from a field of thirty-two pairs in the thirty-ninth annual tournament of the Chicago Contract Bridge association, which closed early today at the Hotel La Salle.

Kempner and Jacobs scored 619 poins, winning by the unusual margin of 70 points from the defending champions, Robert W. Halpin and M. S. Reilly. Third place winners were Arthur Glatt and Albert Weiss, only one point behind Halpin and Reilly. The nonmasters pair championship went to Chester P. Rumps and Robert Chapman.

Artist's Wife Describes Home She Maintains

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Mrs. Mischa Elman, dark haired and slight [she wears size 12 dresses], who married the world famous violinist in San Francisco fourteen years ago, is not a musician. She admits she's not even a music critic. In fact, her rôle, that of the wife of an artist, is completely nonmusical.

In the fourteen years of their marriage Mrs. Elman has tried, and proved to herself, that an artist needs the stability of affection and a warm family life more than any technical stimulus.

"I am not a musician, and Mischa would not want me to be one," she said. "Of course, I go to all of his concerts because I love to hear him play, and because he likes to have me there. But I never have attempted to criticize him musically. He knows far better than I do what I can do for him is to provide a happy background, an understanding of his problems, a companionship for his nonmusical hours.

"The type of home we have is a good example of what I mean. I think it is a lovely home, a restful and harmonious place. It is not essentially Bohemian, not essentially an artist's home. It is the home of a well-rounded family, of my husband, myself, our girl, Nadia, and our son, Josef. My husband has, of course, his own studio upstairs, where he works and where he has his music and his books. For the rest, I have tried to make our home reflect us all as personalities rather than reflect only the profession of my husband."

Certainly the Elman home, which looks out over picturesque Central park in New York City, provides a happy setting for the four of them.

The apartment occupies two floors, with the living and dining rooms downstairs, decorated in soft tones of blue and gray. A magnificent Utrillo over the fireplace and an Einselmus in the reception room bear witness to Mr. Elman's interest in modern painting. Fine old woods, rare Empire cabinets, and delicate crystal candelabra testify to his taste for fine English pieces.

Piano Playing an Easy Task for Tarnowsky

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The southeast corner of the loop offered Chicagoans three concerts yesterday. Sergei Tarnowsky was playing his piano at the Studebaker, the Chicago Business Men's orchestra and two soloists were active in Orchestra hall, in the Great Northern were the Illinois Symphony orchestra and a piano soloist.

A product of czarist Russia, Mr. Tarnowsky demonstrated in spectacular fashion what the rigid technical régime of that place and time could accomplish. He hardly knows what a mechanical difficulty is, and tosses off terrific virtuoso test pieces like the Liapounow "Carillon" with as much aplomb as an ordinary pianist would reveal in "The Happy Farmer." The sonority of his playing is as exciting as its speed and sureness.

Mr. Tarnowsky is much more than a mere virtuoso. In the works of two such contrasting composers as Vivaldi and Chopin his performance was characterized by a wonderful aliveness. Coherent musical thought bestowed on each phrase its proper nuance. Dead sound became transformed into significant speech.

Two brief visits to Orchestra hall sufficed for a hearing of one movement of Mozart's Symphonie Concertante and the overture to Thomas' "Mignon." With the solo violin and viola parts of the former piece in the knowing hands of Robert Quick and Milton Preves, the Business Men's orchestra succeeded in matching its guests in graciousness of phrasing and beauty of tone. Under Mr. Dasch's crackling baton the overture took on verve and color.

A short peek into the Great Northern found Aveah Kogan and the Illinois Symphony orchestra charging capably through Beethoven's B-flat piano concerto. Izler Solomon was conducting.

On the basis of a complete hearing of only one movement—the third—Miss Kogan is hereby characterized as a highly rhythmic young artist who knows how to give her phrases lift and momentum. She has considerable fluency. Occasionally, in her desire for rhythmic definition, she permits her tone to become a trifle hard and forced.

Two Models for the Home

MODELS FOR HOUSEKEEPING.

Household appliances of the modern type reduce drudgery to a minimum, and the right clothes help to make housekeeping the pleasure it should be. Our two patterns today are modish and smart. At the left is a house frock that is every inch feminine. It has a girlish ruffled collar and pockets to match. Paneling and princess lines fit the frock beautifully to the figure, and its beltless style is glorified with groups of buttons down the front. You may use either plain colors or prints for this dress, and all types of washable materials are suitable.

The apron sketched at the right is styled for both comfort and chic. It has a "stay-put" shoulderline, a slim waist, and a flared skirt. Its lines are those of a frock, and just as smart. Included in the pattern for this apron is the tulip applique that lends so much daintiness.

Style No. 2113 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 4⅝ yards of 39 inch material.

Style No. 3487 is designed for sizes small, medium, and large. The medium size requires 2¼ yards of 35 inch material, with ⅞ yards of 35 inch contrasting.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Station, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Seeking Cause of Stealing Is Part of Cure

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Pointing out a cause often points out the cure, too.

Yesterday in our Sunday article we pointed out some of the possible causes of stealing, and it was real stealing we were talking about, when a boy or girl is old enough to have gained an actual realization of right and wrong. And we wound up by saying that defining the causes would point the way to the cure.

The child who takes money from his parents or a neighbor because he never has a penny he can call his own should be given an allowance. If an allowance isn't possible ways should be found for him to earn pocket money that he can use as he wishes.

When a boy steals things he craves, such as sports equipment, or a girl takes cosmetics or pretty dress accessories, or the money to buy them, everything possible should be done at home to satisfy at least some of these natural longings of the child. At the same time friendly talks should clear the moral issues for him or her. Here again, if not a cent can be spared from the family budget, some way of earning a little money on week-ends or after school should be devised.

When a child takes money to buy popularity [in the form of treats or making a splurge before other boys and girls] every effort should be made to improve that child's relationships with other young persons. His or her appearance, clothes, manners, little social graces can perhaps be improved; clubs joined, small parties given, and that child can be helped to shine by acquiring some skill.

Shame and disgrace should not be held up as possible horrors. The less a child feels himself besmirched by any act the quicker his return of self-esteem.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Dry skinned women are scared to death of most tonics and astringents, we find. They're afraid they'll be drying. But they still feel that their paper-thin skin needs something in the way of a toning lotion. And they're quite right.

We've found something elegant for them. It's a toning lotion like none you ever saw before—it's white, and it looks like a liquid cream. But it is not oily. It's to be used after cleansing to remove the last smidges of cream and to tone the skin ever so gently. It should be a real find for those women with supersensitive skin who wish they could do something about its sallowness but hate to risk using anything that stings or is too severe in its stimulating action.

Your skin feels wonderfully refreshed and clean after its application. It isn't a cleanser, though. You should use it after cleansing with cream. You can apply it with cotton, always using the good old reliable upward and outward motion. The directions specify cotton, but we see no reason why you shouldn't apply it with the fingers if they're clean and you've no cotton handy.

It has a faint but very pleasant fragrance. It's absorbed almost instantly, and your tired skin feels pepped up, though it doesn't tingle. The most important thing to remember is that this doesn't contain a lot of alcohol or witch-hazel and won't make your parched skin nungrier than ever for the necessary oil.

The Housewife

If you're one of the fortunate housewives with one of those grand new electric roasters you'll be interested to know you can get a handy little table that's been especially designed to hold it. The table is a good size, too, for an electric mixer.

This table is of metal, with a white enamel finish on the top and on the convenient lower shelf. It measures 20x13x25½ inches and its price is reasonable. The same item may be had equipped with an electric outlet at a slightly higher cost.

Crocheted Hat Has Snap Brim and High Crown

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Snap brims and high crowns are popular this season in comparison with flat crowns and wide brims. Crocheted hats of the former type are excellent numbers and may be worn with street clothes as well as for spectator sports. Single crochet is one of the easiest of stitches and virtually no time is required in the making. The feather may be a matter for individual choice, but the hat is equally attractive with or without it.

For instructions for crocheting the high-crowned, snap-brimmed hat, No. X-203, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 620 5th avenue, New York City.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

Almost all players are familiar with the signal known as a "high-low" or "echo." Usually this valuable device, consisting of a discard or follow suit play of a high card followed by a lower card, shows that the defender holds exactly two of the suit or that he wants that suit to be continued for reasons of his own. Thus, in almost every case, when a defender "echoes," he is asking his partner to lead that suit. There are, however, important exceptions to this general rule. One of them concerns the trump echo. It often is vital for one defender to know just how many trumps his partner originally had. This knowledge can be transmitted by a proper sequence of plays. Consider today's hand:

West, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.
Match-point duplicate.

♠ J 7
♥ K 7 5
♦ K 9 7
♣ K 7 6 5 3

WEST
♠ 10 8 6 5
♦ A 8 6 5 4 2

EAST
♠ A K 4 3 2
♦ Q J
♣ J 10 9 4

SOUTH
♠ Q 9
♥ A J 10 9 6 4
♦ 10 3
♣ A Q 2

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 spade	2 hearts
Pass	Pass	Pass

South's two heart overcall, although a strong bid when vulnerable, did not quite represent the trick taking power of his hand. He might have been better advised to have doubled for a take-out [even with shaded values] with the intention of showing his heart suit if North responded with diamonds or clubs. Actually there was a very fair play for a heart game in the combined hands, but North was not sufficiently spurred by the two heart overcall to make a try for game.

West, holding four of his partner's spades, saw no great reason to lead that suit. The singleton club appeared much more attractive. That this selection had an unfortunate result was just hard luck as far as West was concerned and was due to the fact that his partner went astray in the subsequent defense.

Declarer captured East's club nine with the ace and laid down the heart ace. The heart jack then was led through West. If, at this point, declarer had operated on the principle that a finesse against the queen is not in order when holding nine cards of the suit, the rest of the play would have become automatic, and East never would have had a chance to go astray. But, apparently, declarer read West's opening lead as a singleton and jumped to the conclusion that West therefore must be fairly long in hearts. It is a fact that if a singleton in one suit can be located in a player's hand, the percentages then are greatly against his holding a doubleton in another suit unless, of course, his bidding has indicated ten cards in the other two suits.

Thus there was no great criticism to be attached to declarer's heart finesse, but it gave East an opportunity which [unfortunately] he failed to grasp. West had played the heart deuce on the ace and the three spot on the next lead. If he had held three hearts, he would have informed his partner of that fact by playing first the three spot and then the deuce. This is the trump echo to which I referred above. Contrary to the general rule, when following suit in trumps a defender shows three, not two, by playing high-low [echoing].

East overlooked the fact that his partner had not echoed in trumps and, after cashing one top spade, returned a club in the hope that West would ruff. Obviously West could do no such thing, having no trumps left. Declarer won with the club queen, crossed to dummy's club king, and ruffed a club, thereby establishing dummy's fifth club. He reëntered dummy with the heart king and discarded his remaining spade on the established club, then ruffed a spade back to his own hand, and played up the diamond king.

The defenders lost one of their spade tricks and, by so doing, had to take a very bad match-point score on the board, inasmuch as no North-South team actually reached game.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Chicago Blackhawks and the Toronto Maple Leafs, principals in last season's Stanley cup finals, can still put on a rattling good hocky battle, whether it be in the world series or just a regulation game, such as they played before 12,000 in the Stadium last night.

Ordinarily, it's the Hawks who run these meetings between the two, but not so last night, for the Leafs, fighting an uphill battle all the way, came out of the argument with a 4 to 3 overtime victory. It was the first game Toronto has won from the Hawks in the Stadium since Jan. 16, 1938.

No Question About It, Boys.

Even the most partisan Hawk loyalists had to admit after the seventy minutes of play that the Torontos were entitled to the decision. Trailing, 3 to 0, in the second period, they came back to collect two goals before that session was over. Then, they scored the tying goal with 22 seconds of regulation time remaining. Midway through the overtime the veteran Gus Marker lifted the puck over Mike Karakas for the winning score.

The defeat was not particularly tasty to the Hawks on more than one account. Coupled with Detroit's victory over Boston last night, it shoved the Chicagoans back into sixth place and only one game ahead of the last place Montreal Canadiens, who also won last night.

Bruins Are Next.

As if last night's loss was not enough, the Hawks face the prospect of a two game road trip, in which they will play the fearsome Boston Bruins Tuesday night and the New York Americans Thursday before returning to the Stadium to meet the Bruins, whom they haven't beaten all season. Unless they produce some immediate profit from these three contests, they may find themselves out of the playoffs, which they won so dramatically last April.

John Gottselig, the Hawks' best point maker, started the scoring in the second minute of play last night, when he battled the puck past Turk Broda on passes from Cully Dahlstrom and Joff Desilets. Early in the second period, Dahlstrom teamed with Earl Seibert to deliver the second goal, and five minutes later Joe Cooper, Chicago's new defense man, scored his first Hawk goal unassisted on the fanciest maneuver of the night.

Then the Deluge.

The picture looked pretty rosy, what with Karakas standing off one Toronto drive after another. George Parsons finally spoiled any illusions Michael may have entertained about a shutout, and Pep Kelly joined up with Doc Romnes, late of the Hawks, and Harvey Jackson to make it 3 to 2. Jackson then counted the tying goal at 19:38 of the third period, assisted by Romnes and Kelly. Then came Marker's winning shot in the fifth minute of the overtime. No amount of rushing by the Hawks made any impression on Broda thereafter.

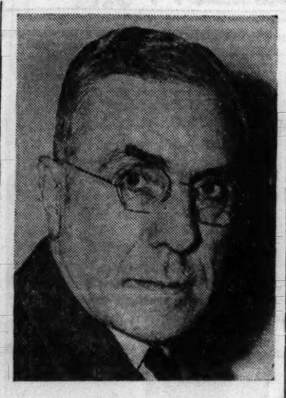
Calling the Tough Ones

Over the Fence Was Out to Jim Masker in 1910

[This is the first of a series of articles by officials in various sports on the difficult decisions they have had to make during their careers.]

BY JAMES C. MASKER.
[As told to Charles Bartlett.]

[James C. Masker is the dean of Westerr conference official He completed his thirty-fifth year of football officiating last season. A native of Salina, Kas., he is a graduate of Northwestern university, where he played end and half back. He has worked scores of important games all over the country, and in one stretch of four games in 1931 traveled 11,000 miles.]



JAMES MASKER.

THE hardest decision I ever had to make—and one of the quickest of them all—was not called in a Western conference game, but in a battle which decided the Missouri Valley championship.

The officials in a present day game have no such difficulty as I encountered that afternoon. At the time of this instance there was no such huge structures as we find enclosing gridirons of today. There was on that day—Nov. 5, 1910—just old McCook field, the home grounds of the University of Kansas eleven at Lawrence, Kas.

The Jayhawkers were meeting the Cornhuskers of the University of Nebraska. Today the feud is one of the oldest in the game, but it wasn't exactly in its infancy then, for the two had begun battling in 1892. And that was the way the game went throughout the first half, which saw Nebraska take a 6 to 0 lead on Owen Frank's touchdown.

One Bound and Over the Fence Into Open Country.

Kansas kicked off at the start of the second half, the ball heading toward Frank. There was nothing remarkable about that, unless you knew the topography of McCook field and the manner in which the ball hit. Close behind the goal posts was a fence running the width of the field. More important, however, was the fact that a creek ran along back of the fence, a stream bordered by jagged rock formation.

There was no provision for ground rules in the football code at that time, and the ball was a free ball until recovered by one side or the other. The kickoff in question struck in front of Frank and then bounced high as he touched it and continued on over the fence. Realizing he had to recover it, the Nebraska back acted quickly and ran straight for the fence.

The Whistle Saves the Day and a Back.

He clambered up the side and was at the top when I blew the whistle. I did that the instant I realized Frank was going to continue on over and might easily injure himself in dropping onto the rocks below. Meanwhile, Tod Woodbury of Kansas had rushed down the field. When he saw Frank's intention, he cut through a gate in the fence and went on over a footbridge which crossed the creek. Eventually he recovered the ball, and, bringing it back into the field, set it down behind the Nebraska goal and claimed a touchdown.

I disallowed that claim and ruled the play a touchback on the ground that the ball was dead the instant I blew my whistle. As far as I was concerned the football game was being played within the limits of McCook field, not within those of Douglas county. The game eventually ended with Nebraska winning, 6 to 0, by its first half touchdown, but in the minds of Kansas fans who had wagered on the game, it was a 6 to 6 tie. My decision later was upheld by such authorities as Walter Camp and A. A. Stagg, and the following year officials were empowered to make ground rules to fit such situations.

Spring Is Here--Almost; Cubs Leave for Catalina Tonight

The Cubs-to-Catalina movement, annually the official harbinger of another baseball season, will get under way tonight. Seven players, including Manager Leo [Gabby] Hartnett, and the club attachés will desert Chicago at 10:25 o'clock over the Chicago and North Western.

The squad will arrive on the island Thursday morning, enjoy an afternoon of leisure, and then knuckle down to spring training chores Friday. The Chicago travelers, in addition to Hartnett, will include Pitchers Kirby Higbe, Jack Russell, Al Epperly, and Vance Page; Catchers Bob Garbark and Bill Baker; Traveling Secretary Robert Chesterfield Lewis, and Trainer Andy Lotshaw. P. K. Wrigley, owner-president, will visit his athletes later in the spring.

Seven Still Unsigned.

Movement of the National league champions westward dwarfs for the moment at least the Cubs' holdout troubles. Seven are still unsigned and club officials say the tardy ones will not be allowed to set foot on the Wrigley island until they have agreed to terms.

It is thought all the recalcitrants will be in Los Angeles Thursday to go into personal powwows over their 1939 salary. The seven are Outfielders Hank Leiber, Augie Galan, and Carl Reynolds [who may be the Cubs' regular outfield trio], Infielders Stanley Hack and Gene Russell, and Pitchers Larry French and Gene Lillard.

Whitehill Goes Along.

Earl Whitehill, veteran southpaw pitcher recently signed after being released by Cleveland, will join the party in Cedar Rapids, Ia. Other pitchers are going direct to Catalina Island from their respective homes. Gus Mancuso, who may do the bulk of the Cubs' catching, also will be on hand Friday.

Traveling Secretary Joe Barry and Coach Billy Webb will lead a group of twelve White Sox to Pasadena, Cal., Friday.

Illinois Wesleyan Students Protest Dismissal of Bell

At the close of the meeting the committee stated no action had been taken and that there was no change in the situation.

INDIANA MOVES ON TITLE; PLAYS IOWA TONIGHT

Wildcats Meet Buckeyes in Columbus.

Northwestern at Ohio State.
Purdue at Illinois.
Wisconsin at Minnesota.
Iowa at Indiana.
Michigan State at Marquette.
De Paul at Wichita.

Indiana university's basketball team, perched serenely at the top of the Western conference standings, is prepared to take a long stride toward the championship tonight when it engages Iowa in Bloomington. Iowa, which was beaten, 53 to 40, by Ohio State Saturday night, is tied with Chicago for last place in the standings with only two triumphs in nine conference starts. The Hoosiers, who have won seven games, suffered their only defeat at the hands of Ohio State in their opening contest of the season.

Northwestern, which saw a four game winning streak shattered by Indiana Saturday, 44 to 37, moves on to Columbus tonight to oppose the Buckeyes, who hold undisputed possession of second place with six victories and two defeats.

Jimmy Hull will return to the Ohio State lineup after being out of the Iowa game with influenza. Capt. Benny Stephens of Iowa, who also missed Saturday's game, still is under the care of a physician.

Badgers Perk Up.

Wisconsin, although well out of the running for the title, still must be considered a threat to the chances of its more successful rivals. The Badgers turned back Purdue, 32 to 30, in overtime Saturday night, thus eliminating the Boilermakers, who had rallied after a poor start in conference competition. Tonight the Badgers encounter one of their favorite athletic enemies in the Gophers in Minneapolis. Minnesota, which is clinging to fourth place by a half game, was idle last week-end.

Illinois, which is third, despite the handicaps of ineligibility and illness of its stars, will be host to Purdue in tonight's fourth conference battle. Purdue has an opportunity to even up the all-time record of the series, in which the Illini lead twenty-nine to twenty-eight.

Sachs May Start.

Since the two teams began competition in 1906, there have been only five years in which Illinois won two games and four in which the Boilermakers turned the trick.

Purdue will be without its coach, Ward Lambert, again. Lambert still was confined to his bed today by doctors' orders and there was no possibility of his being able to make the trip. Assistant Coach Mel Taube will handle the team.

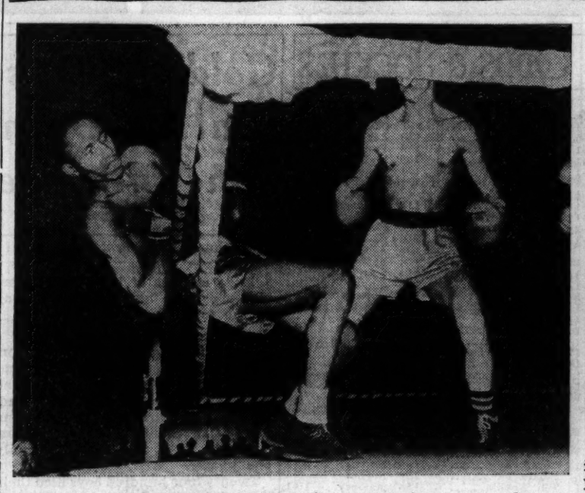
Sophomore Henry Sachs probably will start at guard for Illinois, but Colin Handlon, who has been doing well, may also see action.

Michigan State faces a dangerous opponent at Marquette. The Hilltoppers attained the peak of scoring form with a 47 to 22 conquest of Notre Dame Saturday. The De Paul quintet, which is on tour, is scheduled at University of Wichita tonight. Loyola university has a game with University of Baltimore in Baltimore tomorrow night.

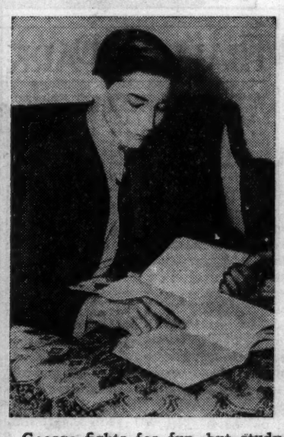
Stark Shoots 74 to Win Champions' Medal Playoff

St. Augustine, Fla., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—The playoff of a triple tie for the qualifying medal in the twelfth annual championship of golf club champions tournament was won today by William Stark of Jacksonville with a card of 36—38—74. John Z. Fletcher of Ponte Vedra Beach, Fla., and Bobby Dunkelberger, who won the meet, were the other playoff contestants. They finished one stroke behind Stark. The trio tied for the medal with 71s.

A Chinese Golden Glover Makes Good



On his way out. Nathaniel Robinson slumping to the floor as George Toy, Chinese, knocks him out in the second round of their lightweight final in the Cleveland Golden Gloves tourney.



George fights for fun, but study is his business. He plans to enter law.

George likes music. The Chinese lightweight, who will represent Cleveland in the Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions, displays an interest in a cultural subject.

In the Wake of the News

TWO Cleveland Browns, neither of whom is from Cleveland, will be back to confuse the officials when the Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions opens in the Stadium the night of Feb. 27. Cleveland No. 1 is the 160 pound champion of the Terre Haute Tribune-Star team, and No. 2 is the bantamweight member of the Cincinnati Post delegation. Both fought in the Tournament of Champions last year. . . . Forty-six of the sixty-seven athletes who won major letters last year still are competing at the University of Vermont. . . . Fifteen of the thirty-one players who will report to the New Braunfels, Tex., training camp of the Phillies are rookies. . . . Billy Conn, twice conquerer of Fred Apostoli, is one of the few boxing headliners who has had no amateur experience. . . . Twelve of the fifteen pitchers on the Cincinnati roster are 6 feet or more tall. . . . Ike Frankian, who succeeded Gus Henderson as coach of the Los Angeles Bulldogs, has been playing football for twenty-one years. . . . Bud Taylor, former bantamweight champion, is proprietor of one of the most popular night spots in Hollywood. . . . Bud weighs 195 pounds now. . . . The official uniform of umpires who work games sponsored by the National Semi-Pro congress this year are made up of black and white striped material to prevent confusion of the arbiter with members of the teams. Can't you just hear the greeting the boys will get when they make their first appearance in their stripes? . . . Orlando Pliipoli and Anerico Woyciesjes [yes, that's right] of the University of Syracuse boxing team are honor students. . . . Jimmy Foxx is a harness racing fan. . . . Cecil Hart is the only man who ever was fired by both the Montreal Maroons and Canadiens. . . . Manager Bill McKechnie of the Reds is doing a little shooting in Florida while waiting for his boys to arrive. . . . Philadelphia wrestling fans have taken to bombarding the perspiring gladiators with eggs and tomatoes. But they still go to the matches.

Al Sutphin, who owns the Cleveland club in the International-American Hocky league, is satisfied to remain in the minors. Al fears a National league berth would be too expensive, and he isn't sure it would help attendance, which has been very good. . . . Artie Donovan, New York referee, fought as Artie Davis until his parents found out. Then he quit battling entirely. . . . Jack Roper, who will fight Joe Louis for the title in Los Angeles April 18, was knocked out in one round by Jimmy Braddock in 1931.

Chinese Fight? Golden Glover Proves They Do

Cleveland, O., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—"East is east and west is west and never the twain shall meet."

Perhaps the immortal Kipling never heard of Golden Gloves. For east met west in the whirl of Cleveland's amateur boxing. "East" is Georgie Toy, a 20 year old Chinese boy who will come to Chicago's Tournament of Champions late this month as a contender for the lightweight title. "West" is Charles O'Connell, an old time professional boxer, who is serving in the dual rôle of trainer and guardian.

Under the veteran Irishman's guidance, Toy has become one of the flashiest amateur boxers produced in Ohio in years. But perhaps more important, O'Connell's wise counsel has the 20 year old Chinese boy headed for a law degree in Western Reserve university here.

Boxing for Fun.

For more than a year now, O'Connell has vetoed many proposals for his charge to turn professional. There have been calls from promoters in New York. . . . They thought a Chinese fighter would be a gate attraction. But O'Connell only wants Toy to have some fun out of the game and then make his mark in law.

Toy was the sensation of the recent Cleveland Plain-Dealer tournament that furnished a team of eight to battle for honors in Chicago. He

FIGHT FOR THREE NIGHTS IN TWO RINGS AT LOYOLA

Team Will Complete Chicago Quota.

Event—North Side Golden Gloves tournament.

Place—Loyola gymnasium, Sheridan road and Loyola avenue.

Time—First bout at 7 p. m.

Contestants—300 in Open and Novice divisions.

Number of rings—Two.

Tickets—All seats 75 cents; none reserved.

Boxers—Report between 4 and 6 p. m. for weighing and physical examinations.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The north side Golden Gloves tournament will open tonight in Loyola gymnasium. For three consecutive evenings fighting will continue and when the last bell clangs Wednesday night, eight novices and eight open division boxers will be ready to join the south, west and northwest side squads, thereby completing the team Chicago will send into the Tournament of Champions in the Stadium Feb. 27, 28 and March 1.

Two rings have been set up in Loyola gymnasium to speed the earlier eliminations. Thus, the spectators will be assured of continuous action. Many Golden Gloves fans follow the show from one side of the city to another, finding variety on every program. No two boxers have quite the same style. No two boys are quite alike in temperament and courage. The novices, in particular, are unpredictable. And that's one of the things that draws the fans to one performance after another. Just when things seem about to settle into a routine, the unexpected happens.

Three Weeks of Fighting.

Beginning three weeks ago on the west side, there has been a steady process of elimination to determine Chicago's best amateurs. For four nights fighting went on in the Madison A. C., for six nights the south side boys slugged in White City and for three more nights, the battle went on in Marigold Gardens. Now the scene shifts and the last sectional event may turn out to be the most thrilling of all.

When Chicago's winners move into the Stadium they will find the going tougher than ever, for they will be thrown into a field which will include the titleholders of forty-seven out of town centers where newspapers are coöperating with Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., in the sponsorship of Golden Gloves.

While eliminations have been going on in Chicago, they also have been progressing in the out of town territory which draws boxers from twenty-five states. Finals will be held in four of these centers tonight, champions emerging from tournaments conducted by the Centralia, Ill., Sentinel, the Fort Worth, Tex., Star Telegram, the Lexington, Ky., Herald Leader, and the South Bend, Ind., Tribune.

Milwaukee Holds Semi-Finals.

At the same time the Milwaukee Journal and the Gary Post Tribune will hold their semi-finals and the Michigan City Dispatch will put on its preliminaries.

Tomorrow will be a big night in Golden Gloves territory, five finals and one semi-final being scheduled. The finals will be run off by the Danville, Ill., Commercial News, the Detroit Free Press, the Gary Post Tribune, the Green Bay Press Gazette, and the Joliet Spectator. The Michigan City Dispatch will conduct its semi-finals.

The Detroit team is usually one of the strongest in the Tournament of Champions. This sectional event draws

Don't miss boxing's greatest spectacle. Tickets are going rapidly. You can buy them in the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and in the lobby of Tribune Tower. CELEBRON HOPES TO WHIP BOLDEN; THERE'S A REASON

He Can Spoil Nate's Hope of Stardom Tonight.

Billy Celebron, Rockford middleweight, will seek reprisal for humiliation suffered at the hands of Ken Overlin several weeks ago in a ten round bout with Nate Bolden, 1937 intercity Golden Gloves middleweight winner, in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, tonight.

If he is successful Bolden's campaign for national recognition will be curtailed.

Nate Needs to Win.

Somehow, Celebron never has been able to make the grade as a first rank boxer. Consequently, failure tonight may hurt Bolden's chances of advancement irreparably. In other words, Nate must win or face the same fate which has befallen Celebron, who has slipped to the rôle of trial horse after six years of campaigning in the professional field. Supporting matches:

Nick Castiglione vs. Sam Scully [5], 134.
Lorenzo Lovings vs. George Nelson [4], 141.
Patrick O'Brien vs. Andy Canal [4], 160

Talbot Is Injured.

A substitute is sought for Norman Roth, local middleweight, after the removal from the card of John Talbot, St. Paul newcomer, because of a nose injury suffered during a workout with Celebron last week.

Olaf Olson will wrestle Bob Jesson in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue, this evening. King Kong faces Young Caddock in a co-feature. Other encounters bring together Rudy Kay and Paul [Frenchy] Amnotte, Steve Novak and Buck O'Neil, Kid Chapman and Patrick Fianagan. . . . The wrestling show scheduled in Cicero stadium tonight has been canceled due to the influenza epidemic. . . . Johnny Winter, Maywood amateur boxer, will meet John Ellis of Evanston in Coulon's gymnasium, 1154 East 63d street, tonight. . . . Kimon Kudo, Japanese heavyweight wrestler, and Chin Lee, Chinese, have been added to the mat card in the Coliseum Friday. The program is headed by Steve [Crusher] Casey and Ernie Dusek, and Everett Marshall and Dorv Roche. . . .

Joe Louis is in Pittsburgh, where he will appear on the boxing card topped by a ten round bout between Holman Williams, his welterweight stablemate, and Andre Jessurun of New York tonight. Louis will return today, after which he will leave for California to prepare for his title defense against Jack Roper in Wrigley field, Los Angeles, April 18. . . . Larry Amadee, trainer for John Henry Lewis, light heavyweight champion, will second Williams. . . . Tom Kenneally, Catholic Youth organization heavyweight, who defeated Lee Savoldi in White City Jan. 27, and Savoldi have been rematched for a ten round event in St. Paul March 1. . . . Lou Talaber, former middleweight wrestling title holder, has been appointed mat instructor at Kid Howard's gymnasium, 73 West Randolph street. . . . Chuck Linn, former featherweight fighter, recently graduated from John Marshall law school, will take the Illinois bar examination next month. F. M.

Leaders Upset in C. Y. O. Sectional Basketball Games

With only one more week of sectional competition scheduled before the divisional playoffs to determine the 1939 league titles get under way March 2, several additional leaders were defeated yesterday in the C. Y. O. basketball league.

Outstanding among the teams that were defeated for the first time this season was Our Lady of Mercy Mission, which received a 50 to 39 defeat by St. Agatha's in the St. Agatha gymnasium.

Golden Gloves Battles Open on North Side

Work of Officials Important.

From the standpoint of the contestants, the work of the judges and referees is all important, for by the decisions of these men, each boy advances in the tournament or is eliminated. In conduct of the tournaments, however, the officiating is only one phase.

Twenty-four hundred boys filed their entries this year for the four Chicago tournaments. Nearly 1,100 were listed as eligible from the groups reporting at four medical examinations. They passed the tests of the staf of physicians and submitted parental consent cards. Second physical examinations are given on the night each boy reports for his first match and thereafter each contestant is examined as he progresses through the tournament.

125 Officials in Group.

Announcers, clerks, inspectors of the A. A. U., timers, gloves men, professional seconds, water boys, checkroom attendants, the group which holds number cards to designate each contestant in the ring, complete the list of 125 officials whose work makes possible the operation of Golden Gloves.

Seventeen men have served as judges of the Chicago sectional contests. These men also will have the same responsibility in the Tournament of Champions. Many of them have served on the staf of judges since Golden Gloves was inaugurated in 1928. The list of judges follows:

INSCO, SIRE OF KENTUCKY DERBY WINNER, IS DEAD

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Insco, sire of Lawrin, the 1938 Kentucky Derby winner, died today of a blood infection.

Insco, by Sir Galahad III., out of Starfly, was 11 years old and the $219,000 won by his get during the current racing season, placed him third in the year's list of winning sires. Technician and Inscoelda, a filly, now campaigning in Florida, are both eligible for the 1939 Kentucky Derby.

The famous sire injured his leg in a stall at the Herbert M. Woolf farm near here Wednesday with the subsequent blood infection producing an intestinal thrombosis, which caused death.

Ducks Stay in Illinois; the Reason--Corn

BY BOB BECKER.

The farmers who raise corn in the Illinois river valley have brought about a big change in the habits of about 1,000,000 wild ducks which come to the river bottoms every fall. Now that the farmers are using mechanical corn pickers to snatch the ears from the stalks so much waste grain is being left in the fields each winter that the ducks prefer to stay in Illinois rather than move southward toward their wintering grounds along the gulf.

This is the substance of a report to Dr. T. H. Frison, chief, Illinois natural history survey, by Frank C. Bellrose Jr., assistant game technician, who has just completed a survey of the Illinois river valley. The report explodes the theory held by many sportsmen that the wild ducks were going to starve if they stayed too long along the Illinois river. Bellrose says he could find no birds suffering from lack of food.

A Million Birds Stay.

This year nearly 1,000,000 wild ducks remained in the Illinois river valley during December. [In 1937 only about 250,000 stayed in the river bottoms during the early part of the winter.] When Christmas came and the million ducks, mostly mallards, showed every indication of lingering in Illinois for several more weeks at least many sportsmen began to worry about the birds starving to death.

Bellrose immediately started his survey between Ottawa and Havana to check the situation. He found the ducks quacking their praise of the farmers who used mechanical corn pickers, for every field through which one of these big machines had traveled was a feeding spot. They could glean such corn fields and find plenty to eat. Many of the ducks were seen making daily feeding trips to fields as far as forty or fifty miles from the valley. And practically all of them were getting enough to eat.

Snow Comes—They Go.

But the birds were smart, too, as far as the weather was concerned. When a recent snow covered their source of food supply in the corn fields, most of them left. The latest survey showed that less than 10,000 mallards and other ducks were in the valley between Ottawa and Havana.

Chinese Fight? Golden Glover Proves They Do

came out of the competition the most popular of the competitors. His actions in the ring are those of a professional, sharp and deliberate. He has a terrific right hand punch that travels only inches.

The east-west combination was formed after Georgie was graduated with honors from Central High school here. He was given employment in the evening by O'Connell, who was soon attracted to him by his gentlemanly behavior and honesty. The old time fighter entered his protégé at Adelbert college of Western Reserve university, but the lad worked so hard that he was ordered by his doctor to take a rest.

Goes Back to School Next Fall.

George will return to classes next fall at Western Reserve and O'Connell will not be satisfied until the youngster becomes Cleveland's first Chinese attorney.

Toy won two of his four bouts in the recent tournament by knockouts.

The Cleveland squad of eight champions and two trainers will arrive in Chicago a week from today to finish training for the Tribune's three nights of battling in the Stadium.

2 FILLIES GAIN FAVOR IN DERBY AT SANTA ANITA

Sweet Nancy and Ciencia Have Chance.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Twenty 3 year olds stood out today as possible contenders in the $50,000 added Santa Anita Derby Wednesday.

Experts, conceding that such colts as William E. Boeing's Porter's Mite, Mrs. Bessie Franzheim's Xalapa Clown, and Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Impound, are the logical favorites, refused to ignore the chances of two fillies.

Although a filly has never won the Santa Anita Derby, Norman Church's Sweet Nancy and the King ranch's Ciencia, given a five pound sex allowance, may surprise.

Porter's Mite Impresses.

Sweet Nancy, a filly that can run in the mud or on a dry track, won the Santa Susana stakes by several lengths from Ciencia and gave away pounds to older horses in the mile and one-sixteenth Santa Margarita to run second, beaten by a nose by Flying Lee.

Good workouts were recorded over the week-end by several derby eligibles, including a trial by Porter's Mite over the derby distance of a mile and one-eighth in 1:51 1-5. Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Impound and Hysterical went the same route in 1:53 2-5, and another Vanderbilt eligible, Race Riot, lagging a bit in the stretch, finished in 1:55.

Tom Taggert's Yale O'Nine, another possibility, went a mile and a quarter in 2:08.

Entries for the derby will be announced tomorrow. Arrangements have been made to handle a crowd of 50,000. Post time has been moved up to take care of derby day ceremonies, with the candidates probably going to the post about 4:12 p. m. [6:12 p. m. Chicago time].

Kayak II. Regains Prestige.

Looking ahead to the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap March 4, observers agreed that Charles S. Howard's Kayak II. redeemed himself after a losing start earlier in the week in winning the $10,000 San Carlos handicap yesterday. He beat twelve other eligibles for the Santa Anita.

Kayak II., with Jocky Adams rating him well to preserve his power, came up in the stretch and ran down Specify to win by a nose in the mile and one-sixteenth test.

PICARD TRIUMPHS IN $10,000 GOLF MEET; METZ IS 2D

Cards 284 to Beat Chicago Pro by 5 Strokes.

New Orleans, La., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Henry G. Picard of Hershey, Pa., one of golf's big money winners, picked up $2,000 today for victory in the Crescent City open with a 72 hole score of 284.

Picard, who took the lead in the second round and increased the margin to five strokes after 54 holes, posted a final round 38—37—75 to take the top prize of the $10,000 purse.

Picard's final round was three over par, due chiefly to failure of his approaches to reach the long holes in the face of the wind.

Metz Shoots 289.

Only one player in the field of more than ninety managed to equal par and no one broke par.

Down the stretch, Dick Metz of Chicago unloosed one of the few good scores of the day, a one-over-par 73 to overhaul Harold [Jug] McSpaden of Winchester, Mass., and take second place money of $1,400 with a 289 total.

McSpaden, who trailed Picard by five strokes at the end of 54 holes, shot a 76 and dropped into a tie with Jimmie Thomson of Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa., for third place at 290.

Four Under Par.

Picard's winning margin, his first tournament win of the current winter tour, was a four under par performance for the seventy-two hole four day grind.

Among the amateurs, Henry Castillo, captain of the Louisiana State university golf team, took first place with 296.

Scores of the money winners, showing the fifty-four hole total, today's round, and the money received:

JOHN BRICKLEY, CHARLEY'S SON, TO ENTER YALE

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Yale's football coaches can hardly wait—for 1942. That is the year that John Brickley of Bronxville, N. Y., is expected to be eligible for the Eli's varsity eleven.

Young John is the son of Charley Brickley, who more than 25 years ago kicked five field goals for a Harvard football team to whip Yale, a feat that the sons of Eli have never forgotten.

John, a husky youth, entered Cheshire academy a few days ago. That preparatory school usually sends its graduates to Yale. Proud Papa Brickley, who insists John is without a peer as a drop-kicker today, has been informed by his son that he would like to go to Yale. John needs one year of prepping.

Another Brickley, Charley Jr., also entered Cheshire with John. Young Charley needs two years of prepping. He doesn't kick so well—yet.

WINGS TURN ON BRUINS AFTER SIX LOSSES; WIN, 4-1

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 19.—(AP)—The Detroit Red Wings finally broke the spell the Boston Bruins have held over them this season, winning, 4 to 1, tonight in a National Hocky league game played before a crowd of 8,700. Boston had beaten the Wings six straight times.

Detroit took the lead early in the second period while shorthanded, Hec Kilrea taking a pass from Herbie Lewis and rapping the puck past Goalie Frank Brimsek. The next few minutes produced two more goals, Boston tying the score on Gordon Pettinger's short shot. Detroit went ahead to stay at 10:02 on a goal by Lewis.

Boston sent five men down the ice in the final period in a vain effort to tie the score, but the strategy proved costly, as Detroit broke away for two more goals.

Kokomo Sue.

Susie got a job one noon
In the café Greasy Spoon;
It was down among the city's toughest yeggs;
When she started in to wait
She was bashful and sedate,
Though her customers were all eight-minute eggs.

The first day a little runt
Ordered "cackles and a grunt;"
Such a name for ham and eggs seemed quite absurd;
When he called for "sweat pads" she
Was completely out at sea,
'Twas a name for wheat cakes she had never heard.

But she managed to survive
All their lingo, and to thrive,
Till two gunmen tried to date her up
one night;
Then she broke a tray of plates
On their good-for-nothing pates,
And she had to quit the job and take to fight.

Once she thought of going back
To the old paternal shack,
But she realized the jeers she'd have to meet;
So she buckled up her nerve
Ana proclaimed with lots of verve:
"When my shoes wear out I'll sure be on my feet."

FOR THE 1 MAN IN 7 WHO SHAVES EVERY DAY

A SPECIAL SHAVE CREAM

IT'S NOT A SOAP
NEEDS NO SHAVING BRUSH
Not Greasy . . Leaves Skin Soft

Daily shaving leaves many men's faces raw and sensitive. This is especially true of the man who, because of his business and social status, must shave every day.

To meet this condition, Williams has now developed a special cream for daily shavers. It's called Glider. With no soap base, it's a complete departure from ordinary shave creams. After washing face thoroughly with soap and warm water to remove razor-dulling grit, spread on Glider quickly and easily with your fingers. No brush. No lather. Not sticky or greasy.

A superabundance of moisture is contained in this rich, smooth cream. It softens each whisker right down to the skin, yet forms a protective layer over your face to keep blade from scraping. Swiftly and gently your razor glides over your skin without tearing or irritating. Like a cold cream, Glider helps smooth and soften your skin and prevent chapping and roughness. Glider is the result of nearly 100 years' experience in making fine shaving preparations.

Roark, British Polo Star, Is Hurt in Spill

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Capt. C. T. I. [Pat] Roark, British polo star, was seriously injured today in a game in which California's Midwick Four lost, 12 to 7, to a team of British international cup players.

Roark, who captained Great Britain's international cup team in 1930, but who was playing with Midwick today, fell with his pony in the fourth period. The pony rolled over Roark.

Injury Is Serious.

"Capt. Roark suffered a serious brain injury and the outcome is problematical," Dr. William Edler, attending physician at Huntington Memorial hospital, disclosed later.

Roark lay unconscious on the field 20 minutes before an ambulance could be summoned.

Although he lives in nearby Flintridge and was playing with the Midwick team, Roark was a strong candidate for a position on England's team which will meet the United States in international play at Meadowbrook, N. Y., in June.

Began Career in Ireland.

Roark, veteran of some twenty-five years of polo, was formerly one of the world's few ten goal men. He was rated at nine this year. Roark played his first polo at the age of 12, in Carlow, Ireland, and a few years later was a member of the internationally famous Carlow Pirates. He has lived in California for some time. Roark is a retired captain of the British army.

A Cop Almost Holds Up Game on the Midway

Johnny Getchell, the Western conference official who became confused in the number of downs in the Notre Dame-Carnegie Tech game last fall, became confused in train schedules Saturday, had his first intimate association with Chicago's police system, and barely made his assignment at the Chicago-Michigan basketball game on the Midway.

Arriving from Minneapolis at the North Western station at 7:30 o'clock Saturday night, Getchell had only 30 minutes to reach the Midway. There was only one solution. He would have to dress in the cab.

Trafic was unusually heavy at a loop intersection and Getchell's cab was detained at Wabash and Madison street. The door flew open and a burly policeman shoved in the muzzle of a .38. The policeman was as surprised as was Getchell, for Getchell was clothed only in his shorts.

"What's going on here?" demanded the officer.

"I'm a referee," Getchell began, but he didn't sound convincing.

"So that's what they call it now," replied the bluecoat.

Getchell had only his whistle and his basketball shoes to bear him out, but finally convinced the policeman. He arrived at the Midway one minute before the game, hurrying into the fieldhouse just as Maroon officials prepared to call the teams off the floor and send out a posse.

PACKERS GET A LIFT; BUHLER TO PLAY THIS FALL

Former Gopher Star on Way to Health.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Larry Buhler, Minnesota back field star and one of the outstanding players in the country for the last two seasons, has been assured by physicians that he can play football next fall and will report for practice with the Green Bay Packers of the National league.

Coach Curley Lambeau arrived in Chicago yesterday from Minneapolis, where he signed Buhler to a Packer contract. Lambeau also announced the signing of Charles Schultz, giant Minnesota tackle.

Buhler's football career was almost ended by an automobile accident last December, when the car in which he was riding skidded on an icy pavement and crashed into a steel telegraph pole. He remained in the hospital for several weeks and was returned there when it was discovered after his release that he had suffered a perirenal hemorrhage and fracture of the pelvis.

Gets Physician's Approval.

Dr. Edward Evans of the University hospital in Minneapolis assured Lambeau Saturday that Buhler would not be jeopardizing his health in returning to football next fall. He has been out of the hospital two weeks, Dr. Evans reported, and has regained twenty-seven of the forty pounds he lost. Buhler weighed 195 pounds when Lambeau signed him and is gaining daily. His playing weight last fall, when scouts informed Coach Elmer Layden of Notre Dame that he was 85 per cent of Minnesota's attack, was 212 pounds.

Lambeau intends to use Buhler at full back, where he will alternate with Clark Hinkle. Buhler played half back part of the time at Minnesota. He is an exceptionally powerful runner and with his weight is capable of smashing professional lines, Lambeau believes.

Schultz Is Ready to Play.

Schultz played throughout last season with an injury which made it necessary for him to wear a harness. Several weeks' rest after football season, however, cleared up the injury and he has been playing basketball in recent weeks. Lambeau is counting upon Schultz to take over one of the regular tackle assignments. He is 6 feet 3 tall and weighs 235 pounds, which qualifies him physically for the National league.

Lambeau, who has traveled nearly 10,000 miles interviewing players since the championship game in New York on Dec. 11, conferred with Jack Brennen, 205 pound guard from Michigan, in the Congress hotel yesterday and came to terms with the former Racine, Wis., high school star. Brennen will sign his contract later.

BRIBERY CHARGE BLOCKS ALABAMA MILK PRICE BILL

Acquit House Member of Soliciting $2,000.

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Efforts to reënact Alabama's milk price fixing law which expires next June after being in effect four years as an experiment, have been bogged down in a legislative scandal.

A member of the legislature was acquitted last week of charges that he solicited a $2,000 bribe to get favorable action on the law. The acquittal was voted by the house of representatives after the rules committee had voted to suspend the member for ninety days.

The milk price fixing act was adopted in 1935 after a long series of disturbances including the bombing of a Birmingham dairy in which two lives were lost and twenty persons injured.

Previous to adoption of the price fixing law price cutting wars broke out from time to time in various centers of population. Dairies were damaged, milk was destroyed, and handlers were injured. Producers and distributors joined in a plea for state regulation.

Board of Five Set Up.

Under the law a board of five was set up to enforce the law through licensing provisions. The board appointed by the governor, consists of a producer, a producer-distributor, a distributor, a consumer, and one representative of the public at large. The board hires its executive secretary.

The board is empowered to set up a milk shed when a majority of the licensed producers and distributors in an area petition for such action. Eleven sheds have been established in the state.

The practice heretofore followed by the board has been to conduct a public hearing on the petition for a shed, examine costs of production, handling and transportation and then fix the retail, wholesale, and price to the producer. As a result milk is sold for various prices in various parts of the state. The delivered price of milk in Montgomery is 13 cents a quart. In Birmingham it is one cent higher.

Test Case in Supreme Court.

Until recently the board has decreed the price the producer should receive for milk sold on his premises. A test case was carried to the state Supreme court which ruled the board had no control over what price a producer might accept for milk sold on his premises. In two other tests of other provisions of the act the court upheld it as constitutional.

Shortly after the legislature convened in January a bill to reënact the milk price fixing law was introduced in the house of representatives. The bill contained only one major change from the present law, making the state secretary of agriculture an ex-officio member of the milk control board.

Hearings on the bill were conducted by a joint committee of three representatives and two senators.

It was while the joint committee was considering testimony for and against the price fixing law that the legislative scandal broke. Two officials of the milk board and a wealthy dairyman reported to Gov. Frank M. Dixon that Representative Roy D. McCord of Gadsen told them that for $2,000 he could guarantee a favorable committee report on the bill and that he would work for it on the floor of the house.

Nephew of Federal Judge.

McCord is a nephew of Judge Leon McCord of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. Three attorneys represented McCord in his two day hearing before the house rules committee. Their defense was that McCord's proposal to members of the milk board and the dairymen was on an attorney-client basis and that he proposed only to rewrite the law to eliminate provisions in the price fixing section which he considered unconstitutional.

McCord told the committee he later decided even this legal assistance was improper and withdrew the offer. Nevertheless, the committee found McCord guilty and voted to suspend him for 90 days for repugnant conduct. The case was carried to the floor of the house when one faction of the committee insisted McCord should be expelled or exonerated. The acquittal quickly was voted.

Now the joint committee is more puzzled than ever. The cause for the bill undoubtedly has been hurt by the scandal. Friends of the bill believe it could be passed if the committee would report it out favorably and Gov. Dixon would express his approval of the measure.

Because the governor polled a heavy vote in the primary as well as the election, the legislature is eager to carry out his wishes, fearing the might of public disapproval if it should fail.

The governor has given no public expression on the bill.

RADICAL INROADS BLAMED FOR WPA UPSET IN INDIANA

Bowser Displaces Aid Recently Ousted.

Evansville, Ind., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Agitation by radicals in the ranks of the WPA in Vanderburg county has interfered seriously with work projects and resulted in the demotion of the county administrator. The agitation has come from the communist dominated Workers' alliance, which has sought to dictate operation of the WPA in Evansville.

These were the reasons given by John K. Jennings, state WPA administrator, for his discharge last week of Ralph Osborn, the county administrator, and the promotion of Robert Bowser, former state field engineer, to succeed him.

Bowser to End Radical Rule.

Bowser, according to Jennings, has been ordered to put an end to domination of the county WPA office by the Workers' alliance. Radical alliance members started to cause trouble in Evansville after the primary last spring when their leader, Hugh Monahan, was discharged.

Monahan is chairman of the grievance committee of the alliance. He protested his discharge to Osborn and was reinstated. Monahan was fired again last week. After he was fired he had a fist fight with John Kuster, district engineer. The replacement of the county administrator followed the fight.

Monahan and Kuster exchanged blows in a quarrel over Monahan's discharge and each filed an assault charge against the other. The cases will be heard in police court tomorrow.

Monahan today defended Osborn, saying he was a fair administrator because he restored discharged workers to the WPA rolls. He said his last discharge was illegal and that the whole trouble with the WPA in Venderburg county was too much politics.

Agitation by Alliance.

Agitation was started by the alliance radicals last November a few days after the election when hundreds of workers were removed from WPA rolls because, it was contended, they were not entitled to hold WPA jobs. The alliance fought to have these men restored and some were put back to work.

Township supervisors and poor relief commissioners have complained recently about attempt of the Workers' alliance to dictate who should get relief and how much. They said work was held up by agitators demanding hearings.

FAIL TO IDENTIFY SUSPECT SEIZED BY WAR BUDDY

Frank Wilkins, 4611 North Racine avenue, stood among the prisoners at the detective bureau showup yesterday. He was there because he recognized a former army buddy he had not seen for twenty years. His buddy was Policeman Edward Kane of the Town Hall station.

Kane was in plain clothes Saturday in the Uptown elevated station where the two men met and recognized each other as former army mates. Unaware Kane was a policeman, Wilkins told him he had been in trouble and was just a "jump ahead of police."

Kane identified himself as a policeman, said he was sorry to arrest a buddy, and took Wilkins to the Town Hall station. It was found Wilkins had a police record and had served two years for larceny. There were no identifications of Wilkins yesterday and he was returned to the Town Hall station.

O'CONNOR WARNS DEMOCRATS OF DANGER IN 1940

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—(AP)—John J. O'Connor, only Democrat defeated of those against whom President Roosevelt directed his party purge last year, suggested today that sensible Democrats get together soon and agree on a candidate for the 1940 presidential race.

J. J. O'Connor.

In a letter to Patrick H. Drewry [D., Va.], chairman of the Democratic congressional committee, the former chairman of the house rules committee said postponing any action until the convention of 1940 will play into the hands of the Republicans.

The letter was one of O'Connor's first public political acts since he was defeated for reëlection in New York City last year. Beaten in the Democratic congressional primary by a Roosevelt supported candidate, O'Connor won the Republican nomination and lost the general election.

WEST. ELECTRIC '38 PROFIT DIPS TO $5,734,033

But Its President Foresees Gains.

Sales and earnings of the Western Electric company declined precipitately in 1938, but there are signs of business improvement, Edgar S. Bloom, president of the company, said in his annual report.

Edgar S. Bloom.

The report showed 1938 net income of $5,734,033, compared with $19,514,197 in 1937. Sales fell to $175,163,000 from $203,467,000 the preceding year.

While pointing out his company's results are dependent on conditions in the telephone industry, Bloom made this observation regarding business in general:

"It seems clear that an important factor in business improvement must be a return of confidence that will induce capital to invest in productive enterprise. There are signs that such a development may be at hand."

How Western Electric uses each dollar of its total income.

Unit of American Telephone.

Western Electric is the principal manufacturing unit of the American Telephone and Telegraph company.

Citing various steps taken to improve employé relations, Bloom said that out of each dollar received by Western Electric in ten years ended with 1939 employés received 39 cents in wages. Materials took 50 cents of the company's average dollar, 7 cents was devoted to depreciation and taxes, and only 4 cents was distributed in dividends, he said.

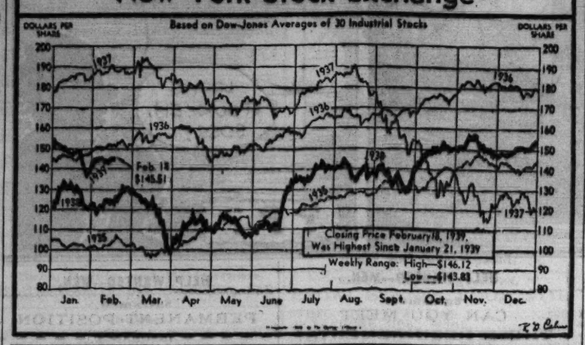
Asserting Western Electric was among the first to grant employés vacations with pay, Bloom said the 1938 expenditure for this purpose was $4,859,000. The company paid $1,867,000 in sickness, accident, and death benefits.

Average Daily Closing Prices of 30 Leading Industrial Stocks on the New York Stock Exchange



Grains Selling Below Cost of Production

Current prices for cash grain in leading markets are well below the per bushel cost of producing the wheat, corn, and oats crop harvested in 1938. Although the department of agriculture estimate on the cost of producing the 1938 crops will not be available for nearly a year, trade estimates indicate the cost was not far different from 1937.

It cost American farmers 66 cents a bushel to produce a bushel of corn in 1937, when the yield per acre was only slightly larger than in 1938. Production costs include an allowance for farmers' labor and a cash rental basis for the land.

Illinois and Iowa farmers were able to produce corn at about 34 cents a bushel in 1937, excluding rent. The cost in 1938 is estimated to be somewhat higher.

Production Costs Estimated.

Indicated cost of producing a bushel of wheat, corn, and oats in the United States in 1937 and the average for 1926-'36 follows:

	Excluding rent.	—Including rent.— 1937.	1926-'36.
Wheat	$0.79	$1.04	$1.03
Corn	.51	.66	.70
Oats	.30	.48	.50

At the present time cash wheat on the Chicago Board of Trade is selling around 72 cents, corn slightly under 50 cents, and oats about 30 cents a bushel. It costs about 10 cents a bushel to ship wheat and corn to Chicago from the average Illinois country elevator and about 15 cents from Iowa.

Price changes in the grain markets recently have been small.

Investors' Guide

BUICK OIL.

Investors' Guide: I have some shares of the Buick Oil Company of Los Angeles. These were bought in 1911. Could you give me any information on them? Was there a reorganization or a consolidation with some other company? Or is Buick Oil still in existence?—J. M. F.

Answer: Buick Oil company's California charter was suspended in 1922 for failure to pay taxes. Your stock is worthless.

IN LIQUIDATION.

Investors' Guide: My widowed mother owns several shares of American Candy company stock. Our neighbors say they heard something to the effect that some candy manufacturer in Milwaukee was going out of business. Is it this company? If so, what is their reason? As I understand it, this is an old, well established company and I can see no reason why they should decide to quit business.—F. M.

Answer: Liquidation of American Candy company, Milwaukee, was voted several months ago by stockholders. Declining sales and failure to reach an agreement with union labor influenced their decision. Company officials said income had fallen off steadily in the last few years, and that they were unable to renew a contract with the Bakers and Confectionery Workers' union which expired in June. The plant's 200 employés went on strike last August after a wage reduction. They returned to work about a week later under a temporary agreement.

The company was incorporated in 1919 under Illinois law as the successor to a Wisconsin corporation of the same name organized in 1889.

PREFERRED OUTSTANDING?

Investors' Guide: Does Marshall Field & Co. have preferred stock as well as common stock outstanding? —B. S. F.

Answer: Yes. Besides the common stock, Marshall Field & Co. had 8,965 shares of 7 per cent prior preferred and 287,225 shares of 6 per cent preferred stock outstanding at the end of 1938. Common shares outstanding total 1,644,057.

CANADIAN TAX.

Investors' Guide: How does Distillers Corporation-Seagrams, Ltd., with headquarters in Montreal, pay dividends on its preferred and common stocks? That is, are payments made in American or Canadian money? Also are dividends of this corporation subject to a special tax at their source of payment?—W. J. M.

Answer: Preferred dividends of Distillers Corporation-Seagrams are disbursed in United States money. Five per cent of each payment is deducted from payments to nonresident stockholders under the Canadian income war act tax.

Common stock dividends are paid in Canadian funds. Nonresidents are subject to the 5 per cent deduction on this issue also.

PLAN FAST NEW THROUGH TRAIN TO WEST COAST

Three Roads Join to Speed Service.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

A new through train between Chicago and San Francisco was announced yesterday by the Burlington, the Denver and Rio Grande Western, and the Western Pacific railroads. It will be the first through train via this route to connect Chicago and San Francisco, although there has been through sleeper service.

Ralph Budd, Tells of New Train.

The new train will make its first run from both cities on June 10. It will be called the Exposition Flyer in honor of the San Francisco and New York World Fairs. It will be operated on a fifty-seven hour schedule, making it one of the fastest non-extra fare trains between the two centers. Present through sleeper service over the route requires eighty hours because of delays for connections.

Train Equipment Outlined.

Equipment will consist of standard Pullmans, tourist sleeping cars and reclining chair cars. Power will be steam. However, it has been indicated that if the train is successful a Diesel-electric powered streamliner may be placed on the run.

Ralph Budd, president of the Burlington, said that the scenic country through which the train will travel will be offered as one of the principal inducements to the public. Its schedule has been arranged to have it pass through scenic regions during daylight.

Westbound the Exposition Flyer will leave Chicago at 3 p. m. and will arrive in Denver at 8:15 o'clock the next morning, covering the distance in only 2¼ hours more than the Denver Zephyr. It will run through mountain country between Denver and Salt Lake—over the Denver and Rio Grande Western.

Will Use Moffat Tunnel.

Passing through the Moffat tunnel, the train will run via the Dotsero cutoff. It will follow the scenic canyons of the Colorado river for 200 miles.

At Salt Lake City the Exposition Flyer will enter the Western Pacific's zone. It will run through the famous Feather river canyon the second morning out from Chicago and will travel all day through the Sierra Nevada mountains and the groves and orchards of the Sacramento valley. It will reach Oakland pier just after nightfall, and passengers will be ferried across the bay to San Francisco.

Eastbound the Exposition Flyer will leave San Francisco at 9 p. m., arrive at Salt Lake City the next evening at 8:15 o'clock, at Denver the following day shortly before noon and at Chicago at 11 a. m. on the third day.

Mileage Somewhat Longer.

The mileage between Chicago and San Francisco via the Burlington, D. & R. G. W., and the Western Pacific totals 2,532, against the 2,260 miles of the North Western, Union Pacific and Southern Pacific route.

For many years a dream of railroad men has been the development of a new central route between Chicago and San Francisco which would link the Burlington, Denver and Rio Grande Western and the Western Pacific in one system. However, there have been many stumbling blocks. Announcement of the joint operation of the new train by the three roads is the nearest to fulfillment of this dream.

PENNSY REDUCES ITS DEBT IN 1938 TO $692,818,134

New York, Feb. 19.—[Special.]—The funded debt of the Pennsylvania railroad was reduced $6,482,910 from the high record of $699,301,044 reached in 1937 to $692,818,134 in 1938, M. W. Clement, president, disclosed today in his annual report.

The reduction was effected largely through payment of $3,278,000 of equipment trust certificates, $1,349,500 of underlying bonds, and $1,100,000 of parent company serial bonds.

The report showed that the dividend of 1 per cent paid in 1938, which amounted to $6,593,877, was drawn from profit and loss surplus.

Net income in 1938, as previously reported, was $11,046,100 or 84 cents a capital share. From this was deducted $5,642,718 for sinking and reserve funds and $2,392,600 for advances to subsidiaries, leaving a surplus of $3,010,780 for the year. Net income in 1937 was $27,278,638, or $2.07 a share.

NEW HIGH YIELD WHEAT PRODUCED BY U. S. BUREAU

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—(AP)—The department of agriculture announced today its plant breeders had developed a new variety of hard, red spring wheat which they say will outyield Thatcher and other popular varieties. It is called "Pilot."

"Most important of all," said the department, "Pilot is as resistant to stem rust as Thatcher and more resistant to leaf rust."

Prepare New Through Train to Pacific Coast

Route of a new train which will start operation on June 10 between Chicago and San Francisco. The train, to be called the Exposition Flyer, will run over the Burlington between Chicago and Denver, over the Denver and Rio Grande Western between Denver and Salt Lake City, and over the Western Pacific between Salt Lake City and San Francisco.

Business Men Await Clew in Hopkins Talk

New York, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Leading industrialists today outlined the program they hope Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins will indorse in a speech at Des Moines, Ia., this week.

Interest in the speech was intensified by reassurances which President Roosevelt gave business in an interview aboard his train en route to Key West. It is indicated he has indorsed the program Hopkins will present.

Hopkins is expected to announce details of a program worked out in secret conferences with big business leaders at Washington during the last two months in preparation for a "drive for lasting recovery."

Members of the business advisory council of the department who collaborated on the plan refused today to discuss it, but on the basis of discussions with outside executives, it is possible to give the outlines of the program business hopes for.

First in order, the executives hope, will be changes in the tax laws and in securities and exchange commission law and procedure.

Bankers Urge Changes.

Wall Street financiers and banking leaders said they hope at least these changes will be made:

1. Virtual elimination of the undistributed profits tax, to attract investors.

2. A reduction of the tax on profits from the sale of securities held only a short time.

3. Plan for balancing the budget at the earliest practical time, even if additional revenue be necessary.

4. Graduate corporate taxes.

Changes hoped for in the SEC structure are chiefly along two lines:

1. Altering the law or present procedure to make large investors less fearful of entering the equity market.

2. Simplify the procedure necessary for the new financing and exchange of securities for the purpose of consolidations, etc.

Labor Among Issues.

For a utility program which could unloose capital spending, in addition to the above changes, utility executives said the government would have to reassure investors that it did not intend to "compete" further with private industry.

Labor policies constitute another problem business would like to see ironed out. The business advisory council, it was said, has done its best to convince hostile executives that the general principles of the Wagner labor act were good for industry.

Report Pledge by Hopkins.

However, Hopkins was said to have agreed to do certain things, if possible. Among these were said to be:

1. A campaign to bring about peace between the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization.

2. Modification of the national labor board procedure.

3. The Walsh-Healy act, designed to help labor by permitting the government to buy materials only from factories in which standard union wage scales are paid, has penalized in some instances factories against which labor has made no complaint, it was said. Hopkins is said to have agreed to attempt to obtain a modification.

Further Gains Predicted in Steel Mills' Output

An augury of sustained improvement in steel making through March and April was seen in steadily rising ingot production this month, the magazine Steel said yesterday. Operations last week forged ahead 1 point to 55 per cent of potential output, a new high this year. The price for scrap iron was stronger last week. An advance of 50 cents a ton at Chicago raised the magazine's composite price 17 cents to $14.96 a ton.

MORE SUBMIT INCOME TAX RETURNS; 49 IN THE $1,000,000 CLASS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—(AP)—More people filed income tax returns in 1938 but paid less taxes than in the preceding year, the treasury reported today.

Disclosing first figures on 1937 returns, which were filed in 1938, the treasury said 6,231,431 persons filed returns, of which 3,310,201 had taxable incomes. The total number and the taxable ones both were 17 per cent higher than the preceding year and the highest since 1924, but the tax liability of $1,142,206,073 was 5.1 per cent below the preceding year. Figures on corporation returns will be published later.

The number of persons reporting $1,000,000 or more income for 1937 declined from sixty-one the previous year to forty-nine, while the number of taxable returns by persons receiving less than $5,000 income increased from 2,165,404 to 2,607,901.

Moscow Signs Economic Pact with Warsaw

MOSCOW, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Poland and soviet Russia, which during the September Czecho-Slovak crisis appeared on the verge of a diplomatic break, today signed a far-reaching agreement designed to increase greatly their trade.

The agreement was reached after several weeks of negotiations. It is the first general economic pact between Poland and Russia based on the principle of the most favored nation.

Pact Has Three Sections.

It consists of three sections:

1. The trade agreement proper.

2. An agreement regulating the transport of goods.

3. A clearing agreement.

The Polish embassy said that it "regulates to the fullest extent the economic relations between the two countries."

Russian exports to be increased under the agreement include cotton, cotton waste, tobacco, manganese, asbestos, and graphite.

Poland will sell Russia more coal, ferrous metals, cement, textile goods, textile machinery, lether goods, and artificial silk.

On Sept. 22, when the Czecho-Slovak crisis was at its height, Moscow warned Warsaw bluntly that if Polish troops invaded Czecho-Slovakia, soviet Russia would cancel the soviet-Polish nonaggression pact.

See Drift Away from Germany.

However, after the Munich accord which produced Czecho-Slovakia's dismemberment, the atmosphere changed rapidly and on Nov. 26 a joint soviet-Polish statement reaffirmed existence of the nonaggression treaty and expressed a desire to "improve trade relations."

Some observers saw a Polish drift away from Germany into the arms of Russia, but Poles emphasized Warsaw's consistent policy of maintaining "equilibrium" in relations with its eastern and western neighbors.

U. S. WILL SUE 18 TIRE FIRMS FOR $1,053,474

Charges Conspiracy to Fix Prices.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—(AP)—The justice department announced today it would file a civil suit for $1,053,474 tomorrow against eighteen automobile tire manufacturers and dealers.

Thurman Arnold, head of the anti-trust division, said the suit would be filed in the federal district court for the southern district of New York and would seek treble an amount alleged to have been lost by the government as a result of collusive bidding by the defendants on tire contracts.

A section of the Sherman anti-trust act provides that any person injured in his business or property by reason of another's violation of the act may sue and recover treble damages.

First Such Action.

Justice department officials said tomorrow's suit would be the first time, however, that the government ever had brought action under this section. In this connection Arnold pointed out that the maximum fine recoverable by criminal action was $5,000.

The treasury department, which makes purchases for the government, rejected two years ago bids on supplying the government with tires for the period from Oct. 1, 1937, to March 31, 1938.

Arnold said the government would allege there was a conspiracy to fix the price to the government for tires in the period from Oct. 1, 1936, to March 31, 1938, and that as a result of the conspiracy the government was required to pay higher prices for its tires.

Defendants Named.

He said the complaint would name the following defendants: The Cooper corporation, the Dayton Rubber Manufacturing company, Dunlop Tire and Rubber corporation, the Fails Rubber company, the Firestone Tire and Rubber company, the Fisk Rubber corporation, the General Tire and Rubber company, the B. F. Goodrich company, the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, Inc., the Kelly-Springfield Tire company, Lee Tire and Rubber Company of New York, Inc., the Mohawk Rubber Company of New York, Inc., the Norwalk Tire and Rubber company, Pennsylvania Rubber company, F. G. Schenuit Rubber company, the Seiberling Rubber company, United States Rubber Products, Inc., and U. S. Tire Dealers corporation.

AAA Paying Off

Feb. 19, 1939.

ILLINOIS farmers will have received by the first of March more than half the 16½ million dollars to be paid them by Uncle Sam for complying with the federal government's 1938 crop control program. Government checks totaling $9,153,401 have been sent or are in the mail and should reach farmers within the next two weeks. This was announced yesterday by Lee M. Gentry, head of the state Agricultural Adjustment administration committee, at Champaign.

Lately many farmers have become impatient because they had not received their AAA checks for cooperating on the government's cropping plans last year. Many had expected their checks by the first of the year. Only 4½ million of the 16½ million dollars they were to receive had reached farmers in this state at the beginning of the new year.

Gentry explained that some of the delay came in November and December when the state office was receiving thousands of summaries of farmers' performances.

"This office was at one time taking as long as eight to ten weeks to return applications for grant to the county offices for signature," said Gentry. "During this particular period we were as many as 60,000 cases behind. This condition has been greatly improved now that the rush is over."

Most counties have transmitted all or a greater part of their applications for pay to the state office. Applications for signatures are being returned to the counties within three and one-half or four weeks after the summaries are received in the Champaign office.

He added, however, that at no time has there been any delay in the state AAA office in handling signed applications received from county AAA offices. Today Gentry says that after applications for payments are received from county offices they are cleared through his office within forty-eight hours.

AAA checks are made out for Illinois and five other states in the government's disbursing office in Chicago. Up to Feb. 15 the state office had scheduled 60,715 applications for payments. The payments to eighty-eight counties, totaling more than 9 million dollars, are listed below:
